

Mack's Quack (Teenage Happenings)

By JOYCELYN McKISSICK

Tennis Tournament

The National Tennis Tournament was held last week on North Carolina College's courts. Six Durhamites participated. They were Beryl Sanson, Sandra Criss, Bonnie Logan, Eric Michaux, Paul Kelly and Charles Brown. There were competitors from states all over the nation, including Texas, Kentucky, Michigan, and New York. The Junior Mothers' Club planned many very nice social affairs for the guests. Hostesses for the affairs were Bennie Booker, Amelia Thorpe, Evelyn Kennedy, Judith Grandy, Beryl Sanson, and Joycelyn McKissick. These girls also worked at the concession stand which was located on the court and was open at all times.

Home Again, Home Again - Jig-a-Jig-Ag

"Bobby" and "Chat" Perry recently returned from a four weeks stay at "Dork Water" Camp, in Medford, New Jersey. The camp, operated by Quakers, is integrated both by race and sex, and it proved to be an exciting adventure for the boys. Ronald Morris also went to camp. These three boys were the only ones there from this area. "Bobby" won the "Best Potential Camper" award, the highest given to any Camper, for the first four weeks.

Also home are Eileen Turner and Charles Stanback, back from Bennett College in Greensboro where they spent six weeks participating in the Science-Math Workshop there.

Party - Picnic

The T. A. Grady Youth Club gave a "Hawaiian Party" last Saturday night. It was something different and all the guests enjoyed it.

The Azalea Garden Club gave a picnic that many teens enjoyed. Those present were Shirley Wilson, Etta Allen, Winifred Richardson, Gloria Hill, Catharine Pratt, Charsie Herndon, and Elaine Lambeth. This affair was held at North Bend Park, a part of Buggs Island, in Virginia.

Still Vacation Time

Booker Kennedy and his mother have been vacationing in New York City for the past week. Doris and Kyle Schooler have gone to Springfield, Illinois to visit relatives, and to have some fun. June Rosser is visiting her mother in Lynchburg, Virginia until school opens. Sandra Wray has just returned from New York where she spent almost two weeks. Sandra took advantage of the many opportunities and visited the U. N. Building, saw the Statue of Liberty, Empire State Building, Chrysler Building, toured Manhattan Island and many museums. Sandra says she enjoyed her trip very much.

Around Here

The death of "Miss Bessie," loved by all, seemed to awaken the teens of what a lovely person she was. All of us are sad, but then we're still smiling as we think of how "Miss Bessie" put up with all our nonsense. It was really a golden opportunity to have ever known "Miss Bessie" and I speak for all the Teens.

Before I close for this week, I must add, "MARY MARTIN," the girl who wanted her name in the paper. I hope you're satisfied. See you next week and don't forget, "Keep Cool, Teens."

Spaulding Is Extolled At Church Program

"If everyone he had helped during his lifetime were here tonight, this church would be packed to overflowing."

These were the words of L. E. Austin, publisher of the Carolina Times, who paid a glowing tribute to the late Dr. Charles Clinton Spaulding, guiding genius of Durham's Negro business complex, at a Scholarship Day observance in his memory at White Rock Baptist Church Sunday evening.

Austin compared Spaulding with the great heroes of biblical era and described him as one of the greatest financial geniuses the race has ever produced.

He lashed out at "ingrates" who accepted favors and lacked the common decency to offer thanks to their benefactors, and cited several instances in which Spaulding proved his "greatness, humility and versatility."

He concluded by urging the people of Durham "to unite and erect a monument to Dr. Spaulding" and his two famed associates, Drs. Aaron McDuffie Moore and E. R. Merrick, the "triumvirate which molded the financial giant which today is North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company."

Austin was introduced by Asa T. Spaulding, North Carolina Mutual president, who described the TIMES as "The conscience of Durham" and said the city was a better place "because Austin lives here."

L. B. Frasier, agency secretary at North Carolina Mutual, planned the program and presided. Frasier also read the financial report of the scholarship committee in the absence of N. A. Cheek, chairman of the Fund who was unable to be present for the program. The Fund, which provides student loans for college students, was started with a bequest of $500 to the church.

Music was furnished by the White Rock Male Chorus and soloist Mrs. Juanetta Alexander.

Ex-Hillside Star in City

Joseph Harold Blount, former football, basketball and track ace at Hillside High School, was in Durham last week vacationing with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Blount of 602 Dunbar St. He was accompanied here by his wife and son, and is making his home in Detroit.

Mrs. Annie Blount, Joseph's mother, drove to New York City with him to visit her daughter, Mrs. Georgia Lee Michaels.

Beach Ponchos From Towels

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER CAN DRESS ALIKE for swimming this summer wearing beach ponchos made of smart striped towels, suggests The Cannon Homemaking Institute. Mother's, made from two bath towels, is stitched together at shoulders with ten-inch opening for slipping over head. At bottom, towels are turned up front and back, to desired length. This turnback forms a large front pocket which is stitched closed at selvages and divided at center. The turn up at back is stitched closed all around. At waistline, tape attached inside forms channel for drawing tie which is pulled through slits in front. Daughter's poncho, made of two striped terry face towels, is made exactly the same as Mother's. This will fit a child up to six years old.

Mrs. Van Sombeek Shows Slides Of Europe Trip to YWCA Camp

Mrs. Ludmila Van Sombeek 1903 Essex Road, showed slides of European countries and talked on training the "body, mind and spirit" recently at Y.W.C.A. summer camp.

She was invited to the camp by Miss Rupert Blanchard, YWCA executive secretary.

There was a question and answer period.

Mrs. Van Sombeek found her audience of young people attentive and very intelligent.

She said noble ideas needed to be put into practice to make one's life and that of others beautiful. The importance of cooperation and unity in play and work, in small groups as well as among nations. "Unit does not mean uniformity," she said. There is beauty in diversity among peoples, the world of nature, like flowers, the mineral world and certainly in art, like music."

Raleigh Church Makes Progress

RALEIGH.—Rev. W. D. Carson, pastor, Rosh Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church, is happy over the fact that the officers and members have come up with a program that tends to put Zion Methodist back into the front ranks of the church life of North Carolina's capital city.

One of the first signs is the fact that they have developed a fine junior church and the pastor takes delight in giving them a special sermon. He plans his sermon as a story and the children are vitally interested in the way he presents it.

A Junior Trustee Board was recently appointed and will augment the work of the official Trustee Board. Rev. Carson works on the theory that every member should be given a job to do in the church and this will serve to create a greater interest.

LARGEST SUNDAY SCHOOL

PITTSBORO.—Mitchell Chapel A. M. E. Zion Church, considered one of the largest rural churches in the state, pastored by Rev. R. V. Horton, can boast of the fact that it outstrips many metropolitan churches, in that it has one of the largest Sunday School attendance in the state. June Alston, who has served as superintendent for more than 30 years, credits this record to the fact that transportation is made available to those who would not come if they did not have the church bus to pick them up.

The collections attest to the fact that there is much interest in the Sunday School. The officers feel that when less than $50.00 is collected that they have had a bad day. The record shows that many of the members who plan to be away on a given Sunday send as much as 50c for the offering.

New Teacher

Melvin A. Williams, a candidate for the master's degree at North Carolina College on August 1, has been appointed instructor in history at Knoxville College, Knoxville, Tenn.

Williams, a native of Norlina, N. C., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe K. Williams, Sr., Route 2, Box 189-A, Norlina.

4-H Speaker

Willie B. Player, president of Bennett College, will address 4-H Club members attending their annual regional camp at Howard University, Washington, D. C. on August 15.

The activity is sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in cooperation with 17 Southern and border states.

High School Teachers Complete NCC Home Economics Workshop

Nine high school homemaking teachers from the state under the direction of Miss Diana S. Dent, closed its 10th Annual Adult Homemaking Class at North Carolina College, Wednesday evening, July 22.

Mrs. H. F. Boykins, gave a demonstration on making the most of what we have as the instructive feature of the class in Arts and Crafts. The class gave the members an opportunity to work at creative ideas in making those articles which might be considered as useless into attractive and usable articles. Mrs. Mary E. Cone and Mrs. Martha H. Johnson, instructed the class.

Two demonstrations were given from the Clothing Area, under the supervision of Mrs. Maggie P. Bailey, Mrs. Nadine L. Cunningham and Miss Bernice Titus. Mrs. Elizabeth Furgerson, demonstrated "Making a Buttonhole" and Mrs. Margaret Shaw, "Covering a Belt," with the slogan "Sew and Save." Then a fashion review revealed these features. Mrs. Elizabeth Edwards and Mrs. Georgina McNair were narrators for the fashion review.

Mrs. Marie Clayton, narrated for the Foods Class as Alice McCollum interestingly demonstrated the basic rules for table setting. Highlighting the activities, under the supervision of Miss Esther Lebetter and Miss Pauline Jessup, Mrs. Vera Owens briefly discussed the basic seven meal planning, preparation and serving of a well-balanced and nutritious meals.

In Housing, the adults displayed the things made in class and Mrs. Elizabeth Furgerson, demonstrated upholstering a dinette chair, in plastic fabric. Their aim was "To use what they have to get what they wanted with a minimum cost." They were supervised by Mrs. Helen C. Gooding and Mrs. Gladys A. Butler.
