Boys Needed For Scouting Program

Scouting seeks to develop in youth of all ages a real Scout spirit through an active program with pledges and promises to follow. These pledges offer a boy a continuing growth in ever-expanding ideals. It is this kind of challenge that seeks to develop the boy into a total citizen in his home, community, and in the nation.

The Durham District No. 41 needs 300 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers, along with 25 adults, to reach its goal.

Boys not registered in Scouting were invited to a Christmas Party Saturday, Dec. 19, at the W. D. Hill Recreation Center. E. L. Kearney, Chairman of Organizational and Executive Committee

Pushes Talent Hunt For Careers In Medicine

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The National Medical Association's newly created Council on Talent Recruitment held a one-day conference recently with top officials of the U. S. Office of Education in Washington, D. C. on ways to implement the Association's program to recruit more talented Negro youths to careers in medicine and public health. Dr. Edward W. Brice, Director of the Adult Education Branch of the Office of Education, U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, was host to the conference. Dr. Edward S. Cooper, of Philadelphia, Pa., is Chairman of the NMA Council on Talent Recruitment. The Council is composed of fifteen members that are widely dispersed throughout the country.

The recruitment program was promulgated by NMA President Dr. Wm. Montague Cobb, at the Association's 69th annual convention last August in Washington, D. C., when he pointed out that the Negro population represented the largest untapped talent pool and that the NMA was particularly fitted to discover and motivate gifted youngsters at all educational levels, from elementary school through college.

Speaking of the recent conference, Dr. Cobb said one of the principal targets would be the gifted underprivileged youth who might otherwise fail to receive sufficient motivation, and that the barrier of low economic status to development of the talented was recognized as a major problem. To assist in this problem, Dr. Cobb recommended to the NMA convention in August the establishment

In addition to calling for federal intervention, Herbert Hill, NAACP labor secretary, said at a news conference here, Dec. 17, that NAACP lawyers were exploiting avenues to bring legal action against the discriminating unions.

A telegram to Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, signed by Hill and Harold E. Williams, executive secretary of the Cleveland NAACP Branch, asked that the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity

Two Hotels and Two Motels Open Doors to All

NATCHEZ, Miss.—Public accommodations for all, became a fact in this southwest Mississippi seat of racial conflict, Friday, Dec. 11, when 27 members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People successfully desegregated two hotels and two motels.

Led by Charles Evers, NAACP Mississippi field director, the group secured rooms in the Holiday Inn and Dumas Riverview motels and the Albert Pick and Eola's hotels. The party also ate lunch at the latter establishment.

Along with Evers, the bi-racial testing group included Miss Doris Allison, Jackson NAACP president; George Metcalf, Natchez NAACP president; and two out-of-state ministers — Rev. Malcolm Boyd, Episcopalian from Detroit and a Catholic priest from Indiana. The remainder of the party was comprised of local persons and those from Jackson.

There were no incidents although reporters and cameramen were driven away from Eola's Hotel.

In November, an NAACP group broke racial barriers in McComb and in July, a special NAACP Board committee did the same in Jackson, Meridian, Laurel, Biloxi and Gulfport.

The minister, the Rev. Frank W. Hutchinson, was appointed pastor of Davie Street United Presbyterian Church Saturday, Dec. 19 by the Cape Fear Presbytery. Rev. Walls said Monday that Rev. Hutchinson had not formally signed the call to Davie Street but he was expected to do so. Last July the church's pulpit was vacated by the Rev. J. Oscar McCleod who resigned to take a position with the United Presbyterian Synod in Atlanta, Ga. Since that time the church, which has 160 on the roll, has been served by George Walters, a student in his second year at Southeastern Seminary.
