Trade Week, Homecoming At NCC Offer Busy Week

DURHAM
The beginning of Trade Week and North Carolina College's Homecoming are expected to keep Durhamites busy this week-end.

Trade Week, an annual event sponsored by the Durham Business and Professional Chain, gets underway here Saturday.

Homecoming at the college will be climaxed here Saturday with a football game in the afternoon at O'Kelly Field and other alumni sponsored activities.

Trade Week and NCC's Homecoming will join at at least one point. A parade, Saturday morning at 10:30, will be sponsored jointly by the Chain and NCC's Homecoming planners. It will form at the Durham Athletic Park, travel south on Morris to Main, proceed east on Main to Pettigrew, east on Pettigrew to Fayetteville and south on Fayetteville to NCC's campus.

Several member firms of the Chain, in addition to the usual student units at the college, will make up the parade. Many Chain members are pooling their efforts behind one big float, similar to the one to be sponsored by some seven service station operators who are Grant's Amaco, Pine Street; Williams' Garage, East End Avenue; Bull City Garage, Fayetteville Street; Speight's Auto Service, Fayetteville and Pettigrew Streets; Johnson's Garage, Poplar St.; Bull City Service Station, Fayetteville St.; and Bates Bulf Service, Alston Avenue and Glenn Street.

H. W. Gillis and Attorney F. B. McKissick, co-chairman of Trade Week activities, said early this week that everything was in readiness for the event.

Mrs. Callie Daye, in charge of the "Miss Trade Week" Contest, listed names of some seven persons who have already entered the contest to compete for the $100 cash first prize. She listed this week Drucilla Winston for Long's Florist; Mrs. Gracie Gerald, Purity Store, II; Wilma Lee Fowler, Vanity Fair Beauty S a l o n; Theodora Speight, Speight's Auto Service; Marion Swann, Service Printing Company; Shirley Wiggins, Jackson Grocery; and Shirley Faulkner, Biggers Beauty Supply; Mrs. Daye also stated that at least two other firms will sponsor contestants.

Perhaps the highlight of Trade Week will come Monday night, November 2, when the Chain's annual banquet will be held at Hillside high school's cafeteria at 7:30.

NCC's Homecoming activities include a pep rally Friday night, coronation ball Saturday night, alumni barbecue and dance Saturday night.

Ohio Paratrooper Held For Raping Woman At Gun Point

FAYETTEVILLE
Another Negro soldier is under arrest here at Fort Bragg's stockade under charges of raping a young married white woman. He is Pvt. David Hollinger, Jr., member of Company C, 325th Airborne Infantry Regiment. His hometown is listed as Youngstown, Ohio, where he has a wife.

Pvt. Hollinger was the second Negro soldier on this sprawling army reservation to be arrested and charged with rape of white woman in less than a month. Two weeks ago, Lt. John R. Griffin of Memphis, Tenn., was arrested and is waiting a general court martial on charges of raping a white woman on the post on Oct. 11.

Pvt. Hollinger is accused of raping an unnamed white woman at gun point early Sunday morning.

According to reports, two white women from Burlington, their names were withheld by post authorities, had driven Sgt. Ralph Fleming of Company E, 325th Airborne Infantry, to the 82 Division area about 1 a. m. Sunday. As they were leaving the area, Pvt. Hollinger reportedly accosted them with a .45 calibre pistol and ordered the two women to drive him to Fayetteville.

While still on the reservation, according to reports, Hollinger ordered the driver to turn off highway 210 to a side road where he raped one of the women.

After the alleged attack Hollinger is said to have driven the car to Rowan Street in Fayetteville where he got out.

The two women returned immediately to Fort Bragg and informed Sgt. Fleming, who notified

S. C.'s Fighting Bishop Reid Issues Denial

DARLINGTON, S. C.

The Rt. Rev. Frank Madison Reid, Bishop of the Seventh Episcopal District of the A. M. E. Church, presiding at the annual sessions of the Northeast Conference at Bethel Church here, said in open conference last Thursday that "Anybody who calls me a communist is a liar."

Bishop Reid, in speaking to the youth session about a call he had received over the telephone from a certain hotel in Columbia, stated that a man was giving him a tip-off declaring that some people in the hotel had seen a magazine article which accused him of being a communist and stated that these people said they were going to run him out of town.

Bishop Reid said he replied thanking the man very much for what he had told him and told the man that "I trusted God and that no man could love God and trust God as I do and be a Communist."

Bishop Reid, in making this denial further stated that, "If I have to die for truth and righteousness, I just have to go because as long as I live I am going to trust God. . . I don't know what a Communist is, for a Communist does not follow God."

Then he declared "Because I believe in liberty and freedom they call me a communist. Well, I am saying here and now in open conference, Anybody who calls me a communist is a liar."

He then asserted that "Any Negro who dares to say that any black man should have what anybody else has, is accused of being Communist. The Roman Catholics want to dominate America, yet no one says anything about that."

"Whether I die soon or later, I am still going to follow Jesus," he further said "Mr. McCarthy doesn't know me and I don't know him. How can he call me a Communist?"

"Because I believe in freedom they call me a communist. All race-hating people everywhere should be called fascists and racists. I will say again that whoever said I am a communist is a liar."

He then stated that he was

Lt. Griffin, charged with rape of a young married white woman on Oct. 11, is also being held to await a general court martial on Nov. 3.

COURT DEFEAT WON'T STOP NAACP

Walter White Makes Vow At N. C. Confab

ROCKY MOUNT

Walter White, Secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, promised that a defeat for the association in the school segregation cases before the Supreme Court would not stop the NAACP in its fight against racial prejudice.

"I believe we are going to win those cases in the Supreme Court," the titular head of the NAACP asserted. "But I assure you of one thing: We will do as we have done in the past; we will go back again and again, and we will never stop going to the Supreme Court until every vestige of racial prejudice has been eliminated from education and from America as a whole," White declared.

White's stirring address which brought frequent applause from the audience assembled at the St. James Baptist church here, capped a three day meeting of the North Carolina branch of the association. Some $4,730.49 was raised by the State organization at the convention.

White congratulated the North Carolina branch for its success in registering 100,000 voters but asserted that it should have 300,000; assured competent Negro teachers that they would not be out of jobs when integration comes; chided the association for its tendency to relax after some victories; warned the Democratic party against paying the "ridiculous price" of courting the southern, dixiecratic elements at the expense of compromising its civil rights stand and promised that segregation in housing would be the next front toward which the association would aim its big guns.

If the Supreme Court outlaws segregation in public education, don't think that white and Negro pupils will be attending the same school at nine o'clock on the following morning, the NAACP secretary asserted. "As long as Negroes are still forced to live in segregated sections, the segregation pattern will continue in education."

"We've got to continue to fight to smash segregation in housing, employment and every other department of life in order to achieve the fullest results of the victory I believe we are going to win in the Supreme Court in the five cases now pending."

The NAACP Secretary also paid a tribute to A. H. Anderson, former president of the North Carolina Teacher Association.

"I'm glad that North Carolina has produced at least one school principal who can take an uncompromising stand," White said in referring to Anderson.

Kelly M. Alexander, dynamic head of the state organization, was re-elected president at the convention.

AMEZ's End District Meets

DURHAM

According to reports coming from the circles of the A. M. E. Zion Church, three of the most interesting District Conferences ever held closed last week.

The Durham District, presided over by Dr. W. W. Long, held its 28th session near Goldston, Union Grove Church, Rev. W. D. Drake, pastor.

Prospect Church, located about three miles from Shannan, was the scene of the Laurinburg District meeting and was presided over by Rev. T. J. Young with Rev. H. T. Moore as pastor.

The Fayetteville District celebrated its 85th session at Locke Creek Church with Rev. James A. Brown heading it up and Rev. F. L. Tyron the pastor.

These sessions are part of the yearly agenda and are held to make a general survey of the work so as to have all reports ready for the Annual Conference.

Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Baldwin Tie As 2nd Period Opens

W. A. Allison, graduate of Hillside High School of Durham and Morgan State College, left New York last week for Munich Germany where he will study medicine at the University of Munich. Allison was employed for the chemical division of the U. S. Quartermasters at Philadelphia. He made his home in Durham with his grandfather at 1000 Scout Drive.

Rev. Wertz Moves Up; Early Signs Point To Dark Horse

This week's balloting in the TIMES "Everybody Wins" Holy Land Subscription Contest disclosed that Mrs. S. V. Cooper of Oxford and Mrs. Nell Baldwin of Wilson are tied for first place with 80,000 votes each.

A most startling development took place this week when Rev. J. F. Wertz of Charlotte forged to the seventh position.

Several other candidates also showed considerable gains and there is some evidence that a dark horse may show up in the race before the second period is over. Several contestants who had not previously showed any signs of taking part in the contest, have indicated that they will be heard from by the time the standing of contestants are tabulated next week.

Negroes Help White Church's Building Effort

CHARLOTTE

The congregation of a Negro church here made a contribution to building fund of a white church recently.

The Ebenezer Baptist Church (pastored by Rev. A. J. Ryans, raised a "freewill" offering at the close of its services last Sunday, October 25, to go to the First Evangelical and Reformed Church which is in the midst of a building fund drive.

Rev. J. B. Hennessey, pastor of the Evangelical and Reformed Church, expressed appreciation for the contribution.

The church is conducting a building fund drive to erect an educational building at an approximate cost of $103,000 at the Plaza section.

The Ebenezer Baptist Church is located in the building formerly owned by the Evangelical and Reformed Church at East Trade and North Myers Street. The building was purchased last January by the Ebenezer congregation after it was burned out of its former edifice at Second and Davidson Street some four years ago.

Rev. Ryans told his congregation before the offering was collected that "this is going to be a free will offering. We just want to show fellowship . . . and our appreciation to those good people for the fine way they dealt with us."

Army Chief Of Staff, Tar Heel GI In Dramatic Reunion In Korea

ASHEVILLE

A recent story and picture which appeared in the Pacific Stars and Stripes, an Army newspaper, described a surprise reunion in Korea of Army Chief of Staff J. Lawton Collins and one of his former personal aides, Aaron E. Marlowe.

Now a Sergeant First Class,

Marlowe is an Asheville native who has been reared here and graduated from the Lehigh School. He volunteered for the Air Force following his high school graduation. The occasion of the Collins-Marlowe meeting was the General's flying visit to IX Corps Headquarters. According to the account carried by the Pacific Stars and Stripes, Marlowe was standing on the sidelines as the General alighted from his plane; on recognizing familiar face of his former aide, he exclaimed "Marlowe!" and then broke away from his "top brass" hosts to go over and heartily grasp the sergeant's hand. Then he turned to his hosts and others in the assemblage and said, "Gentlemen, I want you to meet a real soldier," and then the General proceeded to introduce SFC Marlowe to Eighth Army Commander General Maxwell Taylor and IX Corps Commander Lt. Gen. Reuben E. Jenkins.

telling about his former cook, who, after serving him for five years, asked to be re-assigned in order that he could get out and "see the world," and as a result wound up as a parachutist.

The army newspaper account went on to explain that Marlowe had first met General Collins at a girls camp here in Western North Carolina one summer when the general's daughters were in attendance. Marlowe was a cook at the camp—and evidently a good one, for soon after Marlowe enlisted in the Army Air Force he was transferred from his training center in Texas to Washington where he was to serve as General Collins' personal cook and which he did for five years before he grew weary of this quiet life.

young at 25, said that he considered General Collins and his wife "like a father and a mother" and that the General still wrote him twice a month.

NNBL MEET

ATLANTA, GA.

The National Negro Business League will hold its Fifty-Third Annual Convention in Atlanta, November 4, 5, 6, and 7 at the Wauhatche Apartment Hotel.

The theme of the Convention is: "The program of the National Negro Business League Is A Changing Society."
