ANOTHER BOY DROWNS "IN OLD ROCK HOLE"

10 Year Old Lad Second To Lose Life

The "old rock hole" on New ton Road swallowed up anothe victim here Thursday May I when a 10-year-old boy was drowned after he had fallen into its murky waters.

MACK RAY, JR.

407 Quincy Street, leaned over too far and fell in the rock hole when he attempted to catch a minnow with a tin can.

Young Ray was drowned around 5:30 about 10 feet from where James Kent Jr., lost hi life by drowning on April 11. The young boy had been playing about the hole with another 10year-old boy, Theodore Langs-ton of the same address. Theo-dore attempted to rescue his drowning friend by holding out a stick to him but could not reach him. Neither of the two

When Noel Francis, superin tendent of the Juvenile Deten tion Home saw the boy drown ing he sounded an alarm which was heard by two Duke University students, Robert L White and Miss Eleanor More-head, who were parked in a car nearby. They hurried to the scene but the lad had already gone under the water. They di ved in in an attempt to find him but were unable to do se.

The body was found two hours later when David Dean, member of the Lifesaving Corps and Robert Birmingham pulled him out with grappling hooks from a boat around 7:30 P. M. Other members of the saving Corps assisting in the search were Ed W. Dula, Jimmy Dean, Buddy Boyd, Rex Jarrell Fred Anders, Arnold Ewing and C. R. Woods, director of the Durham Recreation Department

Boys from the counties of Warfen, Vance, Franklin, Durham, Wake, Chatham, Moore, Lee, Cumberland, Harnett and Granville were in attendance.

During the camporee the circus held at Duke University Freshman Athletic field at 7: 30 P. M., was one of the most spectacular scout events ever witnessed in Durham with more than 5,000 persons of both races attending.

Included in the camporee were woodcraft displays, and exhibits of camp gadgets. The scout patrol also exchanged ideas on camping techniques.
Under the direction of S. A.

Winn, cubmaster, about 30 cub couts attended and participated in the circus by doing cub stunts. In addition to the exhibits of camp skills, woodcraft and camp gadgets, the audience witnessed scout troop erection of signal towers, log cabins, a bicycle derby, bridge building and construction of rustic camp furni-ture all in the space of a few
