CIVIL RIGHTS PLANK TROUBLES REPUBLICANS

CHICAGO

Demands for an unequivocal plank on civil rights were set before the platform committee of the Republican National Convention here this week by Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The Republicans squared away for the official opening of their convention on July 7. Mr. White, speaking on behalf of the NAACP and twenty other Negro organizations that recently listed platform demands in a leaflet entitled "What the Negro Wants in 1952," proposed that the civil rights plank begin with a guarantee that Americans of every race, creed and color, enjoy the equality called for by the United States Constitution.

Mr. White then set before the convention requests that these points be included in the national platform: change in the Senate rules to prevent filibusters; federal fair employment practices legislation with full enforcement powers; anti-segregation and anti-lynching laws; abolition of the poll tax and once with the right of Negro legislation outlawing inter-citizens to register and vote in primary or general elections. The NAACP leader also asked the party to pledge to establish a permanent federal commission on civil rights.

Warning that Negro voters would not be satisfied with platform generalities, Mr. White reminded the Republicans that the Negro vote in the 1948 elections had played an important role in the election of President Truman, who ran on an uncompromising civil rights platform. He cited nationwide surveys which showed that Negro voters could swing this year's election either way.

The NAACP has established civil rights headquarters for the duration of both the Republican and Democratic conventions at Roosevelt College.

ONLY TRAINED AND EQUIPPED FARM OPERATORS LIKELY TO SURVIVE SAYS M. L. WILSON

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. Farm mechanization is rapidly replacing mile-drawn plows and horse and buggy thinking, said Extension Director M. L. Wilson of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in an address before the fifth annual Regional 4-H camp here last week.

"Increasingly, agriculture is becoming a science, only those who are trained and equipped are likely to survive the agricultural revolution that is now underway," Wilson told the 124 delegates from the 17 Southern states who represented the Nation's 330,000 colored 4-H'ers at the seven-day encampment.

The Extension director praised Booker T. Washington, George W. Carver, and Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune as the kind of Americans who exemplify the principles of 4-H. He urged the clubbers to pattern their lives after these leaders and prepare themselves to be good farmers or to pursue other careers.

Others who addressed the rural boys and girls are: Dr. Flenmie P. Kittrell of Howard University, Dr. E. B. Evans, president of Prairie View, Texas, A. and M. college; John W. Mitchell, Extension field agent; Dr. Theodore K. Martin of Mississippi State college; P. O. Davis, director of the Alabama Extension Service, Elmaar Bakken, national director of rural scouting; Dr. C. V. Troup, president of Fort Valley, Ga., State college; and Dr. I. A. ## Judge Wilson Acquits Man In Fatal Stabbing

Charges against a 50 year-old man for fatally stabbing his brother-in-law here on July 2 were dropped in Recorder's Court Wednesday.

Judge A. R. Wilson found not probable cause against Stieff A. Simmons when it was brought out that he stabbed Reuben McClain after the latter had broken a chair over the head of Simmons during a quarrel over an automobile reported to have belonged to Simon "Squash" Simmons, deceased brother of Stieff.

The fight took place at 707 Colfax Street, home of the two men. The blow with the chair necessitated eight stitches in the head of Simmons.

According to Detective C. L. Cox, McClain was stabbed in the abdomen.

Determination, guts and "sticktoitiveness" paid off in the annual Soap Box Derby of Durham held here on July 4, when Eddie Malloy, 15-year-old member of the sophomore class of Hillside High School crossed the finish line ahead of his brother, John, 11-year-old member of the seventh grade by a length and a half to win the 1952 championship.

The annual race, held this year on Main Street, saw Eddie eliminate all opponents in the class A division and his brother John out distance all others in the class B group. The boys are the sons of Mrs. Katie Malloy Davis of 1307 South Street.

Last year an older brother Richard and Eddie were both disqualified because officials of the Derby felt that their cars were too well built for boys of their age. This year Eddie and John built their racers under the watchful eyes of officials of the annual race.

Even during the hottest weather, about two weeks ago with the thermometer hitting around 100 degrees or more, the Malloy brothers worked and sweated in the local armory, where all of the racers were supposed to have been built, with a determination that gained the respect and admiration of the officials.
