HAITIAN HOSPITALITY

Another country through the eyes of local Cosmeticians... The United Beauty School Owners and Teachers Association and The Alpha Chi Pi Omega Sorority and Fraternity celebrated their sixth anniversary recently at Miami, Florida, and Port-au-Prince, Haiti.

Margaret Minor, Magnolia D. Leak, Earlie Grandy all of Durham and one Susan Hoover of High Point, North Carolina and yours truly left Durham by car. However, yours truly only got as far as Jacksonville, as serious car trouble developed, but the report as seen through the eyes of the others, goes something like this:

There were approximately 250 delegates from 43 states in attendance at the Elizabeth Hotel, Miami, Florida for the three days session, which consisted of Lectures, Demonstrations, Tours, etc. The tour of the Flexible Theater, (supposedly the only one in the world), highlighted the tours. Of course they were recipients of usual social events, the host city having spent several hundred thousand dollars for their entertainment.

Two chartered Air Planes carried 84 of the delegates to Port-au-Prince, Haiti. One note of humor was stressed at this point by Earlie Grandy, who stated enroute, to Haiti, "They sprayed us and sprayed us and sprayed us, as if we were cattle, however they arrived in Port-au-Prince, and all of the preliminaries were done, with each party of two or more delegates assigned a chauffeur and car for the entire time. Said chauffeur transported their assigned party to and from their hotels or residences to all meetings, social and tours as a courtesy of the Haitian government. This was the first time in history that a Greek lettered organization had been on foreign soil as an organization, thanks to the United Beauty School Owners and Teachers Association and the Alpha Phi Omega Sorority, for this distinction... The delegation was entertained by the President of Haiti, Mr. McGuire at the Palace long with 500 other dignitaries, high officials and share by hair cutting, pin curling and styling hair of the Haitian

The daily sessions consisted of demonstrations and exchange of ideas in the beauty field. Our own local girls contributed their women. A mass meeting was held at the Educational Hall with Venice Sprogs, substituting for Dr. Bethune who was unable to make the trip, and our National Supervisor, Mrs. Majorie Stewart Joyner and the Principal of one of the local Haitian schools, conducted the lectures.

The exchange of ideas and forms revealed that there is no college of Cosmetology in Haiti. School owners among the delegation created a worth of good-will for these United States by giving 17 complete Beauty Culture Scholarships to Haitian girls, some of the college heads selected their student, and as soon as the necessary credentials and passports are cleared, 17 lucky young women will journey to America to begin their courses in Beauty Culture. Two scholarships were given from North Carolina.

I wonder if the citizens of North Carolina and Durham have reflected over the contribution the North Carolina representatives have made. The group from North Carolina included, M. D. Leake, Minor E. Grandy of Durham, North Carolina, Mrs. Susan Hoover of High Point, North Carolina, Mrs. Ola Mae Forte Hill of Winston-Salem, North Carolina and Wood Morgan of Charlotte, North Carolina. One of our leading Beauty Colleges is planning to open a Beauty College in Haiti.

Among other things of significance, the delegation headed by Mrs. Joyner, held a memorial service at the tomb of Toussaint L'Ouverture back in the United States... Homecoming Ceremonies were held at Bethune-Cookman College, the brochure of this celebration is not yet in the hands of this writer.

Back home in Durham, the local cosmeticians, entertained the local delegates with a welcome home luncheon at the Jade Room of the Do-Nut Shop with nine pledges to the Alpha Chi Pi Sorority from Raleigh, North Carolina. Guests were: Soror Leake, Grandy, Minor all gave travelogues to the delight of the more than a half a hundred sister beauticians. The gift, fineries, etc. displayed by the trio made one's mouth water, and especially mine, as I was the gal who went, but did not arrive.

The charming trio is still bubbling over with facts and figures, also giving weekly travelogues to groups. We hope Durham join us in grateful salutation for their contribution. As for me, I couldn't be more grateful unless I had journeyed to the ultimate point.

In summarizing up their experience they said in so many words, "We would like to go back. It was truly wonderful."

Durham Man Bound Over In Wake Court

RALEIGH

Probable cause was found in City Court here on Tuesday against Howard Robert Allen, Durham Negro charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill.

The defendant was bound over to Wake County Superior Court under a $1000 bond.

According to officer Sam Clarkson, Allen struck an old man in the back of the head with a brick in the 1000 block of East Martin Street on Easter Sunday.

Introducing An Amiable Personality

BY FRANK BROWER

"Since Truman is not running again, I'm like thousands of others who don't know for whom to vote for president since politics have become such a mad scramble of personalities," declared E. M. Mitchell of Route Three, Pine Street Road this week.

Our personality has been a Porter at North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company since 1944. He was born in Wilson, North Carolina in April, 1902, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Aden Mitchell, and was one of nine children. He placed fourth in the race. There is Frank of Floyd, Albert of Richmond, Floyd of New York City, Mrs. Pearl Barnes of Wilson, and Mrs. Madie Davis of Norfolk, Va.

Mitchell went to public school in Wilson, and decided to go to New York in 1920 when he got a job as Porter in the world's tallest building, the Empire State. He stayed there until 1930 when he returned to Durham because of his mother and father were ill. He began working then as a chauffeur for Mrs. E. M. Cameron of Hope Valley. He lost his father in 1944, who had attained the ripe old age of 82. His mother was 75 when she died in 1947.

Mitchell's hobbies are fishing and "especially hunting. I'm crazy about it." Fishing was on his schedule for Easter. His favorite sport is baseball and that means the Brooklyn Dodgers including Jackie Robinson and Roy Campanella.

Our amiable personality married his second wife, the former Miss Annie Lunsford of Roxboro, on the 10th of June, 1938. He has one daughter by his former marriage, Mrs. Ernestine Mitchell Leak of Brooklyn, New York.

Mitchell is a member of Mount Vernon Baptist Church and is "fond of Sunday School there." He further declares, if you want to go right, go North Carolina Mutual. They have very friendly agents.—Adv.
