

-Toure

Continued from front page to North Carolina College was one of the great events in our history. Our students and friends in the City of Durham were greatly impressed with his dignity, sincerity, and aspirations for the people of his country. When the occasion arises, we should be pleased if you will convey to President Toure and to members of his staff who accompanied him on his visit to us our kindest regards and best wishes.

As part of its Golden Anniversary celebration, North Carolina College conferred the honorary degree of doctor of laws upon the youthful African leader during his first visit to this country in October of 1959. While visiting in the city, Toure spoke briefly to a forum audience at the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company and later at a luncheon honoring him at Duke University. He was also the guest of former Governor Luther Hodges, now secretary of commerce, at Chapel Hill.

Following Toure's appearance in Durham, the U. S. State Department's Chief of Protocol, W. T. Buchanan, Jr., praised "the warmth and spontaneity" of the reception accorded him at NCC, adding, "I am confident that this, as well as your conferring on him the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa, did a great deal to create in his mind a favorable impression of the United States."

President Elder said the gift of $500 will be added to the "numerous contributions from various sources" in the College's $5,000 scholarship effort. "We are especially pleased to have been remembered in this way by our distinguished visitor from a newly independent African nation."

-Gibson

Meanwhile, Father David H. Brooks, a vice-president of the Florida State Conference of NAACP branches, revealed that a special fund drive to be launched Feb. 12 will stress need for financial aid in the legal protection of Father Gibson.

The Florida NAACP state church committee will aid in the drive, he said, by seeking $10,000 from churches. The Rev. J. B. F. Williams, president of the Jacksonville NAACP branch, is chairman of the church drive.

Father Gibson has been in the shadow of a jail sentence ever since he refused to testify before the Florida Legislative Investigating Committee which started four years ago to "seek out" communist infiltration in the NAACP's state organization here. No evidence of "Communist infiltration" has been unearthed.

The investigating committee came into being soon after the Miami NAACP, under Father Gibson's leadership, filed the state's first school integration suit.

The militant Episcopal minister refused to reveal names of NAACP members again at the November 29, 1959 hearing of the committee.

-Prepared

Continued from front page man for the group for the daily press, was quoted as saying that Center and Carolina theaters were selected as objects of the protest because "they accept our interest in one way and not the other." "They take our money to seat us in the buzzard's box but not the main entrance."

-Goals

Continued from front page to the youth branch, said the youth branch of the NAACP will be utilized in meeting these goals.

Already, members of the youth NAACP branch are picketing two downtown movie theatres in protest over segregation.

McKissick, who is also a co-chairman of the membership committee, said a goal of 5,000 members for the new year will be sought.

The Rev. William H. Fuller, pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist Church, was installed as president of the organization. Rev. Fuller was re-elected to the president's post in the annual elections.

Other officers installed include Attorney William A. Marsh, Jr., second vice-president and member of the legal redress committee; Atty. William Pearson, II, chairman of the Housing Committee; Atty. McKissick, second vice president and youth advisor; Atty. L. C. Berry, Jr., second vice president and member of the "legal redress committee"; Thomas Bailey, Jr., treasurer; Miss Elna Richardson, secretary; Miss Juanita Crow, youth advisor and chairman of the publicity committee; and Claudia Prince, assistant secretary.

-Asks

He reported on the conditions there in Fayette County, where hundreds of Negroes are living in tents following eviction from their share-cropper farms.

SCARBOROUGH and HARGETT FUNERAL DIRECTORS

PUBLIC SERVICE
YOUR FRIEND WHEN NEEDED

Even as your Doctor or Attorney, the Funeral Director you select has a certain confidential relationship with you. He is a skilled specialist, a professional man whose services are essential at a critical period in the family's life.

We at Scarborough and Hargett feel we have a close relationship with the people of our community through mutual church affiliations, membership in various social and fraternal groups and participation in community efforts. Above all, we like to be regarded as friends equipped by knowledge, training and experience to be special service in time of need.

We are proud that we are able to demonstrate our friendship in a practical way.

Hodgin, who had served as business manager for the college for 43 years, died on Monday after a brief illness.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday after noon.

School officials were high in their praise of Hodgin's service to the institution.

Said A and T chairman Robert Frazier: "The college has lost a very valuable employee, one who through the years has done much toward the development of this institution."

Dr. Proctor called Hodgin a "dedicated and able servant."

-Brave

carry unmanageable.

Leaders of the protest said they began picketing after several members of the Durham youth NAACP were refused tickets at the box offices reserved for whites.

John Edwards, one of the student leaders, said more than 20 persons tried a week before the picketing to purchase tickets at the two theaters admitting them to the main auditorium. In each case, they were referred to the side entrance where box offices are located for Negro patrons, Edwards said.

Three persons were refused tickets at the main box offices an hour prior to the picketing, Edwards revealed.

Theater managers have had little comment on the demonstrations.

Charles Lewis, manager of the Center theater, and Milo Crawford, assistant manager of the Carolina, pointed out that their movie houses offered balcony accommodations for Negroes which furnis-ed the same facilities as the rest of the theaters.

HILLSBORO HIGHLIGHTS

Visits Parents
Mrs. Ester M. Tinning and children of N. Y. City, formerly of Hillsboro, were home visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Walton.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Swanson of Danville, Va. spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Faribault. Mrs. Swanson, a recent bride of Hillsboro, teaches in Danville.

Home For A Few Days
Miss Jessie G. Benton, a former resident of Hillsboro, was home for a few days. Miss Benton had been employed at Palmer Memorial Institute as Dr. C. H. Brown's private nurse. She left Wednesday, January 25, to visit her niece, Miss Ruby G. Hayes, Assistant Registrar at Spelman College, Atlanta, Georgia. On leaving Georgia, Miss Benton will travel to Trenton, New Jersey, where she makes her home.

Sick At Home
Mrs. Laura Johnson is a patient at her home on Mars Hill.

Mrs. Lillian Richards is very ill at her home in Efland.

Miss M. V. Chavious, teacher at Central High School, has been ill for several days. We are glad to report she is improving.

Returned From Hospital
Mrs. Jeanie Price has returned from a second trip to Duke Hospital. She had an operation but is improving nicely at home.
