

SNCC Report Bares Plight of Negroes in State of Arkansas

ATLANTA—Negroes in Arkansas receive only enough education to make them barely literate, have family incomes far below the U. S. Government's adequate level standard and are leaving the state at a high rate, states a special report published by the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC).

The report, a statistical survey called "The General Condition of the Arkansas Negro," covers population, death rates, population characteristics, employment, income, education and voter registration of whites and Negroes in the State.

The report shows that the median income for Negro families in the state is $1,360, whereas the U. S. Government's standard for adequate family income is $3,000.

The population of Arkansas has decreased 6.5 percent between 1950 and 1960 and 35 percent of the Negroes in the age 20-44 have left during this period. "Arkansas is a society of the very young and very old; those too young to migrate and those too old," states the survey.

The report is made up of twenty-six pages of comparative statistics charts, a n d graphs, accompanied by explanations and interpretive material.

This is the third report of this kind published by the SNCC research department. The two earlier publications are "The General Condition of the Mississippi Negro" and "The General Condition of the Alabama Negro."

The report is designed to serve as a reference source for SNCC staff, as a counterpart for the earlier publications, to indicate guidelines for future, more detailed studies, and to show how a large number of American citizens live in Arkansas.

Reports are available from SNCC, 360 Nelson St. S. W., Atlanta, Ga., 30313.

North Carolina Farmers to Merge With Future Farmers of America

GREENSBORO—As the curtain dropped last week on the annual convention of the North Carolina Association of New Farmers of America, held here recently at A. and T. College, it marked the end of the 37-year old farm youth organization.

As a result of changing times and attitudes, the organization and its membership of more than 10,000 members, will during the year merge with the previously all-white, North Carolina Association of Future Farmers of America.

The new officers, elected and installed at the final session are expected to serve only a part of their terms. Their principal function will be to serve as a liaison group, to complete details of the merger to become effective on July 1.

The new officers are: William McMillan, Spring Lake, president; Richard Wright, Catawba, first vice president; Walter Glover, Lawndale, second vice president; Daniel Blue, Lumberton, third vice president; Eddie Coley, Bricks, secretary; Ronald Goodson, Eagle Rock, treasurer, and Johnny McCoy, Fairmont, reporter.

Founded here on the A. and T. College campus back in 1928, the New North State Farmers, the organization has since flourished, operating as the New Farmers of America in 17 southern states, an exclusive Negro enterprise with objectives and programs similar to that of the Future Farmers of America.

W. T. Johnson, Sr., who as a high school youngster was a charter member and a part of the organizational meeting back in 1928 and is now assistant supervisor of Vocational Agriculture and executive secretary to the national NFA, made the official announcement of the impending merger at Friday's closing session.

Lt. Governor Robert W. Scott of North Carolina, who delivered the keynote address, told the youngsters, "We need today more youth who represent the healthy non-conformist attitude... youth interested much less in what they can get, but more in what they can give."

He said the nation needs the man who has not been just a spectator and critic, but the one who has seen action in the arena, with mud on his hands and face, persons who know the thrills of victory and the disappointment of defeat."

2 NEW EXHIBITS AVAILABLE AT PLANETARIUM

CHAPEL HILL—Two new exhibits explaining Project Apollo, America's effort to put men on the Moon within this decade, are now open to the public at the Morehead Planetarium in Chapel Hill, announced A. F. Jenzano, Planetarium director. The exhibits are on loan from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and will be on display throughout the months of June, July and August.

One of the exhibits visitors may examine is a one-tenth scale replica of the Saturn I launch vehicle, America's most powerful rocket to date. Towering twenty-two feet above the floor of the rotunda where it is on exhibit, the Saturn is detailed inside and out. Sections through panels and interior lighting aid in illustrating the details of rocket engines, fuel tanks and the intricate control and communications systems.

The second exhibit graphically illustrates the Apollo Command Capsule and the Lunar Excursion Module (LEM), the two spacecraft in which the astronauts will actually make their voyage to the moon and return. Also part of this exhibit is a replica of the pressure suit worn by the astronauts engaged in projects Gemini and Apollo. The exhibit includes a brief taped narration explaining Project Apollo, and changing color slides viewed on three built in projection screens.

Both exhibits are particularly appropriate this summer for their connection with the Planetarium's summer program, "Moon Base Number 1," being presented at 3:00 and 8:30 p. m. every day in the week. Jenzano pointed out, "They may be seen at any time during the Planetarium's public hours: 2:00-5:00 and 7:30-10:00 p. m. weekdays, 10:00 a. m.-10:00 p. m. Saturdays and 1:00-10:00 Sundays.

Shrinks Hemorrhoids Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. At all drug counters.
