

NCC Band Captures Heart Of Blase New York Gov. SANFORD MEETS WITH NAACP

Fans Force Band To Play Half Hour After Game

NEW YORK — North Carolina College's 114 piece marching band captivated an audience of over 200 during their halftime performance at the National Football League game between the New York Giants and Dallas Cowboys, Sunday October 29 at Yankee Stadium.

So thrilling was their performance that over 10,000 fans gave them an encore and begged them to play one-half hour after the game. Under the direction of H. H. L. Jones, they responded and finally had to be "rescued" so that they could catch a bus for downtown New York.

THRILLING SHOW
The Giants' management said, "It was a thrilling show, and the fans love them."

NCC's band received the invitation to appear before the national television audience last spring and started preparations for the show and NCC football games in early September.

The band's trip to New York was made possible by contributions from Durham community merchants and individual members of the City Council, who contributed over $500 after the city of Durham withdrew a like amount. The band, in tribute to Durham and North Carolina College spelled out the letters DURHAM AND NCC.

Jimmy McCully, writing in the New York Daily News, had this to say about them.

"The North Carolina College band, 112 strong, entertained the crowd before the game and during intermission. Real Hip."

MAJORETTES EXCITE 'REF'

Leonard Lewis writing in the New York Mirror blames the cute chicks in North Carolina College's band for a referee's error on the much discussed pass from Y. A. Tittle to Del Shofner, which the Dallas Cowboys thought he dropped.

"They thought that Shofner had muffed a pass but the 'ref' ruled he had whistled the play dead before Del lost the ball when hitting the ground. If the ref whistled at anyone, it must have been at those cute chicks in the North Carolina College marching band," contributed a guy who couldn't believe the call," Lewis wrote.

Along press row, usually a beehive of activity during halftime, all eyes and ears stopped to watch See BAND, page 2-A

List of Dignitaries At NCC Program Is Revealed

A host of dignitaries, including Governor Terry Sanford, will participate in the 14th annual meeting of the Resource-Use Education Conference at North Carolina College at Durham on November 16.

According to Dr. T. R. Speigner, conference director, Gov. Sanford, North Carolina's "quality education governor," will deliver the keynote address.

The governor will be welcomed to Durham by Mayor E. J. Evans and to NCC by President Alfonso Elder. Dr. Elder will also introduce the governor to the more than 2,000 persons expected to attend the Resource-Use Conference.

Some of the country's leading authorities in conservation education are slated for main roles on the program. Dr. Speigner said. These include: Dr. Grace L. Howell, Program Coordination Officer of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare; Dr. Margaret J. McKibben, Science Specialist, also with the U.S. HEW department; and Dr. John P. McIntyre, director of Curriculum for the Joint Council on Economic Education of New York.

Students Slate March On City Hall, Plea Against Race Bias

IS THAT ALL?—Freddie Jones, charged with two cases of assault in an incident in front of Durham's Center Theater last Wednesday, is pictured here being questioned by police Lt. H. E. Bowles, shortly before he was booked at headquarters. Police were called to the scene when Bernice Toomer, a member of a group picketing the theater, charged Jones with spitting on him before he went inside the theater. Moments after this picture was taken by Duke student Donald Williams, Jones charged Williams and tore the camera from his grasp. A second charge of assault was placed against him for this act. Judge A. R. Wilson dismissed the case on the next day after asking testifying police "Is that all there is to this mess?"

Group Prepares Petition To Durham City Council on Issues

A delegation from the Durham Youth and College Chapters of the NAACP were scheduled to appear before the City Council Thursday morning at 10 a.m. to present their position on at least three local issues involving discrimination.

According to John Edwards, president of the group, the discussion will include the matter of a fair employment practice law for the city; the city's granting of franchises to firms which maintain discriminatory hiring policies; and the leasing of city owned property to businesses which discriminate by race.

Chief targets of the group are the Carolina Theater, which is located on city owned property, and its exclusion of Negroes segregated seating arrangement; the General Telephone Company and Duke Power Company, which operate under a franchise granted by the city and which have been accused of using discriminatory hiring policies; and several local businesses which have been picketed by the group for their discriminatory hiring policies.

About 150 students from North Carolina College, Duke University, Durham Business College and local high and junior high schools are scheduled to appear at the meeting. Two or three spokesmen have been selected to make the presentations to the Council.

Herbert Wright, National Youth Secretary for the NAACP, was scheduled to appear here Thursday night to address a mass meeting sponsored by the Youth and College Chapters. The meeting is set for St. Joseph's A. M. E. Church at 7:30 p.m.

AS FEDERAL JUDGE

Marshall Takes Oath

NEW YORK — Thurgood Marshall, former Director-Counsel of the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund, was sworn in Monday as a federal judge in the Court of Appeals for the Second clinic being held at A. and T. College on November 2-3.

With him are J. S. Stewart, left, Durham, city councilman and B. W. Harris, right, director of the A. and T. College Short Course Department and chairman on arrangements, both members of the general committee.

Reaction Sharp To Postmaster General's Act

NEW YORK—Responding sharply to Postmaster General J. Edward Day's attack upon W. W. Law, Savannah mailman and president of the Georgia State NAACP, Association officials and friends this week denounced the cabinet officer as unfit for his high office.

In a statement released on Oct. 24 announcing re-instatement of Law who had been dismissed from the postal service on trumped-up charges, the Postmaster General said he was "severely" reprimanding the letter carrier and reinstating him with "great regret" in order to avoid making a "martyr" of him.

"I would not want a person with Law's record of conduct delivering mail to my family's home," he said. He further charged Law's supporters in Congress were motivated by "political reasons."

The Postmaster General acted after a departmental grievance committee had cleared Law of four of the five charges against him and on the fifth had recommended only a reprimand.

The committee, after a hearing on Sept. 29, by a 2 to 1 vote, decided that the charges did not warrant dismissal. Nevertheless, J. W. Askew, the Post Office Department's regional director in Atlanta, rejected the findings of the grievance committee and sustained Law's discharge. An appeal then was submitted to the Postmaster General.

NAACP Executive Roy Wilkins denounced the Postmaster General's attack upon Law as "conscienceless and unprecedented disregard for the record in the case. It reflects Day's contempt for Negroes as well as disdain of fair play. In light of this action, it is apparent that he is no longer an asset to the Kennedy Administration."

The Postmaster General's statement was branded as "vicious, insulting and misleading" by NAACP General Counsel Robert L. Carter who, together with NAACP attorneys Frank D. Reeves and J. F. See SINCERITY, page 2-A

NEWS IN BRIEF

Dentists to Conduct Symposium

Been to your dentist lately? If you have, chances are you were given a set of ear plugs as you settled back into the chair and soft music was piped to you while he labored on your bridgework. And when it was all over, you felt as if the whole thing wasn't as bad as you thought it would be. It was chiefly because your attention was diverted by the music.

This and other new devices, which increase patient comfort and add to the dentist's proficiency, are just some of the things your dentist is learning every year through formal clinics, institutes and symposia.

On next Wednesday, members of the Alexander Hunter Dental Society will stage their eighth annual symposium at the Lincoln hospital A. B. Duke nurses home.

Some of the leading experts in Oral science and surgery will discuss latest techniques to members of the society at the day-long meeting. Speakers include Dr. J. M. Hubbard, of Durham, Dr. R. E. Richardson, the University of North Carolina, Capt. R. B. Lytle, of the U. S. Navy, and Dr. Luther Butler, of Greensboro.

Sincerity of State's Chief Impresses Group

RALEIGH—Kelly M. Alexander, President of the North Carolina State Conference of Branches, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, stated this week the conference held with Governor Sanford on Friday, October 27, was encouraging and productive.

"I was impressed with the sincere approach made by the Governor to the problem of Negro employment and recognizing the need that something constructive be done to expand Negro employment in State Government."

NAACP officials met with Governor Terry Sanford and discussed Equality of Opportunity in State Government, and A Request for Qualified Negroes to be Employed in State Governmental Agencies and Departments on an Equal Basis with Other Citizens.

ASK ACTION ON ESC

Led by Alexander of Charlotte, the delegation presented Governor Sanford with a written plea urging him to call on the State Employment Service to desegregate the files it keeps of those seeking jobs in private industry.

The group also asked the Governor to request a legal opinion on a North Carolina law which provides that Negro and white families shall be employed in the same way.

The law has been in the National Guard to justice that no Negroes are members of Guard units in North Carolina.

HIGHWAY PATROL

The NAACP delegation also requested Governor Sanford to declare a policy that applications for the Highway Patrol "be processed without using race as the criteria."

Attending the conference with the State NAACP President were: Atty. C. O. Pearson, Durham, State Legal Chairman; Charles A. McLean, Winston-Salem, Field Secretary; Atty. F. B. McKissick, Durham, State Youth Advisor; Dr. Margaret Adams, Raleigh, State Housing Chairman; Ralph Campbell, Raleigh, President of Raleigh Branch NAACP; Rev. J. E. IN RALEIGH

Rock 'N Roll Fans Riot

RALEIGH—A riot erupted at a rock and roll dance at Memorial Auditorium here Monday night resulting in a man suffering a bullet wound of the foot and a policeman sustaining a possible broken nose.

Officer W. G. Arnold of the Raleigh police force was rushed to Rex Hospital for emergency treatment after he was beaten and disarmed by the mob comprised mostly of Negroes.

James Feller, 22, of Raleigh Rd. 3, was admitted to Wake Memorial Hospital with a bullet wound in the bottom of his foot. Neither of the two men was considered seriously hurt.

At least two officers were reported to have had the blood bitten out of their hands during the melee.

According to police, the incident was triggered when Traffic Policeman Herbert Hayes spotted a bag on the dance floor with a fifth of whiskey in it.

"I picked up the bag and started off the dance floor with it," Hayes said. "A woman grabbed at the bag." Hayes said he arrested the woman for interfering with an officer and started to take her to the main gate.

According to Hayes another woman came up and hit him with her hand and someone hit Arnold and knocked him cold.

"Then the mob moved in on us. I don't know what happened then. One of the people in the mob fired a pistol," Hayes added. See ROCK 'N ROLL, page 2-A

Freedom of Speech Said Vanishing

CHAPEL HILL.—Freedom of speech is steadily being whittled away in America, a battery of speakers said here last week.

These warnings were sounded during the course of a day long conference on Freedom of Speech and the First Amendment last Friday.

The contentions of the conference were summed up in a public address by retired New York Judge Hubert Delaney who declared the U. S. Supreme Court, under pressure of the times, is permitting civil liberties to be diminished.
