MISS NELSON

Gail Nelson In Recital at Md. Baptist Church

SALISBURY, Md.—Gail Evangelyn Nelson, soprano, and daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. W. Tyler Nelson of Princess Anne, Md., presented a recital recently at First Baptist Church for the benefit of the building fund.

Miss Nelson was born in Durham where her father formerly pastored Covenant Presbyterian Church. He is now professor of sociology and chaplain at Maryland State College.

A 20-year old senior at Oberlin College, in 1963 Miss Nelson was chosen for the "student abroad" program and studied voice and music in Salzburg, Austria. Her recital at the church included selections by Handel, Schubert, Debussy and Gounod in addition to Negro spirituals by Manny, Johnson, Burleigh, Boatner and Price.

She was accompanied by Joyce Zaarski, her college roommate, at the piano.

After graduation in June, Miss Nelson plans to continue her studies in Austria and perhaps Italy. She has applied for a Fulbright scholarship and plans to accompany her father to Europe next fall.

SENIOR CITIZENS AT ST. TITUS' CHURCH HONOR TWO MEMBERS AT NOV. PARTY

The four November meetings of the Senior Citizens were well attended and much enjoyed. But the meeting to remember came on November 27—the birthday party of the month. Mrs. Hattie Meadows and Mrs. Ada Leach shared the honors. A pretty party it was, and a happy party.

A long table was dressed with a white cloth ornamented with autumn leaves; there were matching napkins. Two three-branch silver candelabra with white candles graced the table—one at each end. A small table, decorated also with the autumn leaf napkins, bore in the center its own single candle in crystal candle holder. At each end of the long table was placed a birthday cake; at one end, a pound cake sent by Mrs. Meadows' daughter; at the other, a cake with white icing decorated with green leaves, made by Mrs. Leach herself. Each cake bore one large candle to be blown out by an honoree.

Adding greatly to the prettiness of the feast was the chocolate and vanilla ice cream in checkerboard design furnished through the gracious generosity of Mrs. Geneva Burke, a recent member. Since it was not only birthday time but Thanksgiving time also, Mrs. Leach had brought a delicious pumpkin pie which had been given to her. Everyone had a taste. Peppermints and other candies completed the feast. Mrs. Gertrude Winslow read a beautiful Thanksgiving selection.

Gaiety and laughter and song, "Happy Birthday to you," greeting cards and gifts, the usual club gift for each honoree, and, above all, the hearty fellowship made the party one to be remembered.

BOOKLET ABOUT FAMOUS NEGROES IS PUBLISHED

CHICAGO, Ill.—The Museum of Negro History and Art recently announced the publication of a hundred page booklet, "Figures in Negro History." The booklet contains 140 biographical sketches of famous Negro men and women. It is well illustrated with fine drawings by some of Chicago's outstanding artists. The booklet has an index and is suitable for students and adults alike.

It was published by the museum because many teachers and parents complained of a shortage of materials about the contributions of Negroes to American life. The booklet can be ordered for $1.50 (orders of ten or more are $1). Mailing fees are ten cents per booklet. Address orders to: Eugene P. Feitman, 833 West Lill Ave., Chicago, Ill.

HOW TO WELCOME CHRISTMAS IN THE DOOR

Take a walk out your front door and see what your guests will see. Do you like it? Will your guests?

In the time left before holiday visitors begin to come through that doorway, you can perform a few simple tricks that will welcome them, and Christmas, in the door with a flourish.

Consider how the doorway, for instance, would look after a quick re-painting job. After the paint dries, you can frame the door with evergreens. For large wreaths, consider the grace of white pine, or a bluish fir that doesn't shed. For flat wreaths, English ivy is perfect. If you're undecided as to what color paint will flatter your house best, why not try a touch of history this year? A door that carries the new Colonial touch, offered by Pittsburgh Paints, recalls the gaiety of Christmases celebrated two hundred years ago, and more.

Do you have a picture window? Try placing a candle, a wreath or a spray of evergreens in it—remembering that too much of any of these can spoil the effect. The children might like to try a stained glass effect with vegetable colorings, artificial snow, even phosphorescent materials that will glow in the dark!

Naturally, welcoming guests in the door comes easier with a welcome mat. It helps make them feel invited, and serves also to keep dripping snow and mud from boots off your just-polished floor.

A branch or two of evergreen on the hall table makes the foyer scene more cozy; try spraying the boughs with enamels that dry in minutes. Pittsburgh Paints' pale gold, silver and copper enamels are especially effective here. In addition, there are the traditional Christmas hues of white, red and green.

A hint to complete the welcome you extend: extend the hallway into the living room through the use of a gleaming plate glass mirror. Bunches of holly tied with bright red ribbon, and boughs sprayed with white and silver, make the mirror a harmonious center of attention; it reflects the room's beauty and makes the house seem like one colorful Christmas welcome.

DR. JAS. THOMAS GUEST SPEAKER

Dr. James Thomas, who recently moved to Durham, following a post-graduate course at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Tuskegee, Ala., was the first of a series of guest speakers for the Durham Academy of Medicine, Thursday, Dec. 3 at the Biltmore Hotel.

The academy is composed of local pharmacists, dentists and physicians.

A specialist in internal medicine who has offices on Umstead St., Dr. Thomas spoke on Geophagia (earth eating), iron deficiency and Hypokalemia.

Afterward, Dr. R. P. Randolph gave members of the academy a review of a post-graduate course on Gastroenterology in which he participated at the Howard University College of Medicine on November 10.

Following dinner, the meeting was adjourned by the president, Dr. T. B. Bass.

HOLIDAY TREATS

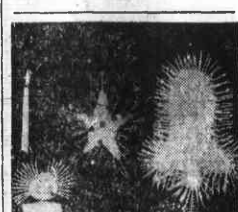

Christmas Red Jewels—true salad gems—can be made with a package of lemon gelatin, an 8-oz. can of Hunt's Tomato Sauce, ½ cup hot water, 1 T. vinegar, ¼ t. salt, ¼ cup sliced olives.

A fireside casserole which heaps meaty chunks of crab on a bed of rice is a good way to pep up family meals. This hearty dish, made with frozen Alaska King crab, is an easy tempter to prepare.

Dairy eggnog is a favorite treat at holiday Open Houses. Serve it with butter cookies, Jewel Butter Clusters, or Holiday Toffee, suggests the American Dairy Association.

A delicate angel gumpop star, frosty Christmas bell are easily assembled from marshmallows, gumpops and diamond round toothpicks. The whole family can pitch in!
