American Tobacco Company Employs 5 Negro Salesmen

New York — The American Tobacco Company, makers of Lucky Strike cigarettes and Roi Tan cigars, has appointed five Negro Salesmen who will represent the company in some of the most important metropolitan markets in the country. The new salesmen chosen include Jacques M. Fairfax, of Asbury Park, N. J. and Joseph L. Sydnor, of Jersey City, who will represent Roi Tan cigars in the New York area; and Stanley W. Tate, of Chicago; Fred N. Grant, of New York; and William H. Thompson, of Lansing, Mich., all of whom will be assigned to the promotion of Lucky Strike cigarettes.

All of the new salesmen have had college education and their assignments, according to the company, will entail responsibilities in keeping with their training.

Newly Appointed Lucky Strike Salesmen

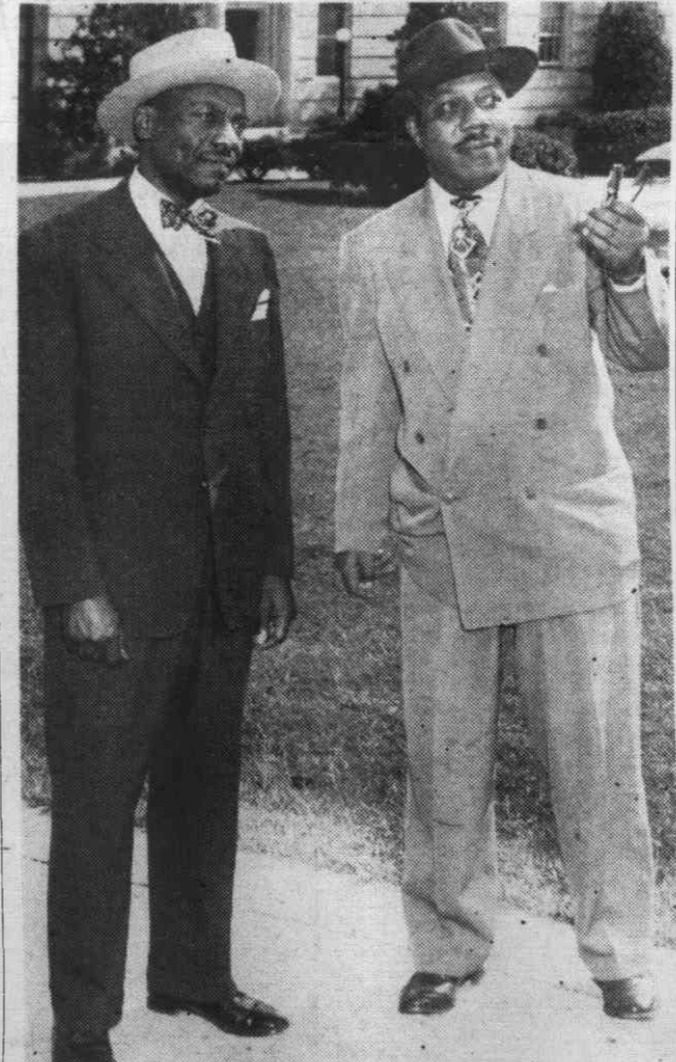

Newly appointed Lucky Strike Salesmen who will represent the American Tobacco Company in some of the most important metropolitan markets in the country are left to right: Fred N. Grant, New York; William H. Thompson, Lansing, Michigan; Jacques M. Fairfax, Asbury Park, New Jersey; Stanley W. Tate, Chicago; and Joseph L. Sydnor, Jersey City, New Jersey. Fairfax and Sydnor will represent Roi Tan cigars in the New York area while Tate, Grant and Thompson will be assigned to the promotion of Lucky Strike cigarettes.

Fairfax, who will work in the Harlem area, is a graduate of Lincoln University, in Pennsylvania, here he was active in boxing and football; while Sydnor, who will share the area with Fairfax in Roi Tan promotion, as a student at Hampton Institute, in Virginia.

William H. Thompson, who will cover the Detroit metropolitan area for Lucky Strike, saw military service in the last World War and was discharged in 1946. He returned to the Michigan State College of Business Administration that year and was given his degree last March. The new appointee was associated with the A. W. Curtis Laboratories, makers of Dr. George W. Carver chemicals, before joining the Lucky Strike sales force.

In Chicago, the area will be covered by Stanley W. Tate, who after army service which began in 1942, was a student at Talladega College, in Alabama, and DePaul University, at Chicago.

Thomas R. Hocutt, New York City subway traffic dispatcher, was the first North Carolina student to file suit for admission to the all-white University of North Carolina in 1932. His suit set off a wave of school equality suits which still sweep the South. Last week Thomas Hocutt returned to Durham and his alma mater for a visit. He is shown here with C. O. Pearson, Durham lawyer, who with now Federal Judge William H. Hasties, represented Hocutt in his attempt to enter UNC's School of Pharmacy. Though unsuccessful in 1932, Hocutt is the man who set the stage for multi-million dollar increases in graduate and professional training for Tar Heel Negroes. (Stanback Photo).

Chain To Hear Rev. C. E. Mc Lester

Dr. C. E. Mc Lester, pastor of the Morehead Avenue Baptist Church will be guest speaker for the regular monthly meeting of the Durham Business and Professional Chain this Sunday at 5 P. M. at the Algonquin Clubhouse.

The subject of his address is entitled "Requisites of True Citizenship," in which he will point out the interests of Negro business, community service and general prerequisites of a good and true citizen and his citizenship.

"There are so many of us who reside here or in their home communities, who don't really prove their citizenship worth," acting chairman of the Board of Directors, Nathaniel B. White declared last Wednesday noon when the board met in its monthly noon-day dinner in the Jade Room.

According to President Theodore Speight, every member of the Chain, visitors, and all Durham are invited to attend this session of the Durham Business and Professional Chain and hear Dr. C. E. Mc Lester.

Largest Crowd Expected At CIAA Classic

With the CIAA grid race coming down to the wire and championship hopes waxing and waning every Saturday afternoon, the North Carolina College-West Virginia tilt here Saturday will undoubtedly shape up as a crucial contest as far as deciding who will wear the coveted crown.

Fans over the state and surrounding territory have already sensed the fact that the contest between the Eagles and the West Virginia Yellow Jackets here Saturday is a semi-final contest to the CIAA crown and the largest crowd ever to witness a football game between the Eagles and an opposing eleven is expected.

The Tar Heels, currently holding down first place in the CIAA with a 6-0 record, need a victory over the charges of Mark Caldwell Saturday and must topple the power-laden A. and T. Aggies, whom they meet in their traditional Turkey Day contest here, if they hope to win their first conference championship.

On the other hand, the Kanawha River footballers, who are right behind the third place Morgan Bears in the championship race, can't afford another loss if they hope to remain as contenders. The Yellow Jackets were upset by Bluefield and tied the Morgan Bears for a conference record of two wins, one tie and one loss.

On the basis of past records, the Eagles, who have yet to win in three times against Mark Caldwell's men, hold a slight edge over the Yellow Jackets. The Eagles defeated Virginia States, 7-0, who beat Bluefield, who turned in a stunning 36-32 upset over the men from the mountains last week. Coach Herman H. Ribbick's charges also lost to the Tenth State Tigers by a scant seven point margin, while the Tennesseans dumped the West Virginia eleven by a two-touchdown margin.

Although the Yellow Jackets, who claim 25-0, 7-2 and 14-0 victories over the Eagles in the three-year series, were reputed to have lost everything but their jerseys through graduation, they still have their "one man team," Oliver Ellis, triple threat halfback from Washington, D. C. who sparked them to convincing victories over Union, Howard and Kentucky State.

Eagle fans will always remember Ellis as the lad who caught a story book touchdown pass in the waning seconds of the 1948 game with the Eagles in Durham which gave West Va. a 7-2 victory margin and sent them on to the CIAA championship.

The Eagles' "One two" punch of Butler Taylor, triple threat halfback from Newport News, Va. and Weldon Britt, brusing halfback from Bowling Green,

Racial Bars Fast Coming Down In Dixie Schools

An estimated 200 Negroes were enrolled this Fall in 21 formerly all-white Southern colleges and universities.

In 11 of the 17 states, where separate schools are maintained by law, the racial bars now have been lowered in the graduate and professional schools of the state universities. In three of the states private colleges also have changed to an integrated racial policy.

These facts were revealed in a survey just completed by the Southern Conference Educational Fund, Inc., of New Orleans.

"Due to the commendable policy of most of these institutions," stated Aubrey Williams, president of the SCEF, "of not recording the race of students on registration forms, accurate enrollment figures can-

Kentucky College Now Opened To Negroes

Paducah, Ky. — Federal District Judge Roy M. Shelbourne ruled this week that Negro citizens of Paducah are entitled to admission to municipally-maintained Paducah Junior College, whose enrolment has heretofore been restricted to white students.

In his findings of fact, Judge Shelbourne concurred in the position of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which represented plaintiffs Fred A. Wilson, Jr., and Henry L. Powell in their suit for admission to the college. Paducah maintains no institution of similar standing, where Negro student are able to obtain courses at the college level. The court noted that students attending Paducah Junior College are able to save from $400 to $900 per year by being able to attend college while living at home.

"The plaintiffs," said the court, "and any and all other persons situated similarly... are entitled to admission to the Paducah Junior College as students, upon the same terms and conditions as... members of the white race." Barring their admission constitutes denying their Constitutional rights under the Fourteenth Amendment.

Six Lose Life

Decatur, Ga. — Six members of a Negro family here perished Sunday night when flames swept through the two-room dwelling in which they lived.

Firemen from two fire companies arrived at the scene too late to save the small house. They removed from the remains, the bodies of two adults and four children.

The fire is believed to have originated from a kerosene heater.

Local Library Celebrates Children's Week

The Stanford L. Warren Public Library along with other libraries throughout the nation and in other lands will observe the 31st annual Children's Book Week celebration, November 12 through 18. This year's theme, "Make Friends With Books" is being stressed internationally.

For the 1950 Book Week as in previous years the Stanford L. Warren Public Library is especially anxious to increase and stimulate reading interests among adults as well as children. For this reason activities planned for children can be likewise of interest to adults.

New juvenile books at any age level can be as exciting to the adult who works with children as they are to the youngsters themselves. This seems to be doubly true of the best of modern picture books. It is in-

Free Examination For Diabetes To Be Given Nov. 12-18

An effort to make it possible for every person in Durham County to obtain a free examination for diabetes will be launched here November 12 and extend through the week of November 18, it was learned here Wednesday.

A free urinal test will be given by local physicians to every person in Durham County who desires, according to Dr. R. P. Randolph who is directing the program among the Negro citizenry.

The tests are being sponsored by the Durham Academy of Medicine and the Durham-Orange Medical Society in cooperation with the American Diabetic Society.

Containers for specimens of urine may be obtained at schools, undertaking establishments, factories, North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company, Lincoln Hospital and N. C. College infirmary. These places will also serve as collecting stations. The hours when containers may be obtained and collected are from 10:00 A. M. to 1:00 P. M. daily.

Wives of local physicians will be located at stations to see that the containers are properly labeled.

All persons are urged to take advantage of the free tests in order that the disease may be detected before it reaches the dangerous state.
