Minister Who Refused Names Gets A Hearing

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — NAACP attorneys secured an additional month of freedom here this week for a Negro clergyman facing six months jail and $1,200 fine for refusing to expose fellow NAACP members to Florida bias. Lawyers for Father Theodore R. Gibson, President of the Miami NAACP, revealed the State Supreme Court decided Tuesday, September 6th, to consider his case on merit.

The period of time necessary to check into the validity of the lower court's sentence, insures Father Gibson of an estimated 30 days freedom. Father Gibson was convicted August 30th in the Circuit Court of Judge W. May Walker. His contempt case grew out of his steadfast refusal to turn Miami NAACP membership list over to the Florida Legislative Investigating Committee.

This body, established immediately after the Miami NAACP filed the state's first school integration suit in 1956, has been "sacking out" alleged subversives. Its first act was to call for the Miami NAACP membership list. The Committee has been given an appropriation of $182,000.00 as a state appointed agency. Father Theodore R. Gibson, Rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Miami, is a well respected figure in his community. He is a veteran foe of racial bias. He has led a series of successful integration actions.

These include integration of Miami buses; parks; swimming pools; and sit-in demonstrations, resulting in opening of lunch counters. His son, Theodore, Jr., was a plaintiff in Association's Miami school integration case. Florida NAACP leaders assert that the State is out to wreck the NAACP's state organization.

Frosh Week at FSTC Underway

FAYETTEVILLE — A six-day Freshman Orientation Week program for 423 freshmen and transfer students began at the Fayetteville State Teachers College on September 13 and extended through the 18. This year's total, well in excess of a hundred newcomers over last year's figure, represents the largest crop of newcomers in the history of the College according to Dean Lafayette Parker, Director of Admissions. While a preponderance of the new students came from North Carolina, the records indicate that a goodly number of them came from ten other states and the District of Columbia as follows: New York, New Jersey, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, Connecticut, Florida, South Carolina, Mississippi and the District of Columbia.

The newcomers were subjected to a six-day round of activities calculated to acquaint them to their new environment and otherwise aid them in getting off to a splendid start in their college study. The Freshman Week program provided tests, lectures, tours, registration, health examinations, stunts and games, social affairs, a vesper program and a reception at the home of President and Mrs. Rudolph Jones. President Jones speaks to the newcomers at the Thursday evening introductory program from the topic: "On The Wise Use of Time". Assisting the faculty in the business of orientation will be Committee of upper-class counselors.

Dakota Station Has New Album

If Dakota Station's reputation leans noticeably toward her dynamic jazz delivery, her latest Capitol album, SOFTLY, should provide a perfect counterbalance. The subdued, sensitive, and soft Station is backed in this outing by one of America's most versatile and talented musicians, Benny Carter. Jazz critic Leonard Feather wrote of Carter in his Encyclopedia of Jazz: "... Carter is one of the great perennials of jazz, still undated and a superb jazzman."

In Softly, Dakota and partner journey to the very edge of jazz, utilizing strings, flutes, French horns, harp, and rhythm along the way. As Dakota's fans have come to expect in her albums, the program consists of familiar standards which never seem tired after a Station re-evaluation, plus lesser-known songs which post the question: how could such a tune have gone unnoticed? Examples of both are "Close Your Eyes," "Body and Soul," "Solitude," "I Can't Get Started with You," "Whispering Grass," and "Dedicated to You." Softly tends even further toward the ballad side than did Dakota's
