

Signs Of Increasing Defection Of Negroes From Democrats Seen

NEW YORK
Increasing signs of defection in the Negro vote are alarming Democratic Party leaders, a survey of dozens of top Democrats indicated today.

Party leaders surveyed, ranging from Harry Truman to Harry Byrd, now striving to prevent a Southern bolt over the explosive civil rights question, also are unhappy with Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Wilkins isn't telling Negroes how to vote, says an article in the new issue of Look Magazine. But he is suggesting that, where other political interests are not affected, Negroes might think about switching to the Republicans.

The Look survey found that Democrats are particularly alarmed in the North, where a substantial Negro shift to the GOP could cost them not only the presidency but control of Congress.

Despite this and other danger signs, party leaders surveyed are confident that there will be no crippling breakup between North and South.

Instead, they predicted that a moderate policy in civil rights will be adopted for the '56 election and that their national convention will pick a candidate who will reflect this spirit. Moreover, party pundits are optimistic that President Eisenhower won't carry any Southern state because of the segregation issue.

On the civil rights question, three points of view have emerged in the party, the Look survey reports:

1. Southerners would like the platform to say nothing more than in 1952.
2. Northern radicals want the platform to call upon the President and Congress to implement and carry out the Supreme Court decision.
3. A middle ground where the party would state that it "concurs in the Supreme Court decision and implementation order"—period.
