WSRC Goes to FM This Week

Announcement was made as the Carolina Times went to press that WSRC-FM would be going on the air this weekend, probably as of 5 A.M. Friday morning. According to the station management, WSRC-FM will operate from 5 A.M. until 11 P.M. or 12 midnight each day, duplicating on the FM broadcast band the regular WSRC-FM programs during the day and offering a series of similar programs on FM only after dark.

WSRC-FM is the second FM station to be licensed in Durham, and is reported to be the first Negro-programmed full-time FM service on the air anywhere in North Carolina. The FM station will operate on 107.1 megacycles, and will have a power of almost 3,000 watts. The coverage of the FM station is calculated to equal or slightly exceed the current WSRC-AM coverage.

Preliminary plans for evening programming indicate largely church broadcasts on Sunday night, but the Monday thru Saturday evening schedules will include public service features, popular and jazz music, a nightly hour handled by "Dr. Jive," Jimmy Byrd, who is now a radio station executive in Boston, Mass., but will be remembered by many in the Durham area as one of the section's most popular radio personalities, and newscasts hourly on the half-hour.

Station manager Jim Mayes revealed that Ray Henderson, known to radio fans as "Dr. Jocko," will be the announcer on duty at night. He will handle a majority of the station-produced FM programs, and is being added to the station's staff.

WSRC-FM has offered to broadcast the Monday night Durham City Council meetings live from the council chambers, but Mayor Grabarek has stated that some council members believe a broadcast might be a factor to limit free and open discussion of issues it is hoped by the FM station management that the objections can be overcome.

Cross Examination to Feature Lawyers Meet Here Dec. 11

Cross examination will be used as an educational tool to translate medical knowledge into meaningful facts for the court and the lawyers' clients.

Dr. Leonard Goldner, professor of Orthopedic Surgery at Duke University, will undergo intensive cross examination by some of the nation's top trial experts on the subject of broken bones at a seminar entitled "Damages and Settlement" to be held here Saturday, December 11 at the Duke University Law School.

Part of the Continuing Legal Education Program of the 20,000 member American Trial Lawyers Association, the seminar is designed to bring the attorney abreast of the latest, most effective settlement negotiation procedures, with emphasis on the medico-legal aspects of this changing, complex art.

Chairman for the seminar, Charles F. Blanchard of Raleigh, extends an open invitation to all the attorneys in North Carolina to become "students for the day" at the largest legal seminar ever held in the area.

Underlining educational impact of the seminar, law students at the University will be welcomed free of charge.

A faculty of distinguished counsel will present realistic trial demonstrations—the best, most graphic means to teach trial skills—and clear, concise lectures.

As educational aids, complimentary copies of two valuable texts will be distributed—"Damages and Settlement" and "Examination of Witnesses."
