Eastland Hits Tribunal During Senate Debate

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Mississippi's Senator James O. Eastland described as "crap" a United States Supreme Court ruling upholding the 1957 Civil Rights laws.

Eastland's remarks on the high court's ruling came during current Senate debate over new civil rights legislation.

"If that's a decision of the United States Supreme Court, it's not worth printing, the avowed white supremacy leader said in reply to a request from Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.) that the decision be printed in the Congressional Record.

"I don't want this record cluttered with such crap," the Mississippian snapped. "We got a lot of crap in the record. That's what most of them are, crap, trip," he said in referring to Supreme Court decisions.

Kelly Alexander, president of the North Carolina NAACP, served notice this week that the NAACP will oppose the candidacy of I. Beverly Lake for governor.

Lake, an avowed segregationist, announced his candidacy for the governor's race on Tuesday.

Alexander described his announcement as a "far greater threat to equality for the Negro than all other candidates from both parties combined."

A Raleigh attorney Lake had previously withdrawn from the race because of a lack of funds, but following the current wave of sit-down strikes staged by Negro college students, his backers convinced him to change his mind.

"His position on race advancement is common knowledge, and does not contribute toward constructive race relations," Alexander said.

Business School Head Is Organizing Alumni

Mrs. L. M. Harris, President of Durham Business College, visited in the Washington D. C. area last weekend laying groundwork for the organization of an alumni chapter in the capital area.

Coordinators were appointed by the president and groundwork laid for the organization of a chapter in the capital city. Mrs. Harris commented that the response and interest for organizing a chapter were beyond expectations. The chapter is expected to start functioning in April.

Plans are in the making for President Harris to visit other areas in the interest of organizing Durham Business College Alumni Chapters. Aside from chapters in Durham, Raleigh, chapters are being organized in New York, Richmond, Charlotte and Danville, Virginia.

Durham's Community Baptist Marks 18th Year with Month-Long Meet

Community Baptist Church will celebrate its 18th year with a month-long series of special programs at the church, it was announced this week by the Rev. E. T. Thompson, pastor of the church.

Thompson listed several prominent Durhamites who will deliver main addresses at each of the services during the series.

The special services will be held on successive Sundays in March, each of which has been given a special designation. "Men's Day" will be observed on the first Sunday. "Women's, Education and Youth Day," in that order, will be observed on the remaining Sundays.

W. J. Kennedy, Jr., retired president and chairman of the board of directors of North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company will be the first speaker, at the opening service in the series on Sunday.

Long distinguished in civic and church activities, Kennedy will speak at the regular 11 o'clock See CHURCH, page 6

NEW QUEEN—Miss Eva Coor, of Goldsboro, holds scepter after her crowning as Queen of the 1960 Class of the DeShazer's Beauty College. Along with the title as Queen of the class which she won, Miss Coor will receive one week of advanced training at the Bethune Cookman College during April. Miss Coor was crowned at the "Fashion Portraits" show sponsored by the school recently.

Man Held in Murder of His Spouse

A Durham man who admitted to shooting his wife, hitting her over the head with a poker then stabbing her several times was held for investigation of murder late Wednesday.

He is William Connie Tuck of South Mangum Street. Tuck was arrested by Detectives Clyde Cox and Frank McCrea after he admitted the killing.

The officers picked him up at his home address late Wednesday. Cox said the man told him that he and his wife argued Tuesday night after she accused him of going with another woman. The argument continued before dinner Wednesday, Cox related.

They said further that Tuck told him that he first shot her with a .32 calibre pistol while she stood in front of him. When she didn't fall, Tuck told the policeman he hit her over the head with a poker until she died. Then he stabbed her in the back several times with a knife. Cox stated.

His victim, Mrs. Elizabeth Tuck, died before she could be taken to the hospital.

GOP Makes Bid; Names Austin, Barnes to Posts

Republican Party activity in North Carolina seems to be mounting. In the Durham area, the district meeting was held at Graham Friday and L. E. Austin, Publisher of the Carolina Times, was elected to the executive committee and Alexander Barnes was elected an alternate delegate to the National Convention, which will be held in Chicago.

Barnes election means that it will be the first time that a Negro has been a member of the state delegation for several years. Austin replaces Rev. E. T. Browne on the executive committee. He promises to be active. This means that he will be in on the policy making of the party.

Quite a few local party members attended the state convention, held in Memorial Auditorium Saturday. The platform carried a renewal avowal to guarantee every citizen those rights granted him by the constitution of the United See GOP, page 6

144 STUDENTS ARRESTED

Fill Nashville Jails

Ala. Students Would Leave Over Expulsion

More than 1,000 students at Alabama State Teachers Colleges threaten to resign en masse in reply to Governor John Patterson's order which expelled nine of the students who took part in a sit-down protest and a subsequent demonstration at the state capitol.

The students made this threat after hearing the Rev. Ralph Abernathy describe the Governor's action as "the greatest blunder in the history of Alabama education."

The Governor personally ordered the State Board of Education to expel the students "to prevent bloodshed."

Meanwhile, in other action on the student protest front, 12 Negro students at Winston-Salem Teachers College who were convicted of trespass in the lunch-counter sit-down in that city will appeal the conviction in a test case, it was revealed this week.

In Nashville, Tenn., 58 Negro students refused to post bond after having been arrested for disorderly conduct in a lunch counter sit-down and joined 77 of their demonstrators in jail. See THREATEN, page 6

North Backs Students In Dixie Sit-Downs

NEW YORK—Picketing of Woolworth stores in support of the student lunch counter protest continued to spread in the North this weekend. Thousands of individuals picketed more than 25 locations of the chain store in the north.

Boston CORE chairman Charles Crawford reported that 150 members and supporters picketed 10 stores in Metropolitan Boston.

"Response ranged from good to more than 90 per cent" according to Crawford. Boston CORE plans to extend its picketing to additional stores this week.

"More and More Effective" In New York City there were

Mrs. Martin King To Take Part in NCC Coed Event

Mrs. Martin Luther King will visit Durham this week-end to participate in Coed Weekend activities at North Carolina College.

She will be joined by Mrs. Lucy Lameck, the celebrated young Tanyanikan union leader, Mrs. M. Elizabeth Carnegie, distinguished nursing educator and journalist of New York, and the noted Atlanta University social work professor, Miss Frankie Adams.

The four ladies will be consultants at the keynote session at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in Duke Auditorium.

According to Miss Cynthia McDonald, president of the co-sponsoring Women's Assembly, the weekend's theme this year is, "The North Carolina College Woman Redefines her Role in Building Worthwhile Social Patterns and Strong Family Life."

Picket Stores; Negotiators Get Statement Ready

North Carolina College students continued on two fronts this week their demonstrations against segregation at eating establishments.

The students mounted a picket of three downtown stores which were the original targets of sit-down strikes here three weeks ago, and spread the sit down protest to a Howard Johnson restaurant.

In the meantime, two white persons and one Negro student were fined in Recorder's Court in violence which grew out of the protests.

It is believed that an official from the committee which has attempted to negotiate the students' grievances with local stores was about ready to issue a statement on that part of the issue.

D. G. Sampson, who was named chairman of a North Carolina College committee picked to negotiate with the Durham Human Relations Council, said late this week that the combined committee had authorized the Rev. Warren Carr, chairman of the Human Relations Council to issue a statement.

Rev. Carr, however, could not be reached at press time.

Students began picketing in front of Woolworth, Kress and Wagoner Drug Store on Saturday.

This was the first action taken by students in Durham since their initial demonstrations staged here on Feb. 8. Protest leaders had said following the "sit-down" that they would seek to negotiate the issue with store managers.

However, indications that the negotiations which were taken up did not please the students came last week when Lucy Streeter, N. C. College junior and one of the protest leaders, said the students did not expect much to come of the negotiations and explained that they would chart their own course of action in the protest.

A statement issued on Saturday, the first day of picketing, said the students had resorted to demonstrating again because store man-
