anything constructive to combat the evil of racial segregation?" "Does the community regard your Church as an effective social force?" Is the Church interested in international affairs? "What is your Church doing to improve the economic life of the community?" and "Do you have a social education and action committee in your Church?"

As the first order of business Thursday morning, the Rev. J. W. Smith, Jr., minister, Covenant Presbyterian Church, Durham, was elected moderator, and the Rev. J. H. Costen, Rocky Mount, was appointed vice moderator.

Out of the evangelism report came quite a hassle which was precipitated by a lengthy discussion and tactical maneuvering designed to drop Dr. Abraham H. Prince of Columbia, S. C., from the directorship of evangelism in Catawba Synod. Finally, after an appeal by more sympathetic presbyters, it was voted to pay $600 due on his pension and carry the matter over for later disposition.

to administer Hampton's Virgin Islands program this summer and to prepare, during the coming year, a report for the trustees on the Institute's structure and future development."

The five-year-old Virgin Islands program, devoted to improving the professional abilities of public school teachers in the islands, was underwritten during its first three years by a Ford Foundation grant and has been underwritten since by the Virgin Islands government.

Dr. Moron's resignation offer was considered in a special board meeting Thursday in New York's Hotel Baltimore, called to hear a report from a board committee which had been appointed earlier to investigate the issues behind the president's action.

In their regular meeting April 24, at the campus which is situated on Virginia lower peninsula, the board tabled further consideration of the matter following a day-long executive session.

Dr. Moron, 50, has been president of Hampton Institute since 1949 following a year's service as business manager of the college.

He is an alumnus of Brown University and earned the masters degree from the University of Pittsburgh. He was awarded the degree bachelor of laws from Harvard University, which he attended as a Rosenwald Fellow. Wilberforce and Brown Universities have honored him with the doctorate of laws.

Earlier this year Dr. Moron made a two-month lecture tour of India, as a U. S. specialist under the auspices of the Department of State. In 1956, he was a member of a study tour of the Middle East, jointly sponsored by the American Christian Palestine Committee and National Conference of Christians & Jews.

the fatal blast, and hid under the front porch of the house.

When Turentine approached her hiding place, she said she fired as he stooped over.

Then Weston retorted: "Somebody's lying."

"Get him out of here," the patrolmen snapped.

Weston said when he commented that such treatment was not supposed to be a part of the American way, the patrolman replied: "Why don't you go back to Africa."

Weston told the Times he intends to file a formal protest with the Highway Patrol and the Civil Rights Commission.

Contacted at patrol headquarters in Raleigh Wednesday, Col. Smith pointed out that he had not received a complaint, and defended the state patrol.

When the incident was recounted to him, he explained that Weston should have taken his son to a doctor or to a hospital.

In the telephone conversation, Col. Smith went on to say: The highway patrol first aid and patrol station was built there ten years ago for the purpose of rendering first aid treatment to all races, white, black, red or what have you. They are there to assist in first aid not for practicing medicine.

There are restroom facilities for white and colored and he did not believe that a patrolman would refuse anybody first aid or permission to the bathroom just because of his race.

The patrolmen are public servants for the state and they are to do everything possible to help not to cause any racial conflicts. Mr. Weston was trying to create an incident.

In checking the records you would find that the patrolmen were rated the highest in the nation, they are gentlemen. They do everything to take care of people in that they, take people to the hospital, give them their blood, save their lives, direct traffic, and is concerned about the well being of all people regard less of their color.
