Business Opportunities Increasing

The field of business offers more opportunities and challenges than any other area of human endeavor, Atty. William T. Coleman, Jr., told the graduating class of William Penn Business Institute, Sunday.

Delivering the keynote address at the school's commencement exercises held at Bright Hope Baptist Church, 12th and Oxford Sts., he pointed out that most of this country's "distinguished" leaders are representatives from the field of commerce.

Termining America as still "the land of opportunity," Coleman, an associate in the law firm of Dilworth, Person, Kalish and Green, told the graduating class that "technical know-how, a minimum standard of conduct, an extra flare of ability and a mighty heart" are necessary attributes for success.

President C. W. Maxwell conferred diplomas and certificates upon 58 graduates representing seven divisions from the Day and Evening School.

In his charge to the class he declared that "God and man have at last seen fit that you live in an era where there is an interest in opportunity and integration."

Such an interest is good, Maxwell added, but he warned the graduate to be mindful of the fact that total completion of these desires is not success in itself.

"It would be tragic that with integration and equality of opportunity you would be hoodwinked and not make broad economic gains at the same time," he said.

Thelma Ferrell, a junior accounting graduate, was student speaker at the exercises, which marked the first time in the history of the institution that a female student ever held the top honor spot.

During the ceremonies, the school's General Alumni Association presented its Achievement Award to Talmadge E. Simpson, '51, manager of the Carver Homes, Portsmouth, Va. and owner of the Skyline Restaurant in that city. The award to the "outstanding" member of the Association for 1954 was presented by Samuel L. Hall, '51, alumni president, and last year's recipient of the citation.

Others who participated in the exercises were Vera Grant, Carolyn Morris, the Celestial Choir, Ruth E. Jones, Howard Pindell, and John Watson.

Those graduated were: Sales and Business Administration: Robert L. Ashby, Archie Courtney, George W. Harris, Clifford Hose, Frederick Johnson, Luther A. Moore, Christine Quarterman, Clarence E. Saunders, Thomas Singleton, and Curtis Young.

In Troubled Times POSITIVE FAITH FOR ALL AMERICANS

Will books replace traditional medicines? In certain cases, it appears so.

A midwestern doctor recently prescribed a tonic for a troubled patient, then recommended, as supplementary medicine, a copy of Norman Vincent Peale's "The Power of Positive Thinking." Another doctor prescribed frequent readings of certain chapters from the same book, which offered rules for overcoming chronic fatigue and irritability. These cases are not unique.

Just what is "The Power of Positive Thinking," and why do doctors prescribe it? For one thing, it is a scientific approach to a better, healthier, and happier life, based on practical, down-to-earth religious faith. It explains how faith, positively applied, helps solve life's everyday problems: the worrying habit, inability to relax, lack of energy, failure to get along with people, emotionally induced physical illnesses and fears of many kinds. The case histories drawn from Dr. Peale's own tremendous files, and the actual experiences of medical doctors, prove that the author's "prescriptions" work.

The phenomenal popularity of Dr. Peale's book is making publishing history. In less than two years, it has sold 750,000 copies, and may reach a million by Christmas. It has topped the best-seller lists for 92 consecutive weeks, with not a rival in sight. It has made Dr. Peale, already one of the world's most noted ministers, the widest read author in America today.

With the bible selling vigorously in many editions, and with books of religious and inspirational content attracting new millions of readers, it is evident that Americans are turning to religion in greater numbers than ever before in our history.

THE ROMANCE OF SPICES BY WEBB

Pepper - the World's Most Popular Spice!

There's a shaker of ground black pepper on every dining table. The United States consumes about 35,000,000 pounds a year. It is so familiar a spice, that many people forget its fresh and pungent flavor. Many of our favorite dishes depend on pepper for verve and character.

A golden rabbit would be blind without a sprinkling of spicy pepper. Cream soups would be pallid and uninteresting. Scrambled eggs would be tasteless and dull. And chicken pie would not attain its full majesty without pepper's sharpness.

Pepper, grown in India, is an ancient and honorable spice. It has influenced the destinies of men and nations for centuries. The nation that controls the pepper market controls the world!

Columbus discovered America because he was searching for a sea route to India. Vasco da Gama wrested the pepper market from Genoa and Venice for his native Portugal when he sailed around the Cape of Good Hope.

In our own country, history is inseparably linked with the spice. The great fortunes made by the New England traders were largely founded on the spice trade. The pepper tax represented five percent of young America's total income for about fifty years!

The United States, in its early years, wedged its way into the Dutch monopoly of pepper. Today, we are the world center of the spice trade.

The next time you savor the pungent flavor of fresh black pepper, remember that you are not only using the world's most popular spice, you are using one of the world's oldest, most respected and most romantic seasonings.
