

Whole New City To Blossom Soon In Wake Of D. C.'s Slum Clearance

WASHINGTON, D. C. A whole new shining city on the northwest side of town will soon bloom in beauty as a slum clearance program gets underway to convert 915 acres to trim, airy and sun-lit homes with such parking space, schools and a shopping center.

Responsible for the project is the National Capitol Planning Commission and the Redevelopment Land Agency which drafted the plan jointly this year. Chairman John Remon, in handing the draft to the commission, asked for "tentative approval as a basis for review." If approved, it will then go to the Housing and Home Finance Agency. Many changes would then take place. Approximately 60 percent of the houses in the area now are walk-ups and flats. These apartments would be purchased for public housing. Dunbar High School would win a frontage as it faces New Jersey Avenue and many other schools would be likewise included.

Charles Conrad, NCPC staff planner, explained that "the plan aims high, but by aiming high we hope to come out with a finished program that will not be too bad." The present population, he figures is close to 60,000 and would be reduced to 55,000. The income group averages $2,850 per year to $5,200. The plan will settle the low income groups together and the middle groups in another section.

The plan does not wish to remove any residents from the area, just re-locate them into proper groups. A great percentage of the area under surveillance is inhabited by Negroes.

(continued from page 2) without meaning, to 'do the job ourselves—just give us time.' Time is running out for that sort of thing. A start must be made toward offering the Negro the rights he deserves under our form of government, and, as we have shown, it can be done by making integration voluntary. Integration will come gradually if made permissive, but it also will come peacefully and painlessly. The southern whites simply need time to get used to it and to put aside the attitudes of their grandparents, and the Negroes need time to discover that only through integration can they get the most from their educational opportunities.

We have a long way to go, even in West Virginia, before America will have a single school program for all races, but here we have found that, while it was a sensitive and disruptive social issue, integration could be made to work easily without destroying a way of life as old as the nation itself.

Women's College Dean Tells Co-Eds To Adjust To Unseen Order

GREENSBORO

"Anyone who thinks that majorities necessarily determine what is right and what is wrong, are sadly mistaken," Dr. Franklin H. McNutt, dean of the graduate school at Woman's College, told the Bennett College vespers audience recently.

Dr. McNutt, who spoke on "Adjustment," pointed out that it is impossible to face the problems of life without making some adjustments, and he listed persons making such adjustments as realists, pragmatists or idealists.

"There are those who adjust themselves to things as they are," he declared, "but there is no progress to be made this way. Then there are those who adjust to the crowd, believing that when in Rome, one should do as Romans do."

"But then there are those to whom what the crowd says, doesn't matter. They have learned to adjust to the unseen order. Our troubles would cease if we could make that adjustment more frequently," he said.

He cited Jesus Christ, Gandhi, Dr. George Washington Carver and Dr. Frank Graham as individuals who made such an adjustment in their lives. "Through such adjustment," he concluded, "we may find the serenity, the courage and the steadfastness we need in meeting the serious problems that confront us."

Burton Civic League Elects Officers For 1958

The annual meeting of the Burton Community Civic League was held Tuesday November 19 at the T. A. Grady Community Center at which time the officers and standing committees made reports. The officers elected to serve for the year 1958 are as follows: W. W. Barbee, President; R. Kelly Bryant, Jr., vice president; Mrs. Alice D. Luster, secretary; and Mrs. Lillie B. McIntyre, treasurer.

The members of the Board of Directors are: John P. Morgan, Irvin Upchurch, I. O. Funderburg, Coy McIntyre, Mrs. Virginia W. Alston, L. S. Knox, J. W. McClinton, Wiley F. Neal, Jr., Jesse Boston, C. C. Malone, E. W. Midgette, Miss A. M. Duniagan, A. J. Stanley, Frank Howard Alston, and Robert L. Battle.

Very impressive reports were made by the civic improvement committee, economic welfare committee, political committee, recreation committee and education committee. The League is very much concerned over the employment policy of the curtain factory located in their midst.

-No Change-

Mr. Hejms' interesting proposal contains a provision that Negroes be used to tell the story of the South to the nation. But, apparently he would have those selected to tell Dixie's tale carefully screened and only captive voices permitted to be heard, especially in view of his belief that the South has nothing to be ashamed of.

He needs to know that his belief that no race problem existed until the government and meddlers stepped in is a patent delusion. There are many causes for the late development of the Negro's struggle for full citizenship, but previous good race relations disturbed by meddlers of recent vintage is not one of them. He and the whole South need to know that the drive for full citizenship will not be halted now, even if the NAACP is forced out of business. The desire for freedom is deeply imbedded in the breasts of all humans, and to deny the innate desire to Negroes is to deny to them the quality of humanity.

NCC Teacher Pens Article

Dr. John H. Morrow, professor of French at North Carolina College, is author of "Lamartine the Emancipator", a brief article in a recent issue of the French Review.

Alphonse M. L. Lamartine (1790-1869) is described by Morrow as "an ardent opponent of slavery," who "carried the fight for freedom of French held slaves," beyond the walls of the "Chambre des Deputes" and in 1840 addressed a banquet given for the representatives of American and British abolitionist societies.

Lamartine, Morrow adds, "revealed great eloquence, wisdom, and leadership" in the "bitter struggle to secure freedom for the slaves."
