MEDICS PLAN FIGHT ON HEART DISEASE

Some of the participants in the eighth annual Postgraduate Clinic sponsored jointly by Lincoln Hospital and the Old North State Medical Society are shown here in Durham recently. The visiting doctors participated in a two day symposium on Diseases of the Heart and Cancer. Clinicians from the medical schools of the University of North Carolina and Duke University served as consultants during the session. Planning the program was a committee composed of Dr. R. F. Randolph, chairman; Dr. Charles D. Watts, William M. Rich, Mrs. Laura Bruce, secretary; and Dr. Clyde Donnell. Dr. W. A. Cleland, president of the Old North State Medical Society and also president of the Lincoln Hospital staff, presided at the opening day's session. Rich and Dr. Donnell were among dignitaries welcoming the visiting doctors to Durham.

Mrs. Cooper Maintains Lead In TIMES Contest

Mrs. S. V. Cooper of Oxford continued in the lead in the CAROLINA TIMES "Everybody Wins" Holy Land or Paris Subscription Contest which closes midnight, Saturday, November 21. Although Mrs. N. B. Baldwin's report did not reach this office in time to be tabulated in this week's report of contestants (probably due to the post office being closed for a legal holiday), it is expected to reach here in time for tabulation over the week-end.

With one more week to go and with midnight of November 21 set as the closing time for the contest, it is expected that several other contestants will show a decided increase in their efforts to win one of the free trips.

This week found little change in the standing of the contestants with the first three of last week still holding tenaciously to their positions. All contestants who have not made a report or for whom no subscription had been sent in by others were dropped from this week's tabulation.

Already plans are being completed to have on hand sufficient office help to take care of the tabulation of the large number of subscriptions expected to be reported before closing time of midnight November 21.

This Week's Relative Standing Is As Follows:

MRS. SUSIE V. COOPER—Oxford	337,000
MRS. NELL B. BALDWIN—Wilson	318,000
REV. JAMES F. WERTZ—Charlotte	220,000
REV. W. F. ELLIOTT—High Point	118,000
PROF. A. L. STANBACK—Hillsboro	90,000
REV. WILLIAM LAKE—Burlington	84,000
PROF. CHARLES STEWART—Kinston	74,000
REV. P. A. BISHOP—Rich Square	74,000
MISS MABEL POWELL—Cinton	50,000
PROF. G. L. HARPER—Roxboro	44,000
REV. J. R. MANLEY—Chapel Hill	44,000

Rehearsals Ready To Start For Durham's First Amateur Show

DURHAM
Many persons have already registered for participation in the 1953 production of the "Folies of the Times" to be staged in Durham, December 4-5 under the direction of Mel Rennick, nationally known producer, and Roy Carpenter.

The production will feature all local talent and will be one of the biggest ever held in Durham, with brilliant costumes, singing, dancing, quartets, comedy skits, etc. Rehearsals will begin Monday, November 16 at 532 E. Pettigrew Street from 4 to 9 P.M. daily. Persons desiring to participate in the show are requested to present themselves at the above address between the hours already mentioned. All costumes and dancing lessons will be furnished free.

When the show is staged on December 4-5, Durham will have opportunity to see one of the most stupendous amateur shows ever produced in this city. Mel Rennick has had nearly a quarter century of training personnel in shows of this kind, and the management of the Carolina Times considers it quite fortunate that it was able to secure his service for this amateur show extravaganza. Registration is still going on and will continue until the cast has been filled. Membership in the cast is open to persons from ages 6 to 60.

Tickets will go on sale Nov. 20 and can be purchased at a price of $1 for adult and 50 cent for children at the Biltmore Drug Store, the Carolina Times Office, Bull City Drug Store, and the Do-Nut Shop.

Mrs. Daisy Lucas Is Funeralized

DURHAM
The funeral of Mrs. Daisy B. Lucas, 68, was held at Mount Zion Baptist Church Tuesday, November 3, at 2 P.M., with the Reverend Wm. H. Fuller, pastor, officiating assisted by Father Fred Hunter, Rector of St. Titus Episcopal Church.

Mrs. Lucas died at Lincoln Hospital Saturday, October 31 at 10:30 a.m. following an illness of three weeks. For the past 22 years she had resided in Durham with her husband, N. C. Lucas and at the time of her death was a resident of 209 Nelson Street. Surviving are two sons, Russell and Herman Lucas both of Durham; two daughters, Miss Mary R. Lucas of New York and Mrs. Maggie M. Torrey of New York.

LT. GETS 30 YEARS

Another G. I. Facing Trial

Ohio Private In Rape Trial Starting Friday

(SPECIAL TO THE TIMES)

FAYETTEVILLE
A 30-year sentence was handed one Negro soldier in a general court martial here last week while another waited for his trial to begin here on Friday, November 13. The charge in both cases was rape of a white woman.

Lt. John Griffin, a former Episcopalian youth officer, was sentenced to 30 years here last Friday following his conviction by a military court of rape on Mrs. Christina Shuster, German war bride of a Fort Bragg Corporal. The sentence marked the first time that a Negro, convicted of raping a white woman in North Carolina, had not received the death penalty.

Pvt. David Hollinger, 22-year-old Ohioan from Youngstown, faces a general court martial Friday the 13th on charges of raping an unnamed white woman at gun point on the Army reservation on October 25.

Pvt. Hollinger, a member of the 325th Airborne Infantry Regiment, is accused of having accosted two white women riding in a car on the reservation after having taken a white sergeant to his quarters on the post.

Hollinger is alleged to have ordered the two women to drive him to Fayetteville, but on the way forced them to turn off on a side road where he allegedly raped one of them at gun point.

Both women were listed as being married, neither to the sergeant they were taking home, however, and both were listed as being from Burlington. It was revealed by a post public information officer that both had been on the reservation the night before.

Lt. Griffin and his mother, Mrs. Louise Griffin, took the 30-year sentence given the Lieutenant very calmly here last week. Mrs. Griffin, a trim "fiftyish" looking little woman, testified during the trial.

Attorney Harry Groves of Fayetteville, who defended Griffin during the trial, revealed after the trial that there is some chance of Griffin's sentence being reduced.

Attorney Groves, once a member of the North Carolina College Law School faculty and a captain in the Adjutant General's section, pointed out some errors which he felt the court had made, and the fact that the case would be reviewed three times by higher authorities who could either reduce the sentence or squash the conviction.

Among the errors which Attorney Groves said that he felt the court made consisted in the fact that the court permitted the prosecution to ask a "leading question" which, according to Attorney Groves, went to the heart of the case. Attorney Groves felt also that the court may have possibly erred in calling Mrs. Shuster back to the stand to get her definition of rape after the prosecution had rested its case.

The small courtroom, which accommodates about seventy-five persons, was jammed to capacity on both days of the trial.

City School Superintendent L. S. Weaver told the delegation that no decision had been reached in the matter and that whatever improvements are made will have to be done with State funds.

Board Chairman Spurgeon Boyce came up with the answer, "get more children," to an inquiry as to how the Hickstown school could be brought up to standard.

Superintendent Weaver admitted that it has been below standard since it came into the City System. The school is made of wooden frame construction and has no central heating system.

Negro residents of the city this week generally applauded the stand taken by the Hickstown parents.

T. C. Walker, Oldest Virginia Barrister, Dies

GLOUCESTER, Va.
Funeral services for Thomas C. Walker, believed to have been Virginia's oldest practicing attorney and the oldest alumnus of Hampton Institute, were scheduled to be held last Monday, Nov. 9 at the Bethel Baptist Church of Sassafras near here. Walker died at Dixie Hospital Thursday, Nov. 5. A native and lifelong resident of Gloucester County, he was 91.

A graduate of the Hampton class of 1813, Atty. Walker had been a staunch supporter of the institution in the 70 years following his graduation. He has contributed many gifts to the college, some of them as high as $1,000, in addition to the establishment of two scholarship funds of $1,000 each in memory of his two wives.

The first scholarship fund was set up in 1951 and is called the Mrs. Ellen Young Walker Memorial Fund in memory of his second wife who died that year. Another fund was established the following year for his first wife, Mrs. Annie A. Walker who died in 1912.

Walker served as president of the national Hampton Alumni association and at his death was a member of the executive committee of that organization.

He has been honored on several occasions by the college. In 1952, he was honored and his portrait presented at commencement exercises.

Atty. Walker was admitted to the Virginia bar in 1886 and continued to practice until he was hospitalized a month ago. Advised of Walker's death President Alonzo Moron of Hampton, issued the following statement:

"Hampton Institute regrets the loss of Mr. T. C. Walker, a graduate of the class of 1883. Mr. Walker was very active in the National Hampton Alumni Association during his lifetime and supported in many ways causes and influencing the growth of the college. Mr. Walker has been a successful practicing lawyer in the Commonwealth of Virginia for more than half a century and has made for himself many friends, regardless of race or color."

Atty. Walker is survived by two daughters, Miss Eloise Walker of Gloucester, and Miss Grace Walker of New York who is a field representative with the National Recreation Association.

BILLY GRAHAM'S CRUSADE SILENT ON RACE POLICY

ASHEVILLE
The most unusual thing about the current controversy over the policy of racial participation in the Billy Graham Crusade which began here last Sunday is the fact that those officials in charge of these two-weeks long revival meetings, including Billy Graham himself, have absolutely refused to issue a public statement on its policy toward possible Negro participation. The fact that they will not make public their policy, whether right or wrong, brands them as religious cowards and guilty of the rankest kind of hypocrisy and deceit.

In spite of all that we think and know is wrong with the social thinking of Jimmy Brynes and Herman Talmadge, nobody (Please turn to Page Eight)
