

An Informal Glance At The W. D. Hill Recreation Center

BY MRS. M. H. JOHNSON

We've been snooping around a little, recently, and we discovered some members of the Teen Age Boys Club inspecting ladies ready to wear and hair accessories. Imagine that. We heard further that some of them are working off excess bulges and bumps preparatory to donning some of these articles of clothing. Yes, you guessed it. The Teen Age Boys Club is planning to give a womanless wedding at the Center on Monday night, May nineteenth.

Make your plans now to attend this spectacle. You'll be glad you did.

The blushing bride will be Willie Self, and "her" bashful "broom" will be William Payne. Other participants will be Robert Young, best man; Charles Harris, father of the bride; George Hamilton, minister; Sam Whitted, maid of honor; Theodore Thornton and Harold Hayes, flower girls; Sam Thornton.

Becton, Claiborne Brown, Essie Judd, Ezekiel Brown, Donnell Austin, and Robert Colcolough, bridesmaids; and Donnell Austin, William Payne, Robert Young, and Essie Judd, bathing beauties.

Latest spring wear will also be displayed at this time. Models will be Reginald Spaulding, Sam Whitted, Sam Becton, and Theodore Thornton.

On Saturday, Johnny McLendon, Jr. journeyed to Greensboro to represent Durham in the statewide marble tourney held at the Windsor Center. Mr. Holmes accompanied him to the meet.

Monday night the Durham Ushers Union presented a mock wedding at the Center, most of the churches of Durham sent a bride and groom along with a contribution. St. Mark C. M. E. Church reported one hundred dollars, the highest amount, while Mount Vernon Church came in second.

The Practical Nurses are planning a spring sport dance at the Center on Friday night, May tenth.

The Center will be closed to teen age activities on May 12th, 13th, and 14th, at which time an Art Workshop will be conducted for the County teachers. Mrs. A. M. Holmes is Art Supervisor of this group.

250 STUDENTS PARTICIPATE IN A. & T. COLLEGE CONTEST

GREENSBORO More than 250 students representing high schools from throughout North Carolina vied for prizes in the seventh annual state-wide Trade and Industrial Contest held here at A. & T. College last Friday, April 25. The contests covered 15 occupational fields and 25 trade classes.

First place winners in bricklaying, carpentry, auto mechanics and shoe repair completed in the regional finals held at Savannah, Ga., on Monday and Tuesday of this week.

S. C. Smith, former assistant state supervisor of Trades and Industrial Education and now dean of the A. & T. Technical Institute, was presented a desk set by instructors in the state for his work with the North Carolina Student Industrial Organization during his ten years of office.

The purpose of the contest is to motivate interest in the development of skills through competitive activities. The theme of the event was "Qualified Tradesmen Lead to World Success."

of Kansas City, Mo., North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company of Durham, and W. C. Lyon and Sons in Durham.

Prizes in first-year bricklaying went to Frederick Davis, Southport, $25, and Ernest McAllister, Durham, $15.00. Second-year prizes of $50 and $35 went to Howard Davis of Southport and Andrew Jenkins of Durham, respectively.

Other winners received $5 for first and $2 for second. Not all categories had two winners, however. Awards went, in the order named to:

Bids Let On New Home Economics Building

GREENSBORO Construction on the new home economics building, one of 15 in the 8 million dollar building program now underway at A. & T. College, is expected to start immediately after final approval of the North Carolina Budget Bureau.

This information was given by Dr. F. D. Bluford, President of the college, last Wednesday shortly after the bids were opened by members of the building committee of the college trustee board.

The building and equipment expected to cost in the neighborhood of $260,000 will contain a foods laboratory with five unit kitchens, a second kitchen for catering cooking for training in catering and cafeteria management, an experimental foods laboratory, a combination reference and dining room to be used for the home economics library and for campus entertainment, all on the ground floor.

The second floor will contain research laboratories, in which animals will be used for experiments in nutrition, two large clothing laboratories opening together for demonstration purposes, a textile testing laboratory and rooms for home decoration and metal and ceramic crafts for clothing accessories. The building will also contain an all purpose room modeled after the average high school home economics department in which students will train to become teachers, and ample classroom space.

Mrs. C. V. Reid, head of the department, stated this week that with the completion of the new building, new courses will be added in family life education which will be open to all students of the college.

The building will be located at the west entrance of the campus near Dudley Street.

The West Construction Company of Winston-Salem, N. C., turned in the low bid for general construction with a figure of $190,000.

Two Greensboro firms were low bidders for the electrical and heating contractors. Starr Electric Company's estimate of $18,110 for electrical work and heating estimate of $11,000 by Walter L. Alfred were low. Robb Plumbing and Heating Company of High Point turned in the low figure of $13,865 for the plumbing.

Participating in the opening bids were: Judge Charles A. Greensboro, Chairman of the trustee board; Dr. W. L. T. Miller, Greensboro; Mayor Robert H. Frazier, Greensboro; H. A. Scott, Haw River; George Sockwell, Elon College and J. W. Jeffries, Mebane, all members of the college trustee board along with Leon McMinn, architect; Dr. F. D. Bluford, president; E. R. Hodgin, treasurer, J. M. Martena, engineer and R. G. Bourne, representative of the North Carolina Budget Bureau.

A. & T. CHOIR AND MEN'S GLEE CLUB TO GIVE CONCERT

GREENSBORO The A. and T. College Choir and the Men's Glee Club will give their annual joint recital Thursday evening, May 8 in the Harrison Auditorium at the college.

The choir will be featured in four groups all by prominent composers: "Songs of Faith," "Song of the People," "Songs of Joy, Love and Contemplation" and "Songs of the Negro." The Men's Glee Club will be heard in groups: "Songs of the Negro," "Songs of Faith" and "Songs of Today."

The two groups will be conducted by Howard T. Pearsall, director of Music at the college, and accompanied by Miss Rosemond Satterwhite, his assistant and Broadus Evans.

When the New Farmers of America made their 12th annual visit to the Colored Orphanage at Oxford on April 20 it was another great day for the institution. This year the organization contributed $4,100 to the Orphanage which brought the total amount given in the past 12 years to over $70,000.
