

A DELICATE THING — Your complexion is a delicate instrument and should never be abused with strong soaps, harsh bleaching creams or allowed to face all kinds of weather without a protective cosmetic barrier.

The Complexion is the Key to Feminine Beauty

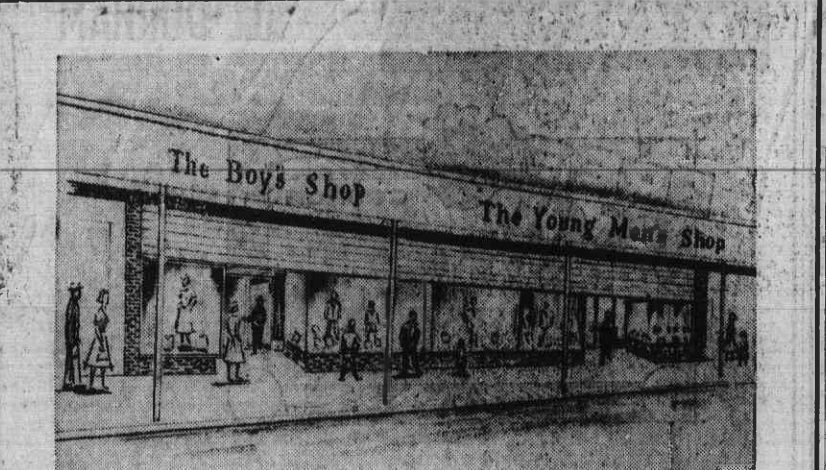

The basis for a lovely face is a clear, untroubled complexion. And whether a woman is twenty or twice that, she's entitled to claim a smooth and radiant skin as one of her most valued beauty assets.

But if your skin has not been looking its best, you can do something about it. The secret is to treat it gently. Your complexion is a delicate instrument and should never be abused with strong soaps, harsh bleaching creams or allowed to face all kinds of weather without a protective cosmetic barrier. This sort of treatment only serves to irritate the surface and rob the skin of natural inner moisture that helps it stay firm, glowing and youthful.

However, if you're searching for a fresh, new look... simply follow this skin care schedule designed by Pond's Good Grooming Service. You'll notice a lovely difference in texture, color and softness within a matter of weeks!

Gentle and thorough cleansing is an essential part of your program. If the surface of your skin is clean and the pores are cleared of hardened skin oils, you're less likely to develop blackheads and blemishes. Therefore, to surface cleanse... wash your face with a good super-fatted toilet soap and lukewarm water. Rinse thoroughly until all traces of soap have been removed then pat (don't scrub) dry with a towel. Do this once a day.

To deep cleanse, clear the pores and guard against loss of inner moisture, apply a generous masque of Cold Cream over your face and neck — then remove the cream with tissues. Do this at least once a day.
