Western N. C. Area Ninth To Take Step

BURNSVILLE—Yancey County, located at western North Carolina border, was scheduled to become the ninth North Carolina community to have integrated schools when the county's school board gave official notice this week that it would not appeal a court order for integration.

Although the ten children affected were to have been admitted Thursday, it was unlikely that all could be enrolled in the white high school until sometime next week.

Many of them are attending out-of-state schools, attorneys for the children's parents said.

On Sept. 12, Federal Judge Wilton Wallick ordered the County to integrate the white high school, only one in the county, one month from the ruling. Oct. 13, was the deadline.

On Tuesday, J. L. Robinson, Yancey county board chairman, announced that the board would accept the ruling without appeal.

The school board's action ended a month-long court fight by parents of the children. It began when the only school for Negroes in the county, Lincoln Park elementary, was closed after the 1958-59 term when it was condemned by the county grand jury.

The closing forced all Negro students in the sparsely populated mountain county to travel 80 miles per day to attend Negro public schools at Asheville.

When the suit was brought for integration, the county decided to erect a new three room elementary building at a cost of $30,000. But parents of the high school-age children insisted that they should be permitted to attend the white high school. Court action

Bertie County Court Ruling Is Called a Threat to Negro Vote

SEABOARD—Leaders from four eastern North Carolina counties which have large Negro populations described as a "new threat" to Negro voting a recent court decision against a prospective Negro voter in Bertie County.

"The decision by the Bertie County Superior Court in the case of Mrs. Nancy Bazemore is a new threat to the voting of Negroes in the area," a statement released at the conclusion of the meeting held here, said.

Last month, Superior Court Judge Henry Stevens, Jr., upheld a ruling of the Bertie County Board of Elections which refused Mrs. Bazemore permission to register because she declined to submit to a dictation test.

The case is being appealed to the State Supreme Court.

It arose when the Littleton resident went to register for the Democratic primary on May 14. She

DETROIT DOCTOR IS DESCRIBED BY MAGAZINE AS ONE OF "BIG WHEELS"

NEW YORK — Dr. DeWitt T. Burton of Detroit was hailed today by a national magazine as one of the Motor City's leading citizens.

In an article in the current issue of Look Magazine, the prominent Negro physician was included with Henry Ford II, Charles Wilson, Walter Reuther and other dignitaries in a group called Detroit's Big Wheels.

Head of two hospitals, Dr. Burton was cited by the magazine as the first Negro to win the Detroit Medical Society's Physician of the Year Award; the first Negro elected to state office since Reconstruction (the board of Wayne State University); the first Negro on the board of the Detroit Boy Scouts; and one of the first accepted on the surgery staff of Grace Hospital.

Dr. Burton, the article said, hopes to bring his Mercy Hospital into a vast medical center being planned by the city.

"Detroit has been good to me," he said in Look. "This would be my way of saying thank you."

TO BE INSTALLED—Dr. Thomas H. Henderson, newly elected president of Virginia Union University, will be inaugurated in ceremonies at the Richmond, Va. school on Oct. 21. He is the first layman to become head of the Baptist institution. See page 4-B for details.
