FALEIGH to face Saint Augustine's Falcons. Both teams are fresh from victories last week. Smith needs the win over the Falcons to strengthen her first division position. St. Auguste can't afford to lose any more conference games in view of the fact she dropped her first two. Both teams are greatly improved. However, the Falcons have come the farthest. Smith must not be taken lightly in view of her ability to make other teams make mistakes easily. A REAL CLOSE ONE. SAINT AUGUSTINE 14—SMITH 8.

 entered the case.
 The charges stem from allegations by the registrar, Mrs. Taylor, that he shook his finger at her during a dispute over her refusal to register Negroes.
 On the charge of assaulting a female, Mrs. Taylor, he was fined $500 and still owes $300 of it. On October 8, the North Carolina Supreme Court quashed an indictment under which Walker was fined $50 on a charge of disturbing a registrar in the performance of her duties.
 Walker says public officials "don't intend to save any Negro lawyers practice in this section. They threw the book at me to try to cripple me and to drive me out. They used the criminal law to interfere with my practice of the law and as a psychological weapon to scare away clients and keep me broke". He still has an appeal pending from the $100 fine on a trespass charge.
 Officers of the Walker-Lassiter Defense Fund are the Rev. Alexander D. Moseley, President, Weldon; the Rev. C. Melvin Creecy, Vice-President, Rich Square; Mrs. Cherry E. Clarke, Secretary, Graysburg; Mrs. Lottie C. Broadnax, Assistant Secretary, Seaboard; and Augustus C. Coffield, Treasurer, Weldon. Executive Board members are the Rev. Judson King, Bricks, Chairman, Rev. C. L. Faison, Henderson; Rev. N. K. Dunn, Weldon; Fredernand Watson, Rich Square, Oswald C. Joyner, Margarettsville; Arthur Poole, Henderson; Herbert Brown, Pleasant Hill; Thomas H. Coffield, Enfield; W. R. Hicks, Severn; Willie Sykes, Henrico.

men's club were "heartily opposed to the transfer to Durham Athletic Park."
 The Eagles haven't lost a contest at O'Kelly Field since 1953 when Maryland State trimmed the locals 20-7.
 Posters over the campus today said, "Dr. I. G. Newton, go back to political science. Leave Athletics alone."
 Jerome H. Dudley, NCC student Government president, couldn't be reached for comment today. However, one student leader said Dudley and many of his supporters are "unalterably opposed to shifting the game away from O'Kelly field."
 Student reaction is that the move away from the campus is "psychologically disadvantageous to NCC" and would jeopardize the Eagles' championship hopes. There was also resentment that the decision to move the game occurred without participation of student leaders.
 Dr. Howard E. Wright, chairman of the Athletic Committee, wasn't available for comment early today. One committee member, however, said the committee had no knowledge that the game had been transferred. There was no administrative comment at NCC on the matter.

—Mrs. Godette

 She was pronounced dead on arrival at Lincoln hospital minutes later as the result of multiple fractures of the right leg, shock and internal injuries. Moments earlier, she had left Mt. Vernon Baptist Church following evening services. The church is located less than 25 yards from the spot where she was struck.
 Ransom Watkins, 24, of 417 Lakeland street, driver of the 1949 Plymouth which hit the woman, was booked for investigation of manslaughter.
 Police said the right front of the car hit Mrs. Godette.
 Following funeral services at Mt. Vernon Thursday, Mrs. Godette's body was scheduled to be taken to Beechwood cemetery for interment.
 Daughter of the late Rev. W. W. Moore, Mrs. Godette was born on February 4 in Beaufort County, N. C. in 1892.
 She was active in many phases of work at Mt. Vernon Baptist Church and in the church community.
 Her survivors are one son: William Little of Newport News, Va.; two sisters: Mrs. Hannah Gaylord, Baltimore, Md., and Mrs. Charlie Ann Moore, Brooklyn, New York; three brothers: Alonzo Moore, Baltimore, Md.; Rogers Moore, Greenville; and John Allen Moore, Philadelphia, Pa.; one granddaughter: Mrs. Rebecca L. Peterson, one grandson, William Little, Jr., two great grandchildren and numerous other relatives.

 NCC's O'Kelly Field has bleacher accommodations for 9,000.
 A spokesman in the NCC business office said today the Athletic Park "could more easily accommodate the large crowd expected than O'Kelly Field."
 NCC football Coach Herman H. Riddick said today, "I have not been consulted about the game site. Our football team, naturally, would prefer playing on O'Kelly Field."
 Riddick said he learned of the proposed shift from the team captain, Lloyd Eason, Newport News, Va., senior quarterback.
 Riddick said he "understood" the football team and the Letter-
