

Labor Secretary Orders Drive For Displaced Negro Teachers

Washington, D. C.—Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz today announced the launching of a major and concerted effort by the United States Employment Service to assist Negro teachers displaced through school integration to find other employment.

The new program, carried out close cooperation with the National Education Association, will be focused largely on 17 deep-South and border States; where displacements are heaviest. It will match the teachers backgrounds with available jobs in education or in closely related fields. The full, nationwide network of State public employment agencies are participating.

Planetarium Begins New Fall Program

CHAPEL HILL — Tuesday, September 28 marked the opening of the University of North Carolina's famous Morehead Planetarium's newest program, "The Earth in the Universe."

Richard S. Knapp, opening narrator for the presentation said, "This program is a three side done: first, it will show our evening and weekend visitors all about the real and apparent movements of objects in the solar system; second, in so doing, it becomes a complete demonstration of the capabilities of the fantastic Zeiss Planetarium Projector; and third, it was designed to correlate with the current work in astronomy being done by 8th grade earth science students in North Carolina and Virginia."

During "The Earth in the Universe," Planetarium audiences will be carried on an eleven thousand year trip into the future, taken to the north pole and shown what the planets would look like if we could see them at noon. Also demonstrated during the program will be the phases of the moon, apparent motion of the sun around the earth, motions of planets both inside and outside the orbit of the earth and our own planet's wobbling motion, called precession.

"The Earth in the Universe" is at 8:30 p.m. each night, Saturday at 11 a.m., 1, 3, 4 (II), 5 and 8:30 on home football Saturdays and 8:30 p.m., and Sundays at 2, 3, 4 and 8:30 p.m. Teachers may make class reservations to see this and other special school programs on Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays at 10 and 11 a.m., 1, 2, and 4 p.m. "Earth" will continue through November 22.

"Through survey efforts of the N.E.A.," Wirtz said in announcing the program, "we already know of the dismissal, this school term, of at least 906 teachers as a direct result of school desegregation. Once the new school term is fully underway, we anticipate that a far larger number will be revealed. This represents a waste of well-educated highly trained, and experienced personnel in an area which can least afford such waste.

The new program will include these features:

- In close cooperation with the National Education Association and State Negro teachers associations, the USES will register displaced teachers. Specially assigned personnel will assist them in finding new employment in the educational field, or in other professions for which they are qualified.
- Extensive use will be made of the Employment Service's inter-area recruitment system to identify States and localities where teacher shortages exist.
- In instances where displaced teachers have to upgrade qualifications to meet the certification requirements of other school systems, special courses under the Manpower Development and Training Act will be initiated.
- Efforts will be made to determine job opportunities in Federal, State, and local government in the fields of public welfare, health, vocational education, and community programs. Particular attention will be given to the Nation's general need for social case-workers.
