King Compared To Great Moral Leaders of Past

NEW YORK — Dr. Martin Luther King's "valiant fight against injustice" was hailed this week by Rabbi Joachim Prinz, president of the American Jewish Congress, as being "in the great tradition of the religious leaders of past centuries."

In a telegram to the Negro minister currently serving a jail sentence in Albany, Ga., Rabbi Prinz declared:

"The Biblical injunction 'Proclaim liberty throughout the land and to all the inhabitants thereof' must be more than a mere inscription on the Liberty Bell. It is given life and meaning by those who refuse to accept the continued existence of oppression."

"The members of the American Jewish Congress salute you and your colleagues in the Albany movement and promise their support for your ultimate victory."

S. degree at the Fayetteville State Teachers College in the Class of 1940. And after serving as a public school teacher for three years, he returned to the Howard University Dental School where in 1955 he was graduated with the D. D. S. degree in Dentistry.

Byrd played three-sets, to open the program, following intermission. These included: "Prelude in Gavott," by Bach; "Spanish Dance," by Gradados, and "Bolero," by Montoya.

Judge Orders Plush New Orleans Restaurant and Bar to Open

NEW YORK — Federal District Judge Herbert W. Christenberry this week ordered the luxury restaurant and bar at the Moisant Airport in New Orleans, La. to desegregate its facilities.

The decision was the result of a suit brought by the NAACP Legal Defense Fund in May, 1960. The snack bar and coffee shop at the new municipal airport had been desegregated voluntarily.

Judge Christenberry ruled that though the luxury restaurant and bar are leased to a private agency, Interstate Hosts, the lessee is subject to the "equal protection" clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. He based his decision on a 1961 Delaware ruling which invalidated segregated restaurant facilities in a Wilmington parking lot which was leased to a similar private firm.

Judge Christenberry added that even if only a few Negroes used the luxury facilities, all Negroes are entitled to its use for "the essence of the constitutional right is that it is a personal one."

The case was argued April 11, 1962, by attorneys A. P. Tureaud of New Orleans and Michael Meltner of New York. Other NAACP Legal Defense Fund attorneys for the Negro plaintiffs were Jack Greenberg and James M. Nabrit, III, of New York City.

In the South, 20,634 factories are manufacturing lumber, paper and other forest products.
