Negroes Denied Equal Rights To Medical Care

Segregation Is Cited As Chief Cause of Issue

GREENSBORO — Negroes in North Carolina are denied equal access to available medical care in the state because of segregation, the North Carolina Advisory Committee to the U. S. Civil Rights Commission said this week.

This conclusion was reached by a detailed study of the issue made for the Advisory Committee by a special medical care sub-committee.

The report, detailed in 40 pages, cited racial segregation in medical care as the chief reason for the denial of medical care to Negroes.

"Racial segregation is widespread in government-owned and supervised medical facilities in North Carolina," and "racial segregation in medical care facilities inevitably promotes inequality of facilities," the report said.

The report covered practices in eight areas of medical care provided in the state. These included the laws applying to medical institutions, state owned and operated hospitals, general and allied hospitals, public health, public welfare medical care expenditures, obstacles deterrent to the advancement of Negro Doctors and Dentists, Nurses, neglect of grievously ill or injured Negroes and Indians.

The special sub-committee which prepared the report was made up of 14 physicians, two hospital administrators, two dentists, two hospital insurance executives, one sociologist and one lawyer.

DR. WATTS

HELPED DOCUMENT MEDICAL SITUATION—Doctors Charles D. Watts of Durham, and Murray B. Davis, of High Point, were members of a sub-committee appointed especially by the North Carolina Advisory Committee to the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights to prepare a report on the availability of medical care in the state to all races. Dr. Watts is President of the Old North State Medical Society, an organization which has been outspoken in regard to denial of medical facilities to Negroes in the state.

BONE TIRED—And still more orders to fill for the NAACP Substitute Christmas Card Plan, says office secretary Chrystal Smith. Under the nationwide plan, contributors send usual greeting card money to NAACP's Freedom Fund. The Association's substitute greeting explains that money is being used "to help advance the year round fight for human dignity . . ." and invites receiver of card to do the same. Thus a chain of contributions to the NAACP is set up.

Men's Dormitory Scene of Assault And Break-In

Amid the color and excitement of the North Carolina College Homecoming activities last week, two separate incidents occurred that brought the arrest of three out-of-towners, and resulted in an NCC student being taken to a hospital with face lacerations which required nine stitches to close.

Treated at Lincoln Hospital for face lacerations was John Delano Lawrence, 23, an NCC student.

Charged with assault and battery with a deadly weapon and resisting arrest in connection with the alleged cutting was Hazell Freeman, 22, of Charlotte. Freeman was released on bond.

The incident occurred about 3 a.m. Saturday following an argument in Room 245 of Chidley Hall, police reported.

Police arrested Herman Boykins, 19, and Herman Henton, 21, of Raleigh, were jailed on "investigation of malicious injury to property" following the complaint of J. B. Coffield, house manager of Chidley Hall.

Coffield was quoted by police as saying the two men allegedly entered the campus dormitory and broke four wall mirrors, ripped a telephone from the wall and smashed several windows. He told police the two had no bus. See INADEQUATE, 2-A

Brother of Elks Chieftan Dies In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—Lee Roy Reynolds, 65, brother of Judge Hobson R. Reynolds, Grand Exalted Ruler of the Improved Benevolent Protective Order of Elks of the World, died Friday (Nov. 10) in the Mercy-Douglas Hospital. His death was attributed to a series of heart attacks.

Reynolds was a popular figure in the business, civic, fraternal and political life of this city. In 1923, he came to Phila., from Winton, N. C. and joined with his brother Hobson in business. They founded the Hobson P. Reynolds and Brother Funeral Home. The firm grew to be one of the leading such establishments in the mid-Atlantic area, and is licensed to practice in Pennsylvania and New York.

Close friends and associates described Reynolds as an energetic man whose ambition was geared to back his brother Hobson in his many local and national endeavors. He found great pleasure in the fame which came to his brother, as he administered the business which grew under his guidance.

Reynolds was educated in the public schools of Winton, N. C., and at Shaw University. In 1945 he married Doris J. Wilkerson, and of this union one daughter was born, Miss Julie Belle Reynolds.

He leaves a wife Doris W. Reynolds, a daughter Julie Belle, one sister Susan Reynolds, of Winton, N. C.; two brothers, Hobson R. and Robert G. of Cleveland, Ohio; and many relatives and friends.

Durham Man Barred by Police From Church

RALEIGH—Sister Mable Gray Philpot and her congregation won the first round of the battle for possession of the Grace A. M. E. Zion Church here Sunday, as a new minister sent by the Central North Carolina Conference of the A. M. E. Zion Church, was restrained from taking charge of the congregation.

Five Raleigh policemen halted the Rev. I. P. Perry, of Durham, newly assigned minister to the church, and four area presiding elders at the door as they attempted to enter to conduct services.

They were told that to fail to comply with the order to leave would result in their arrest, it was reported.

The battle between "Sister Gary" and Conference began last week when she notified by Bishop R. U. Jones, who presides over conference, that she and the members of the church has voted unanimously to withdraw from the A. M. E. Zion Conference and form an independent church. They intended to retain possession of the church property, the Bishop was told.

Following the notice of withdrawal and several unsuccessful attempts to contact Sister Gary a new minister was assigned to the church. Sunday's opposition came as the Rev. Perry attempted to carry out his assignment.

Relating events as he said they occurred Sunday, Rev. Perry told the TIMES:

"When I went to take over my duties Sunday, four presiding elders and I met by five city officers and a lawyer (Herman Taylor, attorney for Sister Gary and the congregation). They asked us to leave, but we were reluctant. They told us that if we didn't leave, we would be arrested. See CHURCH, 2-A

THE PRESIDENTS HAVE A BALL—For the presidents of North Carolina College and the college alumni association, the homecoming halftime interlude provided at least one pleasant moment. That was when they got to kiss the queens. At top President Elder smiles broadly while NCC's homecoming queen Miss Betty Barnes blushes de-mainly shortly after the President had implanted a fatherly peck on the cheek of the pretty Weldon senior. At bottom, alumni president George Nixon was caught in the act of delivering a kiss to "Miss Alumni," Davesene Wiggins. Student body president Wilbur Hankins had to content himself with observing in both cases.

Elks Having INTERNAL WARS

Elk leaders this week struck hard against an alleged organization using the Elk name and the seal of the organization and vowed that they will "take such action as may be necessary to protect the integrity of our membership."

A statement released jointly by Hobson R. Reynolds, Grand Exalted Ruler and Mrs. Nettie B. Smith, Grand Daughter Ruler, read: "It has been brought to our attention that a few members of our Order have attempted to establish another organization using the name Elks. We have conferred with our attorneys and instructed them to take expeditious such action as may be appropriate to protect the use of the name and symbol of our organization."

Spaulding Picked For Membership In Exclusive Society

Asa T. Spaulding, President of the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company of Durham, has been invited to membership in The Newcomen Society in North America. Membership is by invitation only, and election is in London.

Meetings of the Society are held throughout the United States and its publications cover many phases of industrial, financial, and economic history. Its objectives are: "to increase an appreciation of American-British traditions and ideals in the Arts and Science, the cultural and spiritual forces which are common to both countries and to serve as another link between Great Britain and the United States."

The Society centers its attention upon the history of Material Civilization, as contrasted with political history. The members are "interested in the background and growth of: Industry, Agriculture, Transportation, the Utilities, Communications, Mining, Finance, See SPAULDING, 2-A

CIAA Championship Rides on NCC-A&T Tilt

GREENSBORO—The CIAA football championship goes on the line Thanksgiving Day as the A. and T. College Aggies collide with the North Carolina College Eagles in the Carolina Classic.

The game, matching these two arch rivals, has been set for the Greensboro Memorial Stadium beginning at 1:30 o'clock, a half hour earlier than the usual kick-off time.

NCC won the championship in last year's Thanksgiving Day clash between the two arch-rivals.

The Aggies, shooting for a third championship in four years, are undefeated in conference play, winning all five. They have losses against the Quantico Marines, Tennessee A. and I. State University and Florida A. and M. University.

The Eagles are undefeated, the only team in the CIAA with such a record, but have tied twice. They have been stalemated by Virginia State College and Maryland State College, both of whom have fallen victims to Aggie power.

Both teams hold wins over See CIAA, 2-A

NEWS BRIEFS Sanford Addresses 1,500 at NCC

Gov. Terry Sanford told some 1,500 persons at North Carolina College's B. N. Duke Auditorium Thursday that the responsibility lies with today's teachers to educate the present generation to the uses of the natural resources of North Carolina for a more prosperous life.

Sanford was keynote speaker at the 14th annual session of the North Carolina Resource-Use Education Conference held at NCC on Thursday.

McKISSICK CALLS FOR ACTION AGAINST BIAS

CHAPEL HILL—Floyd B. McKissick, Durham attorney, called for a program of "social action" to fight racial discrimination in the South, Monday night at the University of North Carolina.

Speaking before some 50 students and townspeople at a meeting of the newly formed UNC chapter of the NAACP, the veteran civil rights attorney said social action, such as picketing boycotts and sit-ins is of valuable assistance to legal action in fighting segregation.

HILLSIDE COEDS COMPLETE SALESMANSHIP COURSE

Forty four Hillside High School coeds completed a basic salesmanship course at the high school last Friday, Nov. 10, and were awarded certificates by the Durham Industrial Education Center, co-sponsor of the course with the Distributive Education Department of the Durham City Schools.

Lindsay A. Merritt, coordinator of Distributive Education at Hillside, served as instructor for the eight hour course which consisted of lectures and demonstrations.
