NACW Seeks College Graduates For Overseas UNESCO Posts

NEW YORK Qualified college graduates interested in overseas positions with the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), are being sought by the National Association of Colored Women, which is compiling a list for the UN organization, it was made known this week by Mrs. Iola W. Rowan, administrative secretary of the NACW.

Mrs. Rowan, who is from Washington, D. C., was here to attend the third conference of the U. S. National Commission for UNESCO, as a delegate from the women's organization, which has had representatives at previous national and international conferences. Mrs. Ella

P. Stewart of Toledo, Ohio, is the President of the Association. UNESCO has not yet completed its personnel panel nor has it decided upon all of the positions which will be available, Mrs. Rowan explained, but she is seeking to have a representative list of persons on file so as to be ready to help fill the requested positions of the U. N. organization when they are opened.

The NACW in recent years has not only dedicated itself to active cooperation with the United Nations, Mrs. Rowan pointed out, but it has expanded its work in community affairs, especially in cooperation with the Planned Parenthood Federation.
