African Negro Becomes First Of Race To Head United Nations

Ghanaian Is Unanimously Named to Post

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana began his Tuesday as president of the United Nations General Assembly, and became the first Negro to hold that position in the organization's 18-year history. The retiring president, Carlos Romulo of Venezuela, told the assembly that the Ghanaian was the sole candidate and he would be elected if there were no objections. There were none, and applause burst out all over the assembly hall. Quickly, and without objections, an election was held and Quaison-Sackey was unanimously chosen for the top position. In other action the assembly increased membership in the U. N. to 115 by accepting three new members—Malawi, Malawi and Zambia.

RICHMOND—Formation of a Committee of Southern Civil Rights Attorneys for re-election of William R. Ming to the Board of Directors of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was announced here this week by Attorney S. W. Tucker.

Nearly 100 attorneys have pledged to work for Ming's re-election through their local NAACP chapters. Many have offered funds in behalf of the Chicago attorney's candidacy. ### 'Rights Attorneys Seek End of Ga. Insurrection

ALBANY, Ga.—NAACP Legal Defense Fund attorneys this week asked a three-judge Federal Court here to stop the "insurrection" prosecutions of two Civil Rights leaders in this strife-torn South Georgia city. The Legal Defense Fund brief was submitted in behalf of Rev. Samuel Wells of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and Donald Harris, a field secretary of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee. Rev. Wells was arrested last August 18. Both Wells and Harris were charged with circulating insurrectionary papers, and Wells was further charged with attempting to incite "insurrection," a capital offense under Georgia law. Legal Defense Fund lawyers last year defended Harris and three other Civil Rights workers charged with insurrection. At that time, the insurrection statute was held unconstitutional. Albany Police Chief, Laurie Pritchett, however, said at a hearing that that ruling made no difference to him. These recent arrests came three days after a Negro was shot and killed by an Albany policeman. Handbills were distributed by the Albany Movement announcing a meeting to decide what form a protest should take. After the August 15 meeting, Wells led a group of about 10 people toward the police station. As they were peacefully walking, they were showered with bricks and bottles. They subsequently presented a written petition to the police. Although they signed the petition, Harris and Wells were not observed passing out handbills. Legal Defense Fund attorneys filed a removal petition asking the Federal District Court to take jurisdiction on August 22. When this was denied, they sought an injunction to stop the prosecutions on September 15. At that time they also asked that reasonable

ROSE HILL — Negroes here have decided to go the Ku Klux Klan one better. In response to the threat, Negroes have simply decided to stay off the streets even during daylight hours. This means they will boycott all stores in Rose Hill, at least until Christmas said Charles A. McLean, North Carolina field director for the National Association

9 White Men Set Free By State Court

McCOMB, Mississippi—The Atlanta-based Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) said there had been more than 20 bombings or arson attacks aimed at local Negroes or civil rights workers in this Southwest Mississippi town since last April. SNCC said nine white men, among them the self-confessed bombers of Negro homes, churches and businesses, were still at liberty following the last bombing three weeks ago despite a judge's warning they would be arrested if bombing continued. The nine men were arrested and tried October 23. They entered guilty pleas, and were freed on probation after being sentenced to five years in jail each. The judge, W. H. Watkins, said the nine had been "unduly provoked" in the bombing attacks that included bombing a home where Negroes were sleeping and the bombing attack on the McComb SNCC Freedom House where 10 civil rights workers were asleep. Judge Watkins appointed to the

GOVERNOR SANFORD SAYS

South Must Not Be Judged By "Extremists"

Governor Terry Sanford, writing on "The Case for the New South" in the Dec. 15 issue of Look Magazine, states that the point has been reached when the nation "must undertake a deep reassessment of the South. The country's 'rosent notions'—he says—drawn largely from the activities of white supremacy extremists—are as dangerously out of touch with reality as the myths of magnolias and plantation so long cherished by many Southerners. New approaching the end of a four-year term as North Carolina's Chief Executive, Sanford, according to the editors of Look, "has supported the Negro's fight for equality more vigorously than any other public official in Southern history."

GOV. SANFORD

In his article, the Governor declares, "The Solid South is no more—neither in politics, nor in the approach to many problems, principally civil rights. . . . Its time the rest of the United States realized that there are decent white persons all over the South; that most Southerners are people of goodwill, with an enormous capacity for compassion; that the Ku Klux Klan no more represents the overwhelming majority of white Southerners than the Black Muslims represent the Negro. . . . He states that, in general, there is opposition to extremists white or black, and that there are leaders, men born in this country, who have resolved to improve the South's economy by improving all of its parts, and to bring about the orderly acceptance of
