NEW DRUG PERMITS PHYSICIANS TO PERFORM BLOODLESS SURGERY; OVER 300 CASES TESTED

NEW YORK
A new drug called arfonad permits surgeons to almost completely control bleeding in difficult operations of the head, neck and chest. By reducing blood pressure drastically, the drug enables doctors to operate in a "clear field," avoiding potentially dangerous blood transfusions, and eliminating post-operative Ldasi.

Doctors from Queen Victoria Hospital in Sussex and Westminster Hospital, London, have used arfonad in 300 cases of "bloodless" surgery.

Christopher J. Kilduff, anesthesiologist at the Queen Victoria Hospital reports on 50 operations on the head, neck and chest. He states, "With arfonad, it is possible to exercise close control over the blood pressure and the drug is particularly useful when only a short period of hypotension (reduced blood pressure) is required." The anesthesiologist's aim is a drug which takes effect rapidly and whose effects subside rapidly when the operation is completed.

Dr. Kilduff reports that all 50 patients experienced a satisfactory fall in blood pressure and that none of them needed a transfusion because of blood loss. The anesthesiologist warned that precautions must be taken in restoring the patient's blood pressure after the operation lest hemorrhages occur.

In the other report, on 250 operations including abdominal and lower back as well as head, neck and chest surgery, Drs. C. F. Scurr and J. B. Wyman state that, "In every case a substantial fall in the arterial blood pressure was produced."

These doctors occasionally used procaine amide (a relative of Novocain) to supplement the action of arfonad. They found that "By slowing or stopping the dosage of arfonad, the pressure was allowed to return towards normal levels during the operation and then lowered again to meet surgical needs." They add that "It was possible to obtain the required degree of hypotension in a much higher percentage of cases than with any other agent."

Girl Scout Day Committee Meets

Plans for the opening of the Girl Scout Day Camp to be held during the summer were made at the April 7 meeting of the Scarborough Day Camp Committee held at the Stanford L. Warren Library.

Day camping is for the girls who do not wish to be away from home at night. It is camping by day under trained leadership. Camp Daisy E. Scarborough is located off Fayetteville Road, behind the Mutual Heights Housing Project, and it covers three acres of land including a cabin large enough to accommodate 60 girls.

The camp will be open Monday through Thursday, June 21-24 between the hours of 9 a. m., and 4 p. m. for registration. There will be two sessions. The fee is $4 for Brownies and Scouts, and $5 for non-scouts. A person trained in first aid will be on duty at all times during the camp sessions.

Activities will include swimming, hiking, handcraft, nature studies, out-door cooking, music and many other attractions. Sanitary facilities have been approved by the local Health reports of all committees will be made following which adjournment will take place.

The Ushers Association of North Carolina is the oldest and largest interdenominational church organization in the state. Since it was founded 30 years ago it has given thousands of dollars to the Oxford Orphanage and for the education of unfortunate youths of the race. Plans are now under way for the creation of a home for aged ministers and members of the organization.

Among the other officers of the Association are C. A. Langston, Raleigh, vice-president; Mrs. M. J. Copeland, Greensboro; recording secretary, Mrs. Esther Haywood, Raleigh, corresponding secretary; Burch Coley, Durham, treasurer; A. D. Clarke, chairman of the Board, and C. R. Craig, State supervisor.

Open mindedness. I think should be an attribute of all our chosen representatives, and I expect to arrive at opinions and decisions in all matters in which I shall be concerned only after they have been studied and given logical thought. I don't believe there is a panacea or formula to avoid all the pitfalls of a city government any more than there is in any other ordinary business, and our city's affairs will flourish or wane in proportion to the pattern of service that is given them by the representatives you choose.

The same kind of attention and diligence that I have given to matters of my responsibility for the 35 years of my business life here will be given to this trust if I am favored with the choice of my neighbors to serve on a seat in our City Council.

Mays, Morehouse College, Atlanta, Ga.; Charles S. Johnson, Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn. and J. M. Ellison, Virginia Union University, Richmond, Va.

"What is really involved in this effort of the Negro College Fund is to do all that we can to ensure that qualified young Negro Americans seeking higher education have, and solely because of race, no less opportunity for that education than other young Americans," Dr. Bunche continued.

"It is purely incidental to this objective that at this stage in the development of Negro colleges must be helped. For education—even education behind the walls of segregation—is an important vehicle in the advance of democracy. If so many educational doors were still not closed to the Negro, and when the day comes that they are open, then the position in which the Negro college will find itself will be very clear. The Negro college must then become a fully integrated college."

Shriners and Shrine Temples from sending in their dues and assessments. He stated that he considered this unlawful interference as the greatest damage the Shrine Order has or could ever suffer. He also stated that many innocent Masons and hospitals and other eligible recipients of the charitable gifts from local Temples and from the Shrine Foundation were the innocent sufferers.

Increasing apprehension and great interest was manifested by the public in general, as well as by members of the two Orders. Dr. Jackson stated that the specific question involved was whether or not Dr. Rogan or any other Grand Master could control a Mason's activities in such a manner as to restrict his private conduct and his private membership in other corporations and bodies.

The Shrine Order was founded in Chicago in 1893, and was incorporated in the District of Columbia in 1901. The Grand Lodge is also incorporated. James A. Greene, Grand Lodge attorney, was also present in court but made no comment. Both sides rested until Tuesday.
