

Her Nylons Went To Her Head

THAT attractive head scarf above, used here to conceal a lady's pin curls, is an ex-pair of nylon stockings that's been rescued from the scrap heap, according to the Tintex Home Economics Bureau. Home-dyeing and simple needlework did the trick.

Shown on dresser are other attractive items made from discarded nylons—lamp shade, doll's dress and sachets. Photo insets show dyeing process and finishing touch on lamp shade. A preliminary step to dyeing is to take out old color with color remover, obtainable at all fabric dye counters, the Tintex bureau says.

DURHAM DELTAS ENTERTAIN NATIONAL YWCA OFFICIAL

DURHAM—On Sunday afternoon, Sept. 27 at one o'clock in the Jade Room of the Donut Shop, members of Delta Sigma Theta sorority entertained Miss Dorothy Height, grand president of the Deltas and member of the leadership staff of the national YWCA board at a luncheon.

Miss Height delivered the principal address at the dedication program for the new addition to the Harriet Tubman YWCA on Unstead street. Present at the luncheon were members of the dedication committee of the YWCA.

For the occasion, tables were most impressively decorated with crimson and cream floral arrangements, souvenirs, and ribbons in the sorority's colors.

Mrs. Martha Dooms, president of the Alpha Kappa Sigma chapter, introduced Miss Rupert Blanchard, executive secretary of the YWCA, who spoke briefly. Other members of the YWCA dedication committee included Messdames R. P. Randolph, C. C. Amey, C. E. McLester, J. W. V. Cordice and W. A. Clement.

Miss Helen McLean, president of the Alpha Lambda chapter of the sorority, spoke briefly and presented Miss Height with a gift from the chapter.

Mrs. Dooms presented officers of the Alpha Kappa Sigma chapter and listed former presidents of the chapter.

In her speech, Miss Height urged members of the sorority to adapt their organizations to meet the changing needs of the times. The sorority cannot progress, she warned, unless it is aware of the demands of the times.

Soror Height praised members of the Alpha chapter for its cooperation in civic affairs and stated that Durham should be proud of the participation of Delta women in community activities.

Miss Height also paid tribute to Miss Blanchard for her work with the Harriet Tubman YWCA.

For outstanding accomplishments in their respective fields, the honor roll of the Alpha Kappa Sigma chapter includes sorors Mollie Lee, Harriet Amey, Alaveta Hutson, Margaret Goodwin, Vivian Rogers, Helen Edmonds, Rosemary Funderburg, Eloise Beech, Mattie Lakin, Louise Elder, Inez Jones, Nell and Grace Thompson.

Planning committee for the luncheon consisted of sorors Minnie Turner, Jessie Pearson, Rosemary Funderburg, Olivia Cole, Harriet Amey, Snow Bailey, Martha Dooms and Mollie Lee.

Other sorority members present at the affair were sorors Mattie Reese, Dorothy Branden, Betty Woodbury, Doris Hargett, Helen McLean, Constance Glenn, Savannah Craighead, Lois Howard, Althea James, Elsie Jones, Lorraine James, Francine Nobles, Thelma

Tar Heel Starts Mass Reading Plan

CHARLOTTE—A North Carolina man's dream of uniting families through daily shared reading began to come true this month, on a large scale.

It took five years of planning and working, with heartaches and disappointments.

It took an unusual combination of know-how—literary and financial, the help of loyal friends in North Carolina and other states, and the cooperation of the National Association of Food Chains, in Washington, D. C.

But this month, Charles Manchester, of Charlotte, launched "Story-A-Day" in more than 3,800 chain food stores across the United States. (September 24th.)

"Story-A-Day" is an idea, in the form of a weekly magazine designed for daily shared reading in the home, and available at food stores which are members of the NAFC. "Story-A-Day" makes a continuous supply of the best contemporary literature for children available to the Nation's families for the first time.

(Continued from Page Two) who is sponsored for this job by Senator Sherman Cooper and the GOP National Committee as a Kentucky Republican leader who merits reward for his political leadership, is a recognized real estate broker and builder. As such he has resources to bring to the Federal housing program. No one would question the need in these programs for added people who have seasoned skills in planning, site preparation, home financing and marketing. Several individuals and organizations have often recommended the employment by the Office of the Administrator, or the FHA or the Home Loan Bank Board or the Veterans Administration of a high level operator to specialize in breaking the "bottlenecks" of land availability and mortgage financing in order to open up new housing construction to Negroes and other non-whites. Such a job should be set up at a grade level even higher than that already attained in Racial Relations; it could be graded at least as GS-16, 17 or 18 (The OA Assistant in Racial Relations is Grade GS-15).

Aviation cadet Patrick H. Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Cadet Coleman, a graduate of North Carolina College, is enroute to Biloxi, Miss. for further training.

money came from the pockets of givers. However, several business firms of the city have made contributions, and neighbors have given unsolicited donations.

"We plan to build for cash," Rev. Johnson said, so that we may dedicate the church free of debts the day we move in. When asked if he had enough money on hand now to complete the building Rev. Johnson answered "no but, we expect to raise it as we go along."

Officers Named For A & T ROTC

The ROTC Corps for the current school year was formally established last week at A. and T. College in a special program held in the college's Harrison Auditorium on Thursday, Sept. 24. Eighty-five cadet officers were commissioned in ceremonies attended by the Joint Air and Army ROTC Corps at the college.

The following cadets were named to head the joint Army-Air Corps staff: Willie Alston, Warrenton, N. C., corps commander; William Farmer, Wilson, N. C., deputy corps commander; Norman Brinkley, Edenton, N. C., J-1; Maurice Alston, Greensboro, N. C., J-2; Russell Scott Waycross, Ga., J-3 and Richard Moore, Farrell, Pa., J-4.

Church Building To Help Looks

DURHAM—The neighborhood behind Lincoln Hospital is in for a new look. The old Adventist Church building on the corner of Lincoln Street and Massey Avenue is soon to be torn down, so that the vestibule can be added to the new brick and block building which is nearly completed immediately behind the old church.

One neighbor said, "I'll sure be happy when the new church is completed; it will give our neighborhood a new look and increase the value of our property."

The new building is a 40 x 80 structure what the Pastor, I. J. Johnson calls Sabbath (Saturday) School rooms, and rest rooms, storage and furnace rooms upstairs. The downstairs rooms are arranged to accommodate a three-teacher day school with grades 1-9. A soundproof nursery, pastor's study and choir room upstairs. The Sanctuary will seat 350 people.

The 77 members of the church have been quietly raising funds for the $30,000 building for six years. In other rallies, envelopes containing $500 and $400 dollars were received. Most of this

(Continued from Page Two) Other winners at the fair from the Agriculture Department included Wilford Matthews and George Herring who won Blue Ribbons for their calves in the dairy show. Darnessa Vann and Milford Matthews received 2nd place red ribbons for their dairy animals. The premium for the blue ribbons were $12.00 and $10.00 for the red ribbons. An outstanding feature of the Sampson County Fair this year was the inclusion of a tractor driving contest sponsored by the Tractor dealers and the fair committee. Garland was represented in the contest by Amos Vance, an N.F.A. Member and Vance Brunson, a young farmer. They won the top prizes of $25 and $15 respectively for being the best drivers. A tractor cushion seat was also awarded to the winners.

Biography Of Father Divine Ready For Stores

NEW YORK—"I wasn't born. I was combusted one day in a Rolls Royce at the corner of 134th Street and Seventh Avenue in Harlem." So said Father Divine to Sara Harris, whose new book, "Father Divine: Holy Husband," will be published by Doubleday on October 22.

When Mrs. Harris first suggested to Father Divine that she write his biography, he answered, "I have composed the Bible, so I don't need books written about me." Later, however, he relented and made himself and all his "angels" fully available. Mrs. Harris lived for months in one of his missions, and was even invited to become one of his inner circle of angels.

Among the persons she associated with were such prominent angels as Miss Universal Vocabulary, Miss Beautiful Peace, Mr. Sober Living, Miss Buncha Love, and Mr. Handsome Is As Handsome Does.
