WHEELER

J. H. Wheeler To Visit South Africa For U.S.

J. H. Wheeler, president of the Mechanics and Farmers will spend two weeks in the Republic of South Africa on a visit to that country sponsored by the South African Leadership Exchange Program, Inc.

During his visit to South Africa, which will include the cities of Johannesburg, Cape town, Durban, Stellenbosch, Pretoria, other cities and towns, Wheeler will interview a great many white and black leaders of that country.

This year's visit to South Africa is Wheeler's third to the continent of Africa. His first was made as the personal representative of former Secretary of Commerce, Luther Hodges, during his term in that office and was made during the International Trade Fair held in Tripoli.

Wheeler left Durham by plane Thursday afternoon. He is expected to return to the city on or about Dec. 21.

Judge Edwin M. Stanley, Chief District Judge for the Middle District of North Carolina, in a hearing held in federal court here Monday, November 29, denied the Durham City School Board's motion for a final order approving the Board's Freedom of Choice plan for desegregation of the city schools. The action was brought by Negro plaintiffs against the Durham City Board of Education.

Judge Stanley's denial of the motion of the defendants in the case is believed to have been influenced to a great extent by the U. S. Supreme Court's recent reversal of the Bradley case involving the Richmond, Va. city schools.

The court held on November 15, 1965 that the matter of racial integration of teachers should be considered by the court in conjunction with any final ruling on the Board of Education's "Freedom of Choice" plan.

Representing the defendants in the Durham City schools case were Judge Marshall T. Spears and Attorney Jerry Marvis. The plaintiffs were represented by Attorneys C. O. Pearson and J. H. Wheeler.

Thought of the Week: After 70 you look forward to a good night's sleep.

NEW ORLEANS—Two Mississippi civil rights workers filed damage suits in the Circuit Court of Leake County against white men they said attacked them "savagely and viciously" during an attempt to integrate a movie theater in Carthage on Sunday, November 14. Both suits were filed on Friday, November 19.

CORE worker Sears Buckley, Jr., of Canton, Miss., asked $10,000 damages from W. D. Martin who Buckley claims hit him on the head with a club. The Rev. Rims Barber, a graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary who is a volunteer CORE worker in Mississippi, asked $5,000 damages from a defendant identified as the operator of the Parland Gas Station in Carthage.

The cases arise from an attempt to integrate the Fox theater. Having been chased out of the theater on November 7, a group of 38 Negroes and CORE workers again attempted to integrate the Fox on November 14, but never even got into the theater; a group of 150 white men beat the integrationists and chased them away.

Buckley's suit charges that Martin "intentionally and maliciously" perpetrated "a savage attack" upon him and that Martin "struck Buckley violently on the head with a wooden club thereby inflicting severe and painful injuries to his person." The suit says Buckley suffered extreme "physical and mental pain, cerebral concussion, headaches and contusions."

Quote of the Week: "Pleasure butts in even where there is supposed to be business."

Wilkins Sends Telegram to Gov. Moore

NEW YORK—NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins has called on North Carolina Governor Dan Moore for a thorough investigation into the bombings that rocked homes of four Negroes in Charlotte and for "stringent precautions (by state authorities) against a recurrence."

In a telegram to the governor on November 22, Wilkins expressed the Association's confidence that the governor's office "and all decent people in North Carolina are outraged over (the) cowardly bombings in Charlotte early this morning in which the homes of Kelly Alexander, state president of NAACP, and his brother Fred, newly-elected City Councilman, were two of the targets."

Also victims of the pre-dawn attacks were the home of Julius Chambers, an NAACP attorney and recently appointed U.S. Commissioner in Charlotte, and Dr. Reginald A. Hawkins, a dentist who has been active in voter registration drives in the city and in efforts to break down the color bar in the American Dental Association.

Wilkins stated that "the NAACP cannot afford to lose or to have rendered immobile a National Board member like Kelly Alexander and North Carolina cannot afford another race hate bombing, fatal or not."

RICHMOND, Va.—The U. S. Court of Appeals was asked to decide today if Negro nurses are protected by the Constitution with regard to racial discrimination at hospitals receiving Federal monies under the Hill-Burton Act.

Attorneys of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc. are asking that three Negro nurses, fired two years ago for eating in the "white" cafeteria of Dixie Hospital, Hampton, Va., be reinstated.

The attorneys argue that Dixie Hospital "received Federal funds in 1956, seven years before the racial discharge" after promising that it would not "discriminate on basis of race, creed or color."

Negro nurses across the South generally work for less money than their white counterparts; are given separate facilities; assigned the less desirable work; and, are confined to Negro wards, for the most part.

The nurses in this case, Mildred Smith, Agnes L. Stokes and Patricia L. Taylor were among Dixie Hospital's Negro See NURSES 2A

HOUSEWIFE TO RUN FOR CONGRESS

MRS. SARA SMALL, Williamston housewife, who will make the race for Congress from the first Congressional District of North Carolina, is shown here with her campaign manager,

Golden Frinks, left, noted field secretary of the Southern Leadership Conference. At the right in the picture is Attorney Floyd B. McKissick, national chairman of CORE, who will act in an advisory capacity. Mrs. Small is the first member of her race to run for Congress from North Carolina since Reconstruction days. The Primary will be held December 18.

Williamstonian In Dist. Race

WILLIAMSTON — For the first time since the days of Reconstruction, North Carolina will have a Negro candidate for U.S. Congress.

Mrs. Sara E. Small of Williamston, housewife and mother of five, announced this week that she will run for the post in the special Democratic Primary for the First District made vacant on account of the death of Congressman Herbert C. Bonner. The primary will be held December 18.

Not since 1901 when George White surrendered his congressional seat to Claude Kitchen of the Second District has any Negro of North Carolina sought a seat in Congress.

Mrs. Small's entry into the congressional race in her district is considered a foreboding of other Negro candidates, for Congress, especially in other districts of the black belt where in many cases Negroes outnumber the whites but have been of little political consequence since Reconstruction.

Mrs. Small's husband is a former school teacher of Martin County who lost his job when she took an active part in civil rights. Small finally was forced to leave the state when he was unable to secure employment elsewhere in N. C. He is now teaching in New York.
