School Employees Strike May Close Some City Schools

According to a report to local newspapers Wednesday by the Durham County Health Department, no irregularities were discovered in the schools as a result of the walk-out of 200 or more cafeteria and maintenance workers here Tuesday.

The workers quit their jobs following a refusal of the City Council to take action Monday night favoring their request for increased wages and improved working conditions in the city schools.

Dr. O. L. Ader, director of the Health Department, gave the report following visits to at least half the city school lunchrooms. His statement differed, however, from that of Charles Hobby, Central Labor Union president, who indicated that persons not holding health cards were being employed in the place of striking cafeteria employees.

It is reported, however, that seven cafeterias in the city school system have been closed because of lack of employees. It is also reported that in several instances inexperienced personnel is being used to fire school boilers, which is in violation of the law, the informant stated.

In spite of the efforts to keep the cafeterias operating and the building supplied with ample heat, it is predicted that should the weather become colder than at present several of the schools may be forced to close rather than risk boilers being operated by inexperienced firemen.

Hits Station's Policy of Discrimination

NEW YORK, N. Y. — The American Civil Liberties Union has asked the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia to set aside a decision of the Federal Communications Commission renewing the license of Jackson, Mississippi TV Station WLBT, and instead to order the FCC to hold a public hearing on charges of racially discriminatory programming made against the station.

The civil liberties organization disclosed today that it has submitted a friend of the court brief to the appellate court in support of the United Church of Christ, Aaron Henry, president of the Mississippi Branch of the NAACP, and the Rev. Robert L. T. Smith. The UCC represents a group of residents of the Jackson area who, in April 1964, opposed FCC's renewal of WLBT's license. They claimed that the station in all its programs on racial ques-

NAACP Fund Raising Drive In Full Swing

NEW YORK — The annual Freedom Seals campaign of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People got under way last week. Directing the special winter fund-raising effort for the 13th straight year is Miss Bobbie Branche of the NAACP National Office.

The Freedom Seals, used to decorate Christmas cards and gifts, are sold primarily through local NAACP branches and youth councils in cities throughout the country, and through the NAACP National Office, 20 West 40th Street, New York City.

Sale of Freedom Seals, in recent years, has become a major source of income for the NAACP during the months of December and January, according to Miss Branche. In 1964, example, Freedom Seals accounted for $99,369 or six percent of the NAACP's total income for that year. In 1963, sale of Freedom Seals netted $78,966.

Freedom Seals have not always occupied such a prominent place in the NAACP's income picture, however. In 1952, when Miss Branche assumed direction of the Freedom Seals campaign as one of her many duties in the National Office, the top figure was $35,000. Nevertheless, that was a long way from the $200 collected from the first campaign in 1927.

NATCHEZ, MISS. BOYCOTT TO CONTINUE

NATCHEZ, Miss.—Undismayed by the threat of economic reprisals, Negro citizens of this old Mississippi river front city have agreed to continue their effective boycott of downtown merchants until their demands are met.

The increasing effectiveness of the NAACP-sponsored boycott prompted a group of white businessmen to threaten discharge of all their Negro employees unless the boycott were called off. They also said they would call upon housewives to fire Negro domestic help.

RALEIGH — Hundreds of businessmen, educators, labor leaders, and civil-rights group representatives are expected to be on hand Saturday, November 13 at Shaw University in Raleigh, for the unveiling of a "Cooperative Training Post" plan for creating cooperatively-owned shopping centers in fifty North Carolina counties.

The trading coops (much like general stores) are intended to offer Negro citizens better credit, and fairer shopping opportunities, at the same time opening up new jobs in the coop stores for local citizens.

The coop plan was developed by a group called the "Planning Committee on Economic Security," led by Floyd B. McKissick, of Durham, National Chairman of the Congress of Racial Equality.

McKissick describes the coop system as a "plan designed to enable the Negro to help himself and a plan to save money on the purchase of food and other necessities of life, and to work cooperatively with voter education and civil rights movements. It is a plan to establish more than five hundred jobs within a two-year period."

The Planning Committee on Economic Opportunity has invited to the meeting representatives of the North Carolina Teachers' Association, NAACP, CORE, SCLC, SNCC, The North Carolina Publishers Association, representatives of the Old North State Medical Society, attorneys, businessmen, and others. McKissick says "While this conference is geared toward advancement of the Negro, it is by no means to be interpreted as solely and exclusively for Negroes. Indians and whites, as well as the labor unions, are expected to play a vital part in the functioning of the conference from start to finish."

The Shaw Conference is sponsored by the Planning Committee on Economic Security, with the assistance of the North Carolina Fund.

North Carolina College Adopts Speaker Plan

The North Carolina College Board of Trustees, meeting in special session Wednesday, unanimously adopted the speaker policy proposed by the special committee of the State Legislature concerning visiting speakers at state institutions.

Bascom Baynes, chairman of the institution's board of trustees, in a wire to Gov. Dan K. Moore, indicated that the unanimous adoption was in the form of a resolution.

NCC joins several other state supported institutions in adopting the proposal.
