Durham Atty. is Choice For Post Vacated by James Farmer

Floyd B. McKissick, new national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, announced here this week that the headquarters of CORE will not be moved to Durham. "I do not think it would be wise to move the operations from New York," he stated.

McKissick has lived here since he started practicing law 14 years ago. At present, he has associated with him as a partner, Attorney M. C. Burt, formerly of Burlington.

Since beginning his law practice here, McKissick has participated in many civil rights movements, both national and local. He is a native of Asheville and is a graduate of N. C. College and the University of North Carolina Law School. He is now 43 years of age.

He stated at a press conference here that beginning Mar. 1, when he will take over the full duties of the office of director of CORE, that he would have to spend most of his time in New York.

Farmer, who will then assume the head position with a national literacy campaign, said CORE's financial position has improved greatly since the meeting of the national convention in New York.

U. S. Government Admits Error In Trial That Convicted Six

NEW ORLEANS, La.—The U. S. Government has admitted error in the picking of juries which convicted six members of the famous Albany Movement in Georgia in 1963.

This confession of error came during arguments before the U. S. Court of Appeals here on the whole question of jury selection in the South. The court's decision in the several cases heard could have far-reaching effect on the jury system, which has been under attack because of bias in civil rights cases.

The unusual confession of error in the Albany Cases was made by Nathan Lewin, trial attorney for the U. S. Department of Justice, Washington. Members of the Albany Movement and friends throughout the nation had been pressing the department for such an admission.

Lewin asked the Appeals Court to upset the convictions of the Albany group, set aside their sentences, and order new trials for them. However, he did not confess error in picking the grand jury which indicted them.

Attorneys for the Albany defendants contend that the charges should be thrown out completely because there is as much bias in the selection of grand juries as in the picking of trial juries.
