Program Committee, read a very interesting outline of the program for the year. Mrs. F. McLean, reported on the proposed budget. Mrs. Lipscomb on the cheer cards and Mesdames Goodloe and Dunstan on the "Dorcas Hospital Room" and "Whittled Chest" respectively.

Many cards expressing thanks for good works and cheer given were read by the secretary. Mrs. Ora S. Lee was elected assistant secretary to replace Mrs. Maude Logan, who wished on account of her health, to be relieved from office. All other officers were unanimously re-elected. President Rush had brought Miss Cora L. Davis to visit with the club. She is the blind college girl whom the Dorcas Club had adopted. Miss Davis expressed profound gratitude for all the kindnesses and help she'd received from the Dorcas Sisters.

Mrs. Lennon's hospitality radiated from every corner of her heart and home and all enjoyed the bountiful and delicious repast. All lingered long, seeming to regret to leave, but with fond good nights and thanks to the hostess, the mizpah was said.

RETURNS TO FIELD WORK

Having spent a summer of very unusually happy and exciting experiences, Miss C. S. Young returns to the city to begin her year's work as Director of Religious Education in the Diocese of North Carolina. June carried her to the state of Georgia—she's never been in Savannah, the guest of Mrs. Samuel (Mary) White, she had a lovely time. On Sunday she worshipped at Saint Matthew's Church, the Rev. Mr. Cauton, Priest in charge. In this beautiful church at 5 p. m., she was honor guest at a reception, where ideas and plans for church work were mutually exchanged. The hospitality was great. From Savannah, Miss Young attended a workshop headed by the National Leadership Training of the Department of Religious Education. This meeting was at All Saints Parish, where several hundred attended. Information, inspiration and hospitality made this a great venture.

In Tuskegee, Alabama, at Tuskegee Institute, the young Dr. and Mrs. Gerald A. Edwards were Miss Young's charming hosts. What a thrill to see that great institution for the first time, especially. September was spent in that beautiful state of Massachusetts. The great General Convention of the Episcopal Church and the grand Triennial of the Woman's Auxiliary was attended. Miss Young was one of the six delegates from the Diocese of North Carolina. She can find no words to express the greatness and grandeur of the wonderful meeting and wishes everyone could have been there. A meeting of the Professional Church Women Workers was held in historic old Christ Church in Cambridge, Mass. Being a member of this organization brought one in contact with peoples from many countries. The last days in New York at the "Installation Services" of the New United Training Center for Women Church Workers crowned a summer's "Mountain Top" experiences.

'Twas fun too, visiting friends in West Newton, Mass and home folk in New York City, seeing the latter Lawrence Winters in "Aida" with the New York City Center Opera Company.

Mrs. J. S. Thompson attended the funeral of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Hannah Thorpe, held in Boston, Mass., last week.

Raleigh Attorney To Participate In National Civil Rights Conference

RALEIGH

Attorney Herman L. Taylor, local attorney, has been honored by being one of the few lawyers selected from over the country by the National Lawyers Guild, an association of prominent white and Negro lawyers to participate in a conference on Civil Rights, at the Park-Sheraton Hotel, in New York City, October 10-12, 1952.

Attorney Taylor is scheduled to discuss the problem "Due Process: How to raise, present and prove issue of systematic exclusion of Negroes from jury panels."

Some of the other participants slated to participate in the conference along with Attorney Taylor are: Hon. Hubert T. DeLany, Justice Domestic Relations Court, New York City, Professor Thomas I. Emerson, of Yale University Law School, Attorney Earl B. Dickerson, of Chicago, Illinois, President of the National Lawyers Guild, Attorney Osmond K. Kraekel, of New York City, Executive Vice-President of the National Lawyers Guild, Attorney Leon A. Ransom, of Washington, D. C., Attorney A. T. Walden, of Atlanta, Georgia, Professor John Frank, of the Yale University Law School, Attorney Belford V. Lawson, of Washington, D. C.

Attractive Yonne Scruggs, sophomore social science major, last week became the first sophomore coed in the college's history to become managing editor of the student newspaper, the Campus Echo.

Miss Scruggs, former reporter, feature writer and news editor of the Echo, succeeds Marion D. Thorpe of Durham, a junior at NCC who has enticed in the U. S. Air Force.

The coed editor who looks forward to a career in journalism is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Scruggs of 212 Adams St. Buffalo, N. Y.

She is an honor student at NCC where she has participated in dramatics, the dance group, and student government affairs.

NAACP IN ALA. UNIV. CASE; CHARGES BIAS

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People this week entered the case of two young women who were denied admission to the graduate school of the University of Alabama solely because of their race.

Miss Polly A. Myers of Birmingham, seeking admission to the school of journalism, and Miss Atherine J. Lucy of Wylam, who wishes to attend the school of library science, were both accepted by the university through the mail and then denied admission when they appeared at the Tuscaloosa campus in person to enroll. Both are 1952 graduates of Miles College, Birmingham, with A. B. degrees.

Arthur D. Shores, Birmingham NAACP attorney, said that the refusal of Dean of Admissions William Adams to enroll the young ladies would be appealed immediately to Dr. John M. Gallalee, university president. NAACP procedure in similar cases has been first to exhaust administrative remedies and then to carry the cases to federal court, where an injunction directing admission of qualified Negro students is requested.

Other Negro students who have applied to the University of Alabama in the past have been offered out-of-state scholarships.

MAP ANTI-BIAS DRIVE IN N. Y. AREA PLANTS

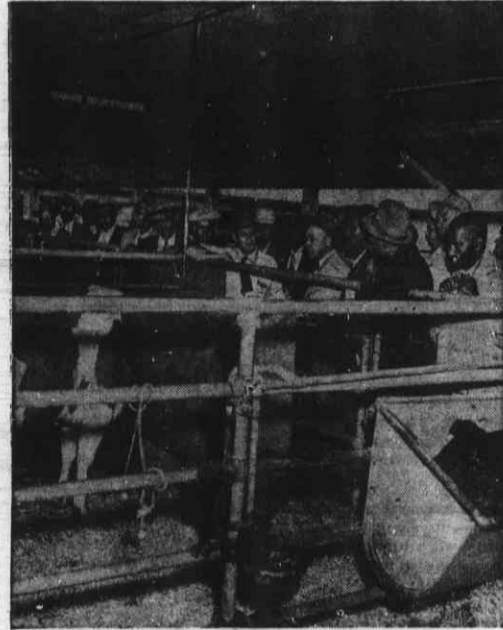

NEWARK

The IUE-CIO has joined with the NAACP in sponsoring an all-out campaign for equal job opportunities and full integration of Negro workers in plants in the Metropolitan area and northern New Jersey.

At a fair practices conference here on September 17, attended by representatives of 43 locals the IUE-CIO District No. Four, Herbert Hill, labor relations assistant of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, was principal speaker. Mr. Hill was instrumental in setting up the anti-bias drive, which was announced jointly last week by him and Paul Jennings, IUE-CIO district secretary.

The program calls for opening of new job opportunities for Negro workers in the electronics and electrical industries in the area; enforcement of anti-discrimination clauses in union contracts with regards to hiring, promotions, seniority benefits, and the like; and the establishment of a district-wide Fair Practices and Civil Rights Department with functioning committees in the local unions.

The District is the largest of the CIO union of electrical workers, holding collective bargaining agreements with over 150 basic producers of electrical equip-

JC Continues To Exit From Illinois Schools

TAMMS, ILL.

This southern Illinois town this week became the latest to join a parade of communities opening their formerly all-white public schools to Negro students for the first time, after efforts by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Negro high school students attended classes without incident at Tamms High School after NAACP attorneys held conferences with school board officials and began planning action in the event that the students were refused admission. State aid funds to the Tamms School District were held up last spring by the county superintendent of schools, in accordance with Illinois law, when the Cairo NAACP branch filed suit to end segregated schools in that city.

OHIO NAACP ADOPTS 9-PT. RIGHTS PLANK

COLUMBUS

The nine-point civil rights program presented this year to both major political parties by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in association with other organizations in the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights was adopted this week by the Ohio State NAACP Conference, meeting here for its annual convention. Walter White, NAACP executive secretary, was the principal speaker at the closing mass meeting.

The Ohio group called for amendment of Senate Rule XXII to prevent filibusters; federal action to outlaw discrimination in employment; a strong anti-lynching law; outlawing of the poll tax; strengthening of the civil rights section of the Department of Justice, and other civil rights measures.

Other resolutions adopted dealt with political action, anti-segregation, civil liberties, labor and employment, minimum wage, police brutality, armed police brutality, armed services, housing, health and welfare.
