Delegate Finds Orientals Doubt U. S. Sincere About Enforcing Integration

NEW YORK
Thousands of university students and other young people in Asia are scrutinizing each move of U. S. Southern states to defy the Supreme Court decision banning segregated public schools, a Harvard Law School student just returned from a trip through five Asian nations declared this week.

Walter Carrington, one of 14 American delegates to attend the 50-nation World Assembly of Youth in Singapore, was interviewed here as he headed back to Cambridge, Mass., and his law studies.

In addition to Singapore, Mr. Carrington visited India, Pakistan, Thailand and Malaya.

Young Mr. Carrington related that when he arrived in Cairo, Egypt, one of the first things to catch his eye was a front-page newspaper story on Louisiana's defiance of the Supreme Court decision.

Although the judicial ban against segregated public schools helped American prestige "tremendously" in Asia, the law student observed, Asian doubts regarding enforcement of the decision were constantly being "reinforced" by Southern moves to continue segregated public schools at any cost.

So closely were those moves being watched in Asia that Mr. Carrington found Asia students with whom he talked to be more up-to-date on Southern defiance of the high court than he was.

As the sole youth member of the NAACP national board of directors, Mr. Carrington can be considered to be quite up-to-date in U. S. race relations himself.

U. S. UNPOPULAR IN ASIA

On the subject of American-Asian relations, Mr. Carrington painted a picture of current dislike for the United States throughout Asia. He attributed this present-hostile attitude towards the U. S. to "McCarthyism and its affiliated symptoms" and American foreign policy in regard to the Near East and the Far East.

Specific U. S. foreign policy moves which have brought about highly unfavorable Asian public opinion were cited by Mr. Carrington as:

"The rigid, inflexible stand of the United States on the question of Communist China," when most Asians think Communist China should be admitted to the United Nations as representing the people of that continent;

"The help extended by the U. S. to the French in the Indo-Chinese war, seen in Asia as direct American aid to French colonialism;

"The pressure exerted by Washington on Asian nations to 'line up militarily' in the cold war between East and West, when Asian public opinion favors the avoidance of war by remaining neutral in this conflict;

Services installing the Rev. A. L. Thompson, the newly elected pastor of the First Calvary Baptist Church, will be held during the week of September 27 to October 3.

The church has formulated an interesting program and invites the public to join with the members in these installation proceedings.

Several of the city's prominent ministers will preach during this week of installation, their choirs and congregation assisting them.

The Rev. W. C. Manson, pastor of the Orange Grove Baptist Church, will preach on Monday night. The Rev. T. C. Graham, pastor of the West Durham Baptist Church, will preach on Tuesday night. The Rev. J. H. Peppers, pastor of the St. Paul Baptist Church, will speak on Wednesday night. The Rev. L. M. Gooch, pastor of the St. John's Baptist Church, will speak on Thursday night. These services will end

REV. A. L. THOMPSON

Sunday, October 3, when the Rev. C. E. McLester will preach at 3:00 P. M.

Each night service will begin at 7:30.

The Rev. A. L. Thompson, who succeeds the late Rev. H. H. Hart, is a pleasing speaker. He comes to Durham with an extensive pastoral and evangelistic background.

White high school students who earlier last week staged a demonstration against Negro students assigned to their school in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., have withdrawn their objections, it was revealed this week through information received at the NAACP national office here.

Walter White, executive secretary of the Association, said he had been informed of this fact by two West Virginia NAACP officials who, at the request of the national office, went to White Sulphur Springs to investigate the school situation there. They were T. G. Nutter, president of the West Virginia State Conference of NAACP Branches and member of the Association's national board of directors, and Willard Brown, president of the Charleston, W. Va., branch.

Mr. White stated that he had been informed by Mr. Nutter and Mr. Brown that a news story in yesterday's edition of a Charleston, W. Va., daily newspaper also announced that the white high school students had ceased their objections to having Negro students attend their school.

Earlier in the week the White Sulphur Springs school board reversed its decision to integrate local schools in line with the Supreme Court decision banning segregation in public education after white students and white parents demonstrated against the entrance of Negro pupils into the formerly all-white high school.

Life Magazine Features Former Hillside Teacher

Mrs. Margery Brown, former art teacher at Hillside High School, has a two page spread of drawings in Life magazine's "Speaking of Pictures" section for the issue of September 20.

The talented young artist is the sister of John H. Wheeler, president of the Mechanics and Farmers Bank of Durham and Raleigh.

She taught at Hillside High School during 1934-1935 when the late Professor W. G. Pearson was principal.

After leaving Durham, Mrs. Brown returned to her alma mater, Spelman College, Atlanta, Ga., where she taught art about five years ago when she and her family moved to Newark, New Jersey.

In addition to her studies at Spelman College, Mrs. Brown did graduate work at Ohio State University where she received a master's degree in her field.

The current drawings in Life, first sketches to be sold commercially by Mrs. Brown are concerned with what she considers "common denominators in classrooms everywhere... the same gymnasium hi-jinks, the same bewildered parental reactions, and the same classroom exasperations." A thorough mastery of youthful expressions and figures is apparent in all of the drawings.

Six drawings are featured on Life's current pages 16 and 17. The drawing of the "Boys' Gym" features four boys of varying ages.

ROXBORO

Within less than one week death claimed two ministers and brothers it was learned Wednesday when the report reached here of the passing of Rev. George W. Thomas at Freedman's Hospital in Washington, D. C. Tuesday. His brother, the Rev. Ransom Thomas, died last Thursday at Duke Hospital in Durham following a cerebral hemorrhage. His funeral was held at Lawson Chapel Baptist Church last Sunday.

The Rev. George Thomas, who had been ill for several weeks, was a native of Person County and a widely known minister. For more than 25 years, he had been regularly engaged as a pastor of churches in the Person County area. For 21 years he served as moderator of the East Cedar Grove Baptist Association.

Under his leadership, the Mt. Zoar Baptist Church recently completed and moved into a new edifice located just outside the city limits of Durham. At the time of his death, he was also the pastor of Piney Grove Baptist Church.

The Rev. Mr. Thomas was also active in the field of education and taught school for a number of years. He served at one time as principal of the Person County Training School.

STUDENTS' CONVENTION CALLS FOR SCHOOL INTEGRATION

AMES, IA.
A resolution calling for immediate de-segregation of the public schools was adopted by delegates to the Seventh Annual Congress of the U. S. National Student Association here.

The statement, voted enthusiastically by 700 student delegates representing every major college and university in the U. S., declared in part: "Segregation in education by race is unethical and unwise. It is now unconstitutional.

"The U. S. National Student Association pledged to seeking the elimination of such segregation, urges the swiftest possible integration of the races at all educational levels in all parts of the country.

"In the face of ethical concepts, legal requirements, and global ramifications, there can be no justification for delay in the implementation of the Supreme Court decision."

The strongly-worded resolution, introduced by the chairman of the Great Southern Region, caught many of the youthful northern delegates by surprise.

Up to that time most statements on school segregation were rather weak and evasive due to an extraordinary precaution on the part of northern delegates to avoid what they considered offending the southern delegates.

One Hundred Forty Freshmen At Bennett

GREENSBORO

One hundred forty freshmen were admitted to Bennett College during the admission period, September 16-18, according to Dr. Willa B. Player, Vice President of the College and Director of Admissions. This figure represents an increase of about eight per cent over admissions for last year.

The geographic spread, based on admissions figures completed to date, covers 18 states and the District of Columbia, extending as far west as California. The largest out-of-state representations come from South Carolina, Virginia, Ohio, New York, and Georgia.

Among the foreign countries represented by the newcomers are the Bahamas, Korea, Nigeria, India, and Bermuda.

Eighteen sisters and one set of twins are members of this year's beginning class. The sisters include relationships with upperclassmen at Bennett, graduates of the College, and sister sets having no previous family ties with the school. The twins come from the Bahamas and are sisters of an upperclassman.

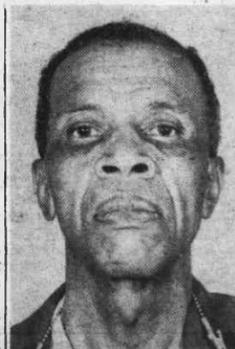

Freshmen began their acquaintance with the college program Friday morning, Sept. 17, when they heard Dr. David Jones, President of the College, explain the "Bennett Philosophy." At the same session, Mrs. Minnie Smith, Director of Campus Services, talked with the newcomers about the co-curricular program.

Heart Attack Claims Man Who Surrendered To Police After 20 Years As Fugitive From Justice

Did Rudy Faucette have a premonition that the cruel hand of death was about to envelope him when he packed his bag and baggage and left Hartford, Conn., and started the long trek that landed him in the toils of the law at the Durham courthouse and eventual death from a heart attack in the State Prison Saturday night?

This is the question that the people of Durham are asking. There are those who feel that the hand of fate began working on him in the early Spring and that it was not his urge to visit his boyhood haunts that brought him back to Durham on a hot July night, but his conscience worked on him to the extent that he was forewarned that he would be called before the eternal bar of justice.

The believers in firm destiny are saying that when his wife broke down and cried on the witness stand of the Durham County Superior Court, exclaiming that her husband was too sick to be sent to prison, and when Attorney R. P. Reade pleaded with Judge Paul to be lenient, due to his health, that such a turn of affairs in the bizarre happenings of his turbulent life was moot evidence that the hand of justice had to be served. Rudy confessed that he killed Mrs. Patterson after a drinking party and the only reason he gave for taking the life of the woman was that he was tired of her fussing and fuming. Judge Paul pointed out, in the course of the trial, that Faucette did not show that he had repented for the crime because he had shot another human being in New York and had served eight years for this shooting.
