

National Scholarship Service Has Awarded $67,000 To Students

NEW YORK, (GLOBAL)—One hundred sixty scholarships, totaling $67,000 have been awarded to Negro students through the activities of the National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro students.

The Fund, under the chairmanship of Harry J. Carman, has provided full counseling service to 780 students for the college year beginning September, 1951.

This year, students referred by the Fund are attending Amherst, Bernard, Blackburn, Bryn Mawr, Columbia, Colgate, Hampton, Radcliff, Skidmore, Smith, Mount Holyoke, Oberlin, Princeton, Radcliff, Skidmore, Smith, Swarthmore, Vassar, Western Reserve, Williams, Yale, and the Universities of Chicago, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh, and Wisconsin.

Of the $67,000 awarded in scholarship aid, all but $11,000 was awarded by colleges, universities and foundations on recommendation by the Fund. The remainder represents awards made from the supplementary scholarship fund of the parent body.

Timber!-Take Your Time In Selling It

RALEIGH—C. W. Slade, farmer of Route 2, Robersonville, believes many farmers lose money by rushing to sell their timber as soon as an offer is made.

"If it takes me 40 years to get a good growth of timber why shouldn't I take my time selling it?" asks Slade.

According to R. McK. Edwards, farm agent in Martin County for the State College Extension Service, Slade recently decided to sell the timber of 50 or 60 acres of land. The first lumberman to look it over offered him $5,000 for all the trees 10 or more inches in diameter.

Not knowing much about timber, Slade decided to wait a few days. Through the county agent, he obtained the help of a State College extension forestry specialist who visited the farm and showed him how to estimate the amount of timber he had.

Within a week the same lumberman came back and offered him $8,500 for all trees above 12 inches in diameter.

At last report, Slade still hadn't sold—and the bids were still going up.

Hugh A. Johnson, former physical education and program director for Chestnut Street YMCA in Louisville, Ky., will begin duties at the Asheville YMCA in the near future. Johnson, who attended North Carolina College during the 1942-43 school year, is a graduate of Lincoln University of Penn. He has done advanced work at the University of Kansas, Illinois and Louisville. A native of Lawrence, Kansas, he is married to the former Miss Jessie Kilgo of Asheville. Johnson also taught and coached athletics at Warren County Training School at Wise for a while.

African Art Belonging To Local Minister On Display At NCC

Specimens of present day African art and samples of prize winning ceramics of students and teachers in the N. C. College Arts Department are among items on display in the James E. Shepard Memorial Library this month.

Dr. B. F. Smith, North Carolina College librarian, is in charge of exhibits which are arranged on each of the library's floors. The Reverend E. T. Browne, pastor of Durham's Mount Vernon Baptist Church, has permitted N. C. C. to display some samples of African art which he brought back to the United States last month.

W. B. Fletcher, professor of art at N. C. C., whose ceramics have won several prizes in national art shows, is exhibiting some of his own work and the work of some N. C. C. art students. Other art crafts are exhibited by Mrs. Marion C. Parham and Edward Wilson.

J. E. Parker of the Audio Visual Aids department and Clarence E. Payne, president of the photography club, have arranged several exhibits of unusual photographic prints. The exhibits are open daily to students and the general public.

Lincoln U.'s Dr. Bond Is Morgan Speaker

BALTIMORE—Negro History Week at Morgan State College will reach its climax on Wednesday, Feb. 13, when Dr. Horace Mann Bond, president of Lincoln (Pa.) University, will speak to students and faculty in the Hurt Gymnasium.

His appearance will be under the auspices of the Social Science Club. Dr. Alexander J. Walker, advisor.

Dr. Bond, a 1923 alumnus of Lincoln, returned to his alma mater in 1945 as president. In the interim he earned his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Chicago and had served as president of Fort Valley (Ga.) State College.

"Voice Of The Old South"

paign by the several southern states to prove to the rest of the nation that the South is doing fine and should be left alone in handling its problems — particularly those involving the races. At a meeting of the Southern governors about a year and a half ago, it was decided that each state would contribute, by legislative appropriation, to a fund to pay for this propaganda program. It is interesting to note that North Carolina is included in this program.

Back to the Florida program. The program was scheduled to be aired over Liberty Broadcasting System's nation-wide hook-up. However, according to Mr. Debnam, the NAACP stepped in and spiked the national broadcast idea, and thus confined his speech to listeners in and around Leesburg, Florida, a village of perhaps 5,000 souls.

On the second score, let us point out that a label given Mr. Debnam sometime ago, the "Voice of the Old South," is quite appropriate in describing the temper of his thinking. He is the type of speaker which organizations like the Daughters of the Confederacy, to which he spoke to last winter at Asheville, love to hear. He is typical of the white southerner, now fast disappearing, who becomes confused, illogical and almost ridiculous when confronted in a situation of equality on even terms by an intelligent Negro. Thus, his first reaction to the Supreme Court's recent action—or lack of action—was that of a routed enemy who, seeing his pursuer stop for breath, mistakes it for retreat. In short, Mr. Debnam has construed a stalemate to be a victory. We might point out that this is the normal reaction for white supremacist die-hards. Their neurosis is pathological. Progress in race relations will be greatly benefitted by the death of men like Mr. Debnam.

To all of our readers who missed Mr. Debnam's program last Wednesday, we tender our congratulations. For his program smelled like his sponsor's product—fertilizer.

Beauticians Plan Jaunt To Haiti

WASHINGTON—Plans for a three-day "goodwill" trip to Haiti by more than 50 members of the United Beauty School Owners and Teachers Association and Alpha Phi Omega Sorority and Fraternity were announced by Mrs. Marjorie Stewart Joyner, Founder-National Supervisor, following a conference here this week with Ambassador Gustave Laraque, who assured her full cooperation of the Haitian government.

The trip, scheduled for March 6-9, will climax the Seventh National Convention of the Association to be held in Miami, Florida, March, 2-5, where Sigma Omega chapter will be convention hosts.

Highlight of the goodwill visit will be a public mass meeting in Port-au-Prince, capital city of Haiti, which Mrs. Joyner has invited the republic's President Paul E. Magloire to address. President Magloire will share the platform with Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, Founder-President Emeritus of the National Council of Negro Women, who will make the trip with the Other features of the good-
