Present Head Denies Any Plans To Quit Position At Raleigh School

RALEIGH
A dark and foreboding shadow hung heavily over Raleigh this week when rumors were persistent that Dr. Harold L. Trigg, former president of St. Augustine College, was being mentioned as principal of Ligon High School of this city. The rumor gained momentum when it was learned that Dr. W. H. Watson, present principal of the school would leave the city at the close of school to do further study. In a telephone conversation with a representative of the Carolina Times, Dr. Watson stated that he had heard the rumor but knew nothing of his decision to terminate his position as principal of the school. He stated emphatically that he expected to return to his same position at the opening of school in September.

Although the Times attached little significance to the rumor that Dr. Trigg was actually being considered for the position, it did learn that it is the belief of many responsible persons in Raleigh that Dr. Trigg could have the principalship of Ligon High School if he desired it.

Dr. Trigg is well-known in educational circles in North Carolina where up until last January he was president of St. Augustine's College and a member of the State Board of Education. His resignation from St. Augustine's in the middle of the school term is reported to have been the result of a misunderstanding between him and the Trustee Board of the school.

Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune, 79, noted educator and leader of the race died at home, Daytona Beach, Florida, Wednesday evening of a heart attack. Dr. Bethune, referred to by many as the queen of her race was the founder of Bethune-Cookman College and was its president from 1904 to 1942.

NAACP ENTERS CASE OF MAN CHARGED WITH SLAYING WOMAN

SALISBURY
A ride he hitch-hiked from Concord to Winston Salem may be a determining factor in saving Charles F. Brooks of Reading, Pennsylvania from death in the gas chamber at Raleigh when he is brought to trial here for the murder of Mrs. John C. Barnes of Landis on Jan. 18.

The 21-year old Negro soldier told Chas. V. Bell, Charlotte attorney, hired by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and Kelly Alexander, state president of NAACP, in an interview Tuesday night that he caught a ride out of Concord the morning of January 18 and that he did not stop at Landis or anywhere else until he reached Winston-Salem.

Bell and Alexander were the first persons outside of police officers that had talked with Brooks since his arrest in Frederick, Maryland on May 7. Heretofore Brooks has practically refused to talk to anyone. County officers had previously stated that he would neither admit nor deny that he had slain the woman. According to Bell, Brooks was in pretty good spirit and stated he had been treated fine by officers of the law. Attorney Bell also stated that the preliminary hearing will be delayed until he can complete the investigation now in process. Assisting Bell will be C. O. Pearson, Durham attorney who heads the legal committee of the NAACP in North Carolina.

He has done post graduate study at Michael Reese Hospital, Chicago Post Graduate School of Surgical Technique and New York University School of Medicine. Dr. Brown was co-founder of the Keystone, West Virginia Chapter of the NAACP. He was a member of the City Council of Keystone, West Virginia for four years.

He has traveled in Bermuda, the Caribbean, South America, Europe and the British Isles. He held memberships in the Forest City Medical Association, Cleveland, Ohio; National Medical Association; and the American Medical Association. (Please turn to Page Ten)

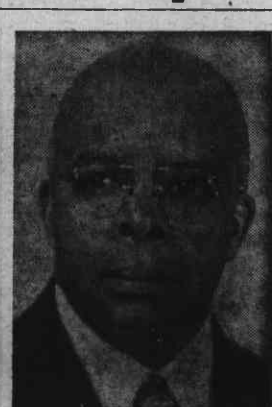

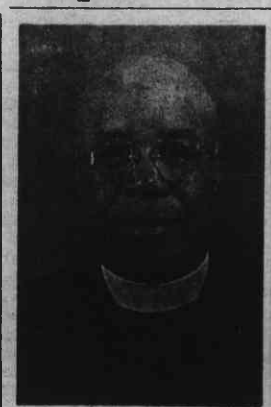

S. C. Negroes Threaten Court Action Against "Separate But Equal" Park

COULMBIA, S. C.
An action to gain admission to Edisto Beach State Park was threatened here this week by a group of Charleston Negroes unless the all-white park is opened to members of their race. The demand of the Negroes follows a refusal of state officials to provide park facilities for Negroes since the matter was first under discussion during the 1953-54 period.

Intention of the Negroes to bring action if the park is not opened to them was disclosed in a letter addressed to State Forestry Commission under whose auspices state parks operate in South Carolina. The letter was signed by Attorney John H. Wrighten and stated that the "separate but equal" doctrine of racial accommodations was no longer applicable.

The letter said in part: "This comes to inform you that the colored citizens of Charleston and Charleston Edisto State Park Beach this County are desirous of using year, as previous years they were prohibited from using the same because of segregation under the 'separate but equal' doctrine, that was birthed some 58 years ago."

"Under Plessy versus Ferguson, I am sure you are familiar with the said case, said Doctrine. I am sure that you know that this 'separate but equal' doctrine is no longer applicable in education or

70 ENTER CARNATION 'HEALTHY BABY CONTEST'

"The contest where everyone wins and no one loses," is the way we heard on local mother recently describe the current Second Annual Healthy Baby Contest, sponsored by the Carnation Company of Los Angeles. "Only 20 cute, healthy-looking babies can win the 20 cash prizes offered by Carnation... but every day can win a healthy start in life with a Carnation formula," she explained. Competing for the $300.00 first prize are hundreds of our community's proud parents with babies three years of age or under... each parent certain that their baby is the cutest, healthiest one of all. Whose baby will win? Which luck baby will be selected by the judges as the prize "hometown" baby of the year? Only time will tell. Every baby in our community deserved to be entered. This newspaper has always stood for community health, especially among our youngest generation. We unite with local doctors, nurses and hospitals in campaigning for the best infant care nutritional science can provide. We sincerely believe the Carnation Company is doing a fine job in helping us promote infant welfare in our city. The first few formative years are the most important in a child's life.
