If Apples are Too Many Now, Why Not Freeze Them for Next Year?

If you're wondering what to do with all those apples from the tree in the backyard—or if you'd like to take advantage of the good buys at stores and markets—try freezing them.

Apples frozen for pie or sauce will retain good eating quality for 12 months to a year.

According to food specialists in the U. S. Department of Agriculture, you have your choice of three freezing methods: a sirup pack (recommended for apples to be used in fruit cocktail or as an uncooked dessert); a sugar pack for pie apples; or an unsweetened pack for dietetics or those who prefer to sweeten to taste later.

Select full-flavored apples that are crisp and firm, not mealy in texture. Wash, peel, and core. Slice medium apples into 12ths, large ones into 16ths.

Pack as follows:

Sirup pack—Make sirup of 3 cups sugar and 4 cups water. To each quart sirup add 1/2 teaspoon crystalline ascorbic acid.

Slice apples directly into cold sirup in freezer container, starting with 1/2 cup sirup to a pint container. Press fruit down and add enough sirup to cover. Allow 1/2-inch space at top. Seal and freeze.

Sugar pack—To prevent darkening of apples during preparation slice them into a solution of 2 tablespoons salt to a gallon of water. Hold in this solution no more than 15 to 20 minutes.

Drain.

To retard darkening, place slices in a single layer in steamer; steam 1 1/2 to 2 minutes, depending on thickness of slice. Cool in cold water; drain.

Over each quart of apple slices, sprinkle evenly 1/2 cup sugar and stir. Pack apples into containers and press fruit down, leaving 1/2-inch space at the top of each pint. Seal and freeze.

Unsweetened pack—Same as for sugar pack, only omit sugar.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — More than $48,500,000 has been paid in G.I. insurance dividends to those Korean Conflict veterans who exchanged or converted their "RS" insurance policies by the deadline date of September 13, 1963, the Veterans Administration reported today.

"RS" was the identifying designation given to the term insurance issued during the Korean Conflict.

Under provisions of a bill signed into law by the President on September 13, 1961, Korean Conflict veterans were given an opportunity for two years from that date of obtaining a special dividend by exchanging "RS" term policies to a lower cost term policy or converting them to a permanent plan of insurance.

More than 570,000 veterans collected their dividends before the expiration date of September 13, 1963, ended further payments.

VA officials estimate that approximately 68,000 veterans still hold "RS" policies. Although they may no longer obtain a dividend, they may still exchange their "RS" policies for "W" term policies that cost one-third as much or convert them to any one of six choices of permanent plan insurance: ordinary life, twenty payment life, thirty payment life, twenty-year endowment, endowment at age 60 and endowment at age 65.

Further information may be obtained at any VA office or by writing to the office to which the veteran mails his insurance premiums.

Machines Taking Over Recording Jobs at North Carolina College

The entire North Carolina College campus is becoming increasingly machine-record conscious as the college's Data Processing Center becomes more widely known and its equipment, personnel, and services expand.

With the use of data processing equipment for registration for the first time this fall, the impact of the center and its activities was felt by all segments of the campus.

Established in 1962, the center now employs three fulltime persons and utilizes ten pieces of complicated equipment, which include key punch machines, card verifiers and sorters, an accounting machine, an interpreter, and a test scoring machine.

The college owns seven pieces of IBM and Remington Rand equipment valued at approximately $50,000. It rents three pieces—two manufactured by IBM and one by the National Cash Register Co. Dallas Simmons, supervisor of the center indicated that when fall semester registration was accomplished through use of the center's equipment, it cut registration time roughly in half.

"This was the first time we used data processing equipment for registration," he said. "Although we began planning it last January, some problems still remain, but we feel, even so, that the time saved in registering students this way was about 50 percent."

MIAMI, Fla. — With registration for the November 5 election in Dade county just closed, Weldon Rougeau, CORE field secretary, reports that 5,587 Negroes were registered during the final two weeks of September.

Rougeau is in charge of the national Voter Education Project in this area. Since he arrived here 14 months ago, Negro registration has increased by 35 per cent.

A key factor was the county's establishment of sub-stations in eleven predominantly Negro areas.
