very close to my heart. Of all the pleasures of life in which any of us can participate, music, both in listening and participation, can be wonderful.

Occasionally, I hear an older person say he cannot sing or even a younger person may say that. So what? None of us are opera singers and few of us have had training.

We could get fun out of singing if we would sing and not worry about how it sounds to other people. A teenager's voice is lovely because it expresses the enjoyment he is having by singing. The same would apply to just listening and singing along with the radio as we wash dishes or clean the house. The most enjoyable experience that one can have is to gather around a piano with the family and sing.

There are some music majors in our community I think should be recognized. Leon Cole is the church organist at West Durham Baptist Church and is an NCC student. Patricia Bowling, assists with piano playing at West Durham Baptist's Sunday School. She is also an NCC student.

Marinda Mumford, a student at Winston Salem Teachers College, is also a music major.

By JEWELLE MERRITT

In church, one of the worst things one can see is a person closing the hymn book after the pastor announces a song just because he can't sing or is afraid to sing.

I am hoping that all of you took at least one day to pay special tribute to the Negroes who have made great successes of life. In our economics class, Mr. Barnes, our teacher, read some of the poems pertaining to the Negro.

On Friday, Feb. 16, a group of Hillside High School typing students went to Henderson Institute to complete in the Eastern Piedmont District Typing Contest.

These students were Jane Sampson, Jewelle Merritt, Le-Etta Smith, Jeanette Walker, Shirley Taylor, Mary Mitchell, Amos Williams and Booker Kennedy.
