Bias On Wane, Says N. Y. SCAD

NEW YORK—Discrimination in hiring and upgrading practices in employment in New York are changing rapidly, according to the annual report submitted last week to Governor Dewey and the State Legislature by Edward W. Edwards, Chairman of the New York State Commission Against Discrimination.

The report stressed three phases of its 1951 activities, namely, 1. The impact of the New York State Law Against Discrimination on past patterns of employment discrimination based on race, creed, color or national origin; 2. The emphasis in the Commission's educational program on the need for encouraging adults and young people to train and apply for jobs according to their interests aptitudes and skills, regardless of past patterns or recurring incidents of job discrimination; and 3. The support which the law and its administration have received, not only from erstwhile opponents, but from labor, management, and the general public.

The report, while pointing out that substantial progress had been made in eliminating job discrimination, noted that "deeply imbedded practices of job discrimination are not readily and permanently changed, requiring constant vigilance and repeated educational efforts to insure lasting results."

Civil Rights Conference In D. C. Brings Together Men Of All Races

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The assembly of some 900 delegates in an interracial and inter-faith conference on civil rights here on February 17-18 gave added significance to the observance of national Brotherhood Week.

The conference, initiated by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and co-sponsored by 51 other national organizations, brought to Washington delegates from 35 states who voiced a unanimous demand for revision of the Senate rules to make it easier to break filibusters against civil rights measures.

The delegates—Negro, white, and Japanese-American; Protestant, Catholic and Jewish; native and foreign-born; trade unionists and business and professional men and women—spent two days in Washington attending meetings, visiting their respective senators and representatives, and conferring with officials of the national Democratic and Republican committees.

In a declaration unanimously adopted by the conference, the delegates called upon the Senate "to revise Senate Rule 22 which stands as the principal roadblock to the enactment of urgently needed civil rights legislation. Until this obstacle is removed, there can be no hope for congressional action against the forces of bigotry."

The delegates asked also for "the establishment of a federal Fair Employment Practices Commission with enforcement powers; for the abolition of the poll tax as a requirement for voting, and for a federal anti-lynching law. Further, we call upon both major parties to include in their platforms a plank advocating a rule which will make it possible to curb filibusters by the vote of a majority of senators present."

Warning that they would accept no "cease fire" in the fight for civil rights, the delegates affirmed that they intended to "carry this vital fight into the precincts where the people of America live and vote."

His campaign manager was Velma Speight. The four other contestants and sponsors were: Lonnie McClenny, Morrison Hall; Roy "Rocky" Wright, new girls dormitory; John Mitchell, Vanstony Hall and William Griggs, North dormitory.

DECISION IS RESERVED IN VA. BUS SUIT

RICHMOND, Va. — Decision was reserved this week on a suit by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, challenging the constitutionality of the State of Virginia's segregation laws on buses. Judge John L. Ingram of Hastings Court said decision would be rendered at a later date.

The case involves David McD. Simms, a Virginia Union University student and president of the Virginia State NAACP Youth Conference, who was arrested last March for refusing to move to the rear of a Virginia Transit Company bus. Simms was fined $10 after a hearing in Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court, and his case was appealed to Hastings Court by the NAACP, NAACP.

Spottswood W. Robinson III, southeast regional counsel for the Association, forced prosecution witnesses to admit in cross-examination that their contention that "disorder" would result from non-segregation was based on assumption, since they had never seen a situation in which segregation of passengers was not practiced.

The Virginia State Conference of NAACP branches has several other transportation segregation cases pending in Richmond courts at the present time.

Attorneys To Argue For Repeive For Soldiers Convicted At Guam

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Argument on the petition to obtain release of two Negro Air Force servicemen under sentence of death will be held in the United States District Court here on March 4. At stake will be the freedom and life of former Staff Sergeant Robert W. Burns and Private Herman Dennis, Jr.

Also in consideration is the question as to whether or not a soldier may seek relief through civil courts to require the military to conform to our fundamental notions of due process of law and a fair trial. In answer to a petition filed on January 31 on behalf of the convicted GIs by NAACP attorneys Thurgood Marshall, Robert L. Carter and Frank Reeves, government counsel have filed a motion to dismiss the NAACP brief, directed against Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett; Secretary of the Air Force Thomas K. Finletter; and Chief of Staff, General Hoyt S. Vandenberg. The NAACP motion seeks the release of the accused men from military custody to civilian authorities.
