

Mrs. Symminer Daye Wins Ford Falcon in TIMES Contest

Mrs. Wiley Takes 2d; Mrs. Edwards Beats Artis for 3d

Mrs. Symminer Daye, well known beauty of 1033-A Cornell St., was declared grand prize winner in the Carolina Times fall circulation promotion contest this week.

An official audit of the contestants' reports made by an independent auditing committee confirmed the first three prize winners.

Mrs. Esther Wiley, prominent fashion consultant and model, finished second. Mrs. Effie Edwards, a late starter, came in third.

Mrs. Daye will receive a 1964 Ford Falcon as first prize. Mrs. Wiley will get a mink stole as second prize, and Mrs. Edwards will receive a portable television for third place.

All three prizes will be awarded at the halftime of the Shriner's East West high school all star football game at Durham County Stadium on Dec. 7.

This year's was the second contest in the series sponsored by the TIMES. Miss Hattie White of Durham won the grand prize last year.

Mrs. Daye who had led all contestants throughout the six weeks of the race, turned in a gigantic report in the final week to all but insure her victory.

She had been seriously challenged in the late weeks of the contest by Mrs. Wiley. However, Mrs. Wiley got off to a late start and could never quite overtake the front running Mrs. Daye. Mrs. Wiley did manage, however, to prevent Mrs. Daye from making a virtual run-away of the contest.

Mrs. Edwards, who was stuck deep in the lower standings early in the contest, made a surprising late showing to overtake Earl Artis for third place. Artis finished fourth, fifth, Mrs. Martha Rowland, sixth, Mrs. Esther Bland, seventh, Mrs. Carlisle Long, eighth, Mrs. Ethel Lawson, ninth, Mrs. Willier McKeithan and tenth E. A. Man-

Federal Policy In Housing is Blamed for Bias

GREENSBORO — The Federal government was last week charged at A. and T. College with the responsibility of bringing to a halt a process of integration in American housing.

The speaker was Q. V. Williamson, Atlanta, Ga., president of the National Association of Real Estate Brokers. He was delivering the main address at a luncheon, on Friday noon, at the annual Housing and Urban Renewal Clinic held at the college, November 7-8.

He told the group that desegregated housing in this country would have been far ahead had not public housing stepped in to build units expressly for Negroes and for whites, often removing Negroes from sections in which they had lived side by side with whites for years.

He said, "Then came the FHA which required that loans be made on the basis of homogeneous neighborhoods." He continued, "Now the Federal government is hard at work trying to undo its errors of the past."

He told the group that the answer to many national problems would be solved by the desegregation of housing supply throughout the nation, and "I am hoping that we will get an extension of the desegregation order which would require the desegregation of public housing for those units built prior to November, 1962."

A prominent government housing official earlier in the day referred, also, to the executive order issued last year which provides that all governmentally owned and federally assisted properties will be made available without regard to race, creed or color.

Oliver W. Hill, Washington, D. C., assistant to the Commissioner, Federal Housing Administration, said, "There are more than 31,000 homes, FHA owned, in this country, about 220 in North Carolina which can be bought by persons regardless of race."

He said these available homes are listed regularly, each month, and the information is available for the asking at local FHA offices.

Kermit Bailer, Washington, D. C., assistant administrator, Housing and Home Finance Agency, who delivered the keynote address on Thursday, told the group that the "Workable Pro-

Vote Drive in N. C. Starts

An intensive drive to register more Negroes in North Carolina will get underway late this month in the eastern part of the state.

The first stage of the drive will consist of a voter-registration workshop scheduled for Rocky Mount on Nov. 22, 23 and 24. It will be conducted by the NAACP.

Some of the organization's most experienced personnel in voter-registration techniques will take part in the three day workshop. It will be designed to train a cadre of workers to help conduct a massive drive for more Negro voters.

The campaign is the result of action at the NAACP state convention last month which unanimously approved a registration campaign. The full weight of the organization will be thrown into the drive.

Observers see the campaign as possible one of the most significant actions by civil rights organizations in the state in recent years. It was pointed out that the result of such a drive could have a telling effect on
