Speakers Blast Lack Of Voting Interest Among N. C. Negroes

CHAPEL HILL
Three speakers blasted the lack of voting among Negroes in North Carolina, at the 31st Mid-Year Session of the Interdenominational Ushers Association meeting held here Sunday, April 17.

In his annual address to the delegates and visitors earlier in the afternoon, President L. E. Austin of the Association told his listeners that the Negro people had the solution to the fight against integration in their own hands and that, he said, it was the ballot, "which many of us refuse to use."

Coincidental to Austin's address, which was not heard by the principal speaker of the day, was that of Rev. J. A. Brown, pastor of the Ebenezer Baptist Church in Durham, who told the vast throng that packed every inch of space in the large auditorium of the church, that some members of the race were too lazy to vote and that many of them on election day waited to be hauled to the poll, and others, in spite of the fact that they could get a free ride, would not vote.

Said he further, "many of our race do not believe they are equal because they have been taught by the white man that they are inferior and as a result they will not vote, and in addition will permit their children to go untidy and unclean. Rev. Brown is known for his free expression of thought pulled no punches in his address that fairly rocked the vast audience.

Later on in the afternoon a third speaker, J. S. Stewart, Secretary of the Mutual Savings and Loan Association of (Please turn to Page Ten)

The Baha'i Faith, which had its beginning in Iran in 1844, now numbers adherents in 2550 countries and territories of the world. Baha'is believe their religion to be the fulfillment of all past prophetic cycles, and Baha'u'llah to be the "Promised One" of all the major world religions. Wilmington Editor In Run-Off For City Council

WILMINGTON
Tom Jervay, editor and publisher of the Wilmington Journal, made history here Monday when he ran second in a field of five candidates for one of two vacancies on the City Council. Out of a total of 6,940 votes cast the newspaperman polled a total of 2,404 votes. E. L. Wade, veteran councilman placed first with a total of 3,283 votes.

By polling the second highest number of votes in the race, Jervay won the right to contest for the seat in a run-off to be held on May 3. It will be the first time in over 60 years that a Negro candidate has polled enough votes to be in a run-off. Jervay missed a majority by only 440 votes.

He will contest in the run-off against Ronald Lane, former member of the Council, who retired from his seat several years ago because of ill health. In spite of his ill health Lane was dragged into the race against Jervay because he owns and operates a business in the Negro section and is believed to be the only candidate who would have a chance against Jervay.

Entrance of the Newspaperman into the City Council race was his first experience in politics.

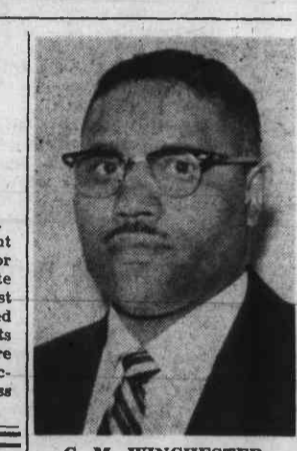

Rev. William R. Crawford, pastor of Mount Pleasant Methodist Church, Winston-Salem, and member of the Board of Aldermen of that city, will make the main address Sunday, April 24, at 4:30 p. m. when the Beta Theta Lambda and Gamma Beta Chapters of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity begin the annual observance of their National Education Week at the Sunday afternoon vesper services of North Carolina College here in Durham.

Rev. Crawford, a member of the fraternity, is a graduate of West Virginia State College and Gammon Theological Seminary.

Three Weeks Left To Join "Healthy Baby" Contest

Nothing to buy, no jingle to write, no labels to send in—just fill out an entry blank and send it together with a "snapshot" of your baby to: Carnation Healthy Baby Contest, Box 1021, Durham, N. C.

Never before in our publishing experience have we seen a contest where the chances of winning cash prizes are so good. We want to remind all our readers once again that Carnation Evaporated Milk is sponsoring this contest just for your own community. Twenty cute, healthy-looking babies in this area must be awarded the twenty cash prizes. All parents with babies three years of age or under are urged to mail in the official entry blank in another section of this issue.

In a statement to this newspaper from Carnation Company headquarters in Los Angeles, California, a Carnation spokesman paid high tribute to the prominent local citizens who were chosen to judge the babies' snapshots. "Each of these individuals is known for his integrity, good judgment and love of children. We at Carnation congratulate your newspaper for your great efforts in making our Healthy Baby Contest such a hit with your readers."

This newspaper believes there is no more worthy cause in the world than promoting good health among infants. Because these little tots are the generation of tomorrow, they deserve the very best care that modern medical science can bring them. No wonder Carnation research in modern infant nutrition has the enthusiastic support of our local doctors and hospitals. Mothers, too, know the healthful benefits of Carnation Evaporated Milk; eight out of 10 mothers who feed a Carnation formula say "my doctor recommended it."

HERE and THERE

WATCH THAT TONGUE
Bedford Hill, N. Y.
A person who signs himself R. C. tells of an embarrassing moment during his first day on a new job. Desiring to make conversation with another co-worker, he said, "Aren't those two girls who work in the office a couple of witches?"

Came the reply, "Well, I can't say I agree with you, because one of them happens to be my wife."

SUPERIOR MAN?
New Orleans
A 48-year-old New Orleans gambler suspect Christian W. Baum, Sr., asked $30,000 damages from the Times-Picayune Publishing Company on grounds that the newspapers identified him as a Negro. Baum asked $10,000 for mental anguish and $10,000 for damage to his reputation.

QUOTES FROM HERE AND THERE
"How can a woman blame her husband for not remembering her birthday when she forgets her age."

THE SCHOOL OF EXPERIENCE HAS CERTAINLY DEVELOPED A LOT OF KICKERS.

GOT TO SEE SOMETHING FIRST
New York
Willie Mays came up the other day with a description of the speed of Herb Score, the Cleveland Indians fire-ball pitcher, that is about as superb as some of his circus catches. Said the Giant center-fielder: "Man, how can I tell you about Score? I haven't seen him pitch yet. All I see the man do is wind up and then the ball is in the catcher's mitt!"

A STUDY IN MOTIVE
New York
An unknown cab driver here who tries hard to give the pedestrian a "break" has sufficient motive for not hitting them, but there may be some question as to the moral character of his motive. When he stopped dead to let a pedestrian pass, a passenger indicated that he was deeply impressed with such courtesy.

The driver replied, "I try not to hit 'em, because then you gotta fill out a report."

Tuesday night a shouting mob of over 2,000 students raiding women's dormitories resulted in the entire police force of Chapel Hill being called out when frightened girls phoned for help.

Shouting "we want panties" the crowd raced from one dormitory to another. When young women on the third floor of one dormitory supplied the panties the crowd yelled, "We want more." On the second floor of the dormitory which was darkened, when the demand was made for panties the chant came back, "Girls on the second floor don't wear panties."

According to reports some of the boys rushed out of their dormitories in their pajamas and other without shirts or shoes.

At the Durham High School here it is reported that at least two sex and liquor clubs are in existence. They are known as the "Ace Club" and the "I. D. Club." The "I. D. Club" consists of girls. The "I. D." is (Please turn to Page Ten)
