odor of her several-days dead body aroused the suspicions of others in the Southside Apartment building. Modica was not located until several months ago while he was serving time in a Philadelphia prison for attempted rape.
At the time of his wife's death, Modica was employed in a feed store in Baltimore. Luyretta Modica was a waitress in a downtown restaurant.

ard put on a show with music, stunts, and prancing majorettes. The second half, however, was a different story, for the Winston-Salem Teachers would not be denied. With the period only four minutes old, Ram end, Herbert McNeill, came from nowhere to intercept a pass and to race forty yards downfield to score standing up. Then pass-minded Jodie Wilson shot one to Parker for 25 yards, and another to McNeill for thirty yds. and a TD. The conversion was good. The visitors were threatening a third tally at the gun.

the Yankees. The goat? Don't know who the writers will pick but there is choice of several. Managers are not eligible, but Charlie Dressen could easily be in the running. His strategy in the supposedly big innings for Brooklyn—two men on base and nobody out in four different situations, his patience with Meyer in the fifth game alone would qualify him. Unfortunately, that "bad-bounce error" of Hodges may put him in the running, although we would disagree, it opened the door for the Yankee rally in the fifth game. Robinson's puny hitting in the clutch as "clean up man" and his pushing what could have been an out into the stands for a score tying home run—which paved the way for Mantle's second home run in the 4-2 second game, then there is Furllo's three double play blows—he's the league batting champ. The goat choice will be difficult for it is not as clear cut as Martin's hero role. A story could be written on Campanella's greatness. This was the series in which records were broken by the handful—all except one. Brooklyn still has not won a series. Just wait till—what did that guy say when leaving the stadium?—C'EST LA VIE.
