Missionary Day Observed At Mount Vernon

The First Quarterly Missionary Day of the Mount Vernon Church Family was observed Sunday, October 29. The five sessions of the day set a high standard for the year, 1950-51.

Music for the day was furnished by three choirs combined. Rev. E. T. Browne, pastor of Mount Vernon, preached from the theme, "The Working Church."

Mr. and Mrs. E. Scarborough sought and received admission into the fellowship.

The Knights of Daniel, under the leadership of Horace Higgins and Joseph Sims, led the devotions at the 4 o'clock meeting.

The three main points in this service were the adoption of the program, Pastoral Guidance, and a message for the Junior department, which was given by Miss Eva L. Merrick.

The Training Union had a study of Japan conducted by Dr. Rose Butler Browne.

E. L. Gavin, Republican candidate for the Senate from North Carolina, was presented at a mass meeting.

Granville County Natives Wed In Fall Ceremony

MR. AND MRS. CORNELL POWELL

Antioch Baptist Church of Oxford, was the scene of a beautiful and colorful wedding when Miss Irene Parham became the bride of Cornell Powell on Saturday afternoon, October 14 at five o'clock.

The overflowing number of witnesses sat in awed expectancy before the white draped altar, with its fully covered back ground of holly ferns. In the foreground stood tall metal vases in wrought iron stands, filled with white gladiolas and chrysanthemums intermingled with white Cathedral tapers set in seven-branch candelabra.

Rendall Howell played pre-nuptial music for half an hour

McGhee and Mrs. Claudia P. Murrell (Nashville, Tenn.). These wore identical fashions of pale green, and pale-orchid Elizabethan gowns of cape effect accentuating the off-shoulder necklines and carried bouquets of gold chrysanthemums with gold streamers. Tight fitting bodices with full flowing skirts of satin and net divided by ruffles were set off by double panels of satin, cascaded down the backs. Bonnets and mitts of self material complemented the gowns.

Mrs. Julia P. Lotter was her sister's matron of honor attired in a blue gown with satin bodice embellished with flowers of iridescent crystal beads — a white nylon stole covered the shoulders. Her full flowing skirt of white nylon fell gracefully over a blue net and satin skirt — the bonnet and mitts, of self material. The matron of honor carried, as her flower, a bouquet of red roses.

Little Wanda Lotter was petal strewer, and Chester Lotter, Jr., ring bearer. Lohengrin strains ushered in the charming bride on the arm of her uncle, Mr. T. A. Hamme. Her gown was Skinner's Antique Ivory satin with a modesty of chantilly lace with iridescent paillettes and pearls set in the canisole neckline, matched in sleeves and mitts. The princess lines swept into a long and graceful Cathedral train, and in her hands was a bouquet of stephanotis white rose centered with white throat orchids. Her finger tip veil of candlelight illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls. The bride was joined at the altar by the groom with his brother Thomas Powell as best man. The sacred vows were said at the altar before the Reverend G. E. Cheek assisted by the Reverend H. S. Davis, pastors of the bride and groom respectively.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a floor length gracefully full gown of deep pantomime crepe with V neckline embellished with sequins, beads, and seed pearls. She wore a hat of self material trimmed with pale blue ostrich feathers and a corsage of purple orchids.
