ment of sentence with the statement, "It is understood that I have no vote at this trial." The sentence called for its mandatory. I only announce the findings of the trial committee."

The verdict automatically suspends Bishop Nichols, cutting off his salary which for the rest of the quadrennial will amount to $51,000.

The five charges on which Bishop Nichols was found guilty were:

1. Illegal handling of General Budget and church funds.
2. Placing burdensome assessments on the churches and ministers for his own personal gain.
3. Disobedience to the Order and Discipline of the A.M.E. Church.
4. Sponsoring an unauthorized project (to build a community center on the campus of Edward Waters College.)
5. Withholding of total offerings for the Minimum Salary Fund.

Mrs. Christine Wilson, (Sect. to Atty. Jones); the Mortgage Loan Department, Miss Lois P. Hairston and Mrs. Dorothy Miller, secretaries; the president's down-stairs office; P. A. Simmons, attorney and agency director. The tour then went down a half flight to the office of Walter M. Hairston, printing department, (C. Lewis Hill is an apprentice in the printing department); the Winston District Agent's room; Asst. manager, L. Hill; Manager E. M. Lewis and clerk, Mrs. Louise B. Simmons.

The visitors were then led upstairs to the Agency Accounting Department, G. Cosmo Hill in charge; Clerks, Mrs. Tereatha Harper and Mrs. Alberta B. Wilkins. Underwriting Department, A. W. McKnight, agency secretary; Mrs. Etta Hill, general clerk; Treasury and Records Department, Mrs. Nellie H. Bausman; Ordinary Department, Mrs. Geneva Hill and her assistant, Mrs. Nettie G. Booker, Auditor, A. W.

Harper.
Another half flight of stairs brought the guests to Winston Mutual's modernized tabulation department, which is equipped with the latest International Business Machines including the fabulous and ingenious "402" machine. This IBM can print a list of the policy holders on each debit making up the entire company in just a matter of an hour or less. In charge of the tabulating department is the secretary, C. L. Hill, assisted by three capable ladies, Mesdames Dorothy Miller, Janet Warren and Nettie Booker. Mrs. Myrtle Stepp, also of this department, is in charge of insurance of new business.

Upon leaving the tabulation department, the guides showed visitors the directors room with its long heavy mahogany table. Next on the agenda was the private office of C. L. Hill and the upstairs office of the president. Completing the tour of this floor, visitors were shown the office of the second vice-president, the venerable but active octogenarian, W. P. Hairston.

Going down a half flight of stairs, between the second floor and the ground floor, the tour ended in a large beautifully decorated assembly room. Here guides ushered guests to register in the guests' books (stand furnished by Ryans Funeral Home), then past the two huge rectangular, of 51st anniversary cakes, surrounded by 51 candies.

After the long winding tour through the building, visitors were rewarded with servings of cool, refreshing punch and little cookies. Those serving were: Mesdames W. A. Jones, J. L. Lassiter, E. M. Lewis, L. W. Wright, A. W. McKnight, Price G. Freeman and Jeanette Carter.

FLOWERS: Every office and department carried an array of beautiful flowers from well wishers and friends. Those included, Security Life and Trust Co.; Hinkle's Book Store, Paul L. day were turned away.

The lone vote cast in favor of admission of Holt to the white school in Raleigh was that of board member Atty. F. J. Carnage, only Negro member of the board.

J. W. Wyatt, who moved for denial of the application, said the action should be taken "in the interest of the public and the interest of the boy."

Holt's father said after the decision that he had not decided whether to appeal the board's action.

Carnage described the board's action as unfair to Holt.

He said he understood the difficulty of the first admission of a Negro to a white school, but added that "the strain would be there five years from now."

Board member Leroy Martin said he favored a delay to see how desegregation works out in Winston-Salem, Charlotte and Greensboro.

These three North Carolina cities broke the ice in desegregation in the state a few weeks ago by voting to admit a total of 12 Negro pupils to previously all white schools. No Negroes have been admitted by any other white school in the state, though, in addition to requests at Old Fort and Raleigh, there are requests by Negroes for admission to white schools at Durham and Chapel Hill.

Atty. Stubbs is well known and well liked among leading Negro citizens of Durham and their effort to secure the appointment of Harris to succeed Frank Bozarth, who previously announced that he would not seek reelection, was not because of any dislike for him but because of their desire and feeling that Negro school children, who constitute 40 per cent of the school population, should have representation on the Board by at least one member of their group.

All-Star Game On Tap Sunday

Durham Athletic Park will take on a big league atmosphere here Sunday when ex-baseball star Monte Irvin leads the semi-professional All Stars against the powerful Fayetteville Cardinals.

Irvin, who broke into baseball with St. Louis the same year Jackie Robinson cracked baseball's color line, will pilot the team which will be made up of the best players on ten semi-professional teams in this area.

The Durham Rams, local semi-professional team, is expected to place three players in the All Star line up.

The ex-New York Giant outfielder, who powered the Polo Grounds to their last pennant and World Series crown in '54, has been studying his roster of players and is expected to field a combination that will offer a serious challenge to the Cardinals, the winningest semi-professional team in the Carolinas and Virginia.

Made up principally of servicemen who formerly played big league ball, the Cardinals have a miraculous 47-3 record over the past two seasons.

The Cardinals hope to neutralize any moves Monte Irvin may undertake by using their ace right hander, Johnny Wyatt, on the mound. Wyatt fast balled for the Indianapolis Clowns in 1955. He is now the property of the Kansas City Athletics Class AA Dallas team in the hot Texas League.

After his two year Army hitch, he plans to return to Dallas to wait for a shot at the majors.

Wyatt will be backed up by Robert Burns and Ed Roane; Burns, a sidemarker, tossed as a bonus rookie for the Chicago Cubs system in 1955. Roane is a native of Fayetteville who played with the Fayetteville Black Sox in 1956.

Sparkplugging the Cardinals is stocky Wayne Lisle, who corcovorts at short stop. The slender long ball hitter has offers for scholarships from several colleges waiting for him when he leaves the army.

The Card's slugging leader is Richard Saunders, first sacker, who has six homers in eleven games.

Brickites To Hold Reunion

RALEIGH

The eighth annual reunion of the Bricks College Alumni will be held on the campus of the school at Bricks, near Enfield, August 24-25, according to an announcement this week by Charles A. Haywood of Raleigh, president of the Alumni Association.

The association has as projects the restoration of Ingraham Chapel and a Scholarship Fund and the president is urging all Brickites to attend the reunion this year in large numbers. P. J. Chessom of Norfolk is chairman.

Rideout, who holds degrees from several colleges, is a former teacher at the University of New Hampshire and Idaho State College, was charged with having attacked the anti-communist Smith act in 1951.

(The Supreme Court recently declared portions of the act unconstitutional and ordered new trials for persons convicted under its provisions and freed others)

Both Rideout and Wiggins were listed as belonging to the Progressive Party in the early fifties.

Dr. Veal denied, however, that their political beliefs had any bearing on their requested resignations.

contemporary design. The exterior is constructed of pink based normal brick laid in panels with interwoven aluminum strips. Contemporary design also predominates the interior furnishings.

Among the service features of the new building are an off street entrance with a walk-up teller's window for after hours banking service and a self-lighted night depository. Air-conditioning is provided for the entire building by separate units.

The main banking room contains five teller's cages and is overlooked by the mezzanine which provides space for the bookkeeping department and the Directors' room. Automatic elevators service each floor of the building.

Space on the main floor is also provided for two offices, a reception room, an employees' lounge and kitchen facilities. The North Carolina Mutual district office will occupy the second floor.

Mechanics and Farmers bank was organized in January, 1907 by the late R. B. Fitzgerald, prominent Durham business man and brick maker. It opened for the first time in August, 1908.

During its fifty year history, the institution has grown steadily from its opening year resources of $40,000 to the largest Negro bank in the world. Nationally it holds a rank of 3,207 among some 15,000 banks throughout the country.

In addition to the Wachovia bank, the Mechanics and Farmers bank here was the only one to survive the banking holiday of 1933, brought on by the disastrous stock market collapse.

The bank here is guided by a board of management consisting of Dr. L. E. McCauley, chair-
