FREEDMAN'S HOSPITAL ARTHRITIC CLINIC TO TRAIN PHYSICIANS

Dr. James A. Watson, head of the new arthritis clinic at Freedman's Hospital, examines the knee joint of an arthritic patient. The clinic, closely integrated with Howard University, is the first of its kind to be set up in a Negro-operated hospital in conjunction with a medical school. The Washington chapter of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation assisted in the establishment of the clinic as a part of the Foundation's nation-wide program to expand facilities for the training of physicians and the treatment of patients in this crippling disease. Clinics have been set up at Georgetown and George Washington medical schools in the nation's Capital.

WEEKLY GIRL SCOUT GLANCES

The First Conference on Recreation for the Aging convened in Chapel Hill at the University of North Carolina on Thursday February twenty-first and lasted three days. The purpose of this meeting, which was sponsored by the University of North Carolina jointly with the North Carolina Recreation Commission, was to discuss ways and means of organizing and conducting recreational activities for older persons. Eight states were represented in the meeting. They were Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, West Virginia, Tennessee, Louisiana, Alabama, and Florida. The following Durham recreation leaders attended: Mr. and Mrs. I. R. Holmes, Mrs. Ernestine Holmes, Mrs. Ray Moore, and Mrs. Carrie Hargrove.

The golden age movement is well under way in Durham. There are two active clubs for Negro golden agers, the Walltown and the W. D. Hill Community Center groups. Several areas, including Lyon Park, Burton, and East End are making plans for clubs in the early spring. Mrs. Ernestine Holmes is working with the Walltown group, while Mrs. Carrie Hargrove is leader of the W. D. Hill club.

At the last meeting, the Walltown club elected the following officers: President, Mrs. Jennie Carter; Secretary, Mrs. Mittie Jackson; Treasurer, Mrs. Savannah Peace. There are fifteen persons enrolled. The current project of the club will be a friendship quilt. Every one will work on it during meetings. The club has also made contributions as a group to the March of Dimes, and to St. John's Church.

The officers of the W. D. Hill Golden Age Club are: Mrs. Pearl Williams; Vice President, Mrs. W. L. Patterson; and Secretary, Mrs. Annie Alston.

The DeShazor's Beauty College presented the Aoshkie Philharmonic Male Glee Club at the Center on Wednesday night. Clifton T. Epps, Jr. is director of this group. After the program, there was dancing. Those attending reported a very pleasant evening.

On Thursday night, the Durham Business School gave a dance at the Center. The Les Petites Senoritas are planning a social recreation night on Friday night. They are planning something just a little different in the way of entertainment, and expect to have an enjoyable time.

Induct 11 Students In Honor Groups

Eleven North Carolina College students were inducted in national honorary societies here recently.

Seven juniors and one senior became full-fledged members of Alpha Kappa Mu, national liberal arts honorary society.

Two of the students initiated into the arts honor group also qualified for membership in the national scientific honorary, Beta Kappa Chi.

Initiated into Alpha Kappa Mu were Joyce A. Daughtery, New York City; Delores J. Dyson, Greensboro; Jeanne E. Morgan, Kings Mountain; Sarah Watkins, Rockingham; James L. Atwater, Chapel Hill; Joseph Battle, Rocky Mount; and William A. Lewis, Warsaw.

nized as expert in the area, we call attention to abundant evidence in contemporary life. At seventy, General MacArthur was providing leadership in democratizing Japan. Winston Churchill is furnishing the leadership and Elan Vital to the British Empire at Seventy eight. John Dewey, ninety-two is producing a type of thinking that any individual in the effective, moving, vital years would be proud to duplicate. William Heard Kilpatrick is still writing and lecturing although he is eighty. Abbe Ernest Dimnet, physically fragile, at 85 has an article in the current issue of Vogue on "Art of Concentration." There are examples from the past of men and women well along in years who made remarkable achievement. Verdi composed Othello and Falstaff after he was seventy-four. Goethe finished Faust just before his death at eighty-three. Michael Angelo painted his Last Judgment at 80 years old. George Bernard Shaw was writing and expressing himself vitriolically at ninety.

Great and near great achievements in all areas of human endeavor attest to the fact that those who have attained maturity can continue to learn new things.

interest in young newspapermen was deep and sincere. It was extreme good fortune to be an early beneficiary of his interest when, in 1926-27 he gave me my first real newspaper job as New York Correspondent for The Chicago Defender.

Every veteran scribe never forgets the giddy thrill he experienced when as a starry eyed cub he received his first assignments. Harper gave me that thrill. I wish I could have known him better.

Harper also encouraged hundreds of would-be writers in the theatrical profession. An instance was the widely read column, "Seen And Heard While Passing" by the late Salem Tutt Whitney. That and other columns began through the Defender's publishing the weekly route of road shows. Whitney expanded these notices to include human interest comment and poetry. He later published them in a book, "Mellow Musings." The Negro performer is greatly indebted to Lucius C. Harper for encouragement and opportunity.

Harper has left his memorials in the hearts of the people.

CAROLINA PLAYMAKERS TO PRESENT COMEDY AT HILLSIDE HIGH SCHOOL, MARCH 22nd

The 45th touring troupe of the famed Carolina Playmakers of the University of North Carolina will bring their colorful production of a new musical comedy, "Spring For Sure," to Durham, North Carolina for a one evening performance under the sponsorship of the Durham Alumni Chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity.

With a book by Catherine McDonald and music by Wilton Mason, this tuneful folk play concerns the turmoil brought into the lives of easy-going Tennessee mountaineers by the sudden intrusion of a group of wealthy New York socialites.

The comedy abounds with bright costumes, clever settings, lazy Tennessee humor, and a parade of new songs and dances. It features a cast of 22 talented performers under the imaginative direction of John W. Parker.

The musical was first tried out in the Playmakers Theatre at Chapel Hill, North Carolina, in the spring of 1950, when it was acclaimed by audience and critics alike. Such phrases as "a hit for sure," "a literally howling success," "a refreshing, lighthearted air that makes for pleasant entertainment," were not rare among the critical appraisals.

During the early summer of 1950, the well-known summer theatre producer, Robert Daggett, produced the play with equal success at his playhouse in Westboro, Massachusetts.

The Playmakers have revived their production, with added songs and dances, because of popular demand. It is scheduled for performance at Hillside High School Auditorium on March 22, 1952 at 8:00 o'clock P.M.

Postal Workers Want More Speed In Integration

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Officials of the National Alliance of Postal Employees have told John M. Redding, Assistant Postmaster General in charge of the Bureau of Postal Transportation, that high level integration of Negro employees is not being effected with the speed which the Alliance had been led to expect.

Conferring with Redding were NAPE President Ashby B. Carter of Chicago; H. C. Gibson of Chicago Terminal NAPE Branch; and W. C. Day of Houston, Texas, President of District One of the NAPE. District Superintendent-at-Large Thomas P. Bommar sat in on the conference as a Department representative.

Specifically involved are the post as "Confidential Assistant to the First Assistant Postmaster General, formerly held by a Negro, Marsden W. Cabell of West Virginia, but which is now vacant. A white employee is said to be executing the duties of this post. The Alliance wants a member of the NAPE to be appointed to the post.
