The culmination of a unique success story will occur in Durham, N.C., April 1 and 2 when the dedication ceremonies for the new Home Office of North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Co. are held. Outstanding leaders in government, business, education, communication, labor, literature and the arts, religion and sports will be on hand for the dedication event of the largest

Negro life insurance company in America. John T. Connor, Secretary of Commerce and Robert C. Weaver, Secretary of the new Department of Housing and Urban Development will participate in the event. Secretary Connor will be introduced by former Governor and Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges. Assistant Secretary of Labor George L. P. Weaver;

Assistant Secretary of Commerce Dr. Andrew F. Brimmer, Brigadier General R. Wetherill, Chief of Staff, XVIII Airborne Corps of Fort Bragg representing the Secretary of the Army; and John A. Lang, Jr., Administrative Assistant to the Secretary of the Air Forces, Department of the Air Forces, Washington, D.C., representing the Secretary of Defense, Robert S. McNamara, have also accepted an invitation to attend. President A. T. Spaulding said when commenting on the upcoming dedication, "This new Home Office building is more than an office building. It is a symbol of Negro enterprise and of what can be accomplished by a minority group in a democracy and under the free enterprise system. It also stands as an eloquent witness to the indomitable determination of the American Negro to take full advantage of his opportunities to win his way in American life with dignity and honor." One of the features of the dedication will be a symposium which will trace the Negro's achievement and his contribution to American life in the past, present, and projections into the future. Key people in government, business, education, communication, labor, literature and the arts, religion and sports will participate in the symposium. When discussing the symposium, Spaulding said, "It is our feeling that the positive as well as the negative image of the Negro should be projected from time to time since the whole of his life in America has not been confined to the ghettos, nor all of his efforts to perpetrating crimes. On the contrary with his limited opportunities, he has demonstrated his power to become an asset in many fields; and, in many instances, has raised himself "by his own bootstraps." The symposium will cover the following subjects: Government, Public Policy, and Political Action; Education, Business and the Professions; Religion; Literature and the Arts; the Communications Field; Labor and Sports. Leading authorities from each of these fields will participate in the symposium and position papers will be presented summarizing the findings for each of the seminars. The formal dedication ceremony will be held Saturday, April 2. There will be an Un-

Former Durham Citizen Now Highest Ranking Negro in Navy

NORTH KINGSTOWN, R.I.—A soft-spoken native of Newport News, Va., and a former resident of Durham has been appointed the Navy's first Negro captain in over a century. The 46-year-old officer, Thomas David Parham, Jr., is a graduate of North Carolina College and was promoted at Quonset Point Naval Air Station Monday, March 21.

The Navy's first captain was Robert Smalls, a harbor pilot who, in 1861, directed a Confederate ship into Union hands and as a reward was named skipper of the captured vessel. Ordained in 1944 and commissioned as a lieutenant (j.g.) the same year, Parham was graduated also from Western Seminary in Pittsburgh. He said his Southern background and accent have been an aid in establishing rapport with seamen from the South. His accent, he said of Southern sailors, "makes them feel at home. It makes me understand them easily," he said, "and they can understand me."

Military service, added, has an equalizing effect on men. "When you come out of an environment with hostility and conflict, and come into one where that is not the custom, you tend to act accordingly," thus, he noted, Southerners tend to love their prejudices behind. Parham was released from active service in 1946 and from that year to 1951 he pastored Butler Memorial Presbyterian Church in Youngstown, Ohio. Since returning to active duty

Judge Purcell Finds Probable Cause in Case

In Recorder's Court Tuesday "probable cause" was found against Hubert Junious Johnson on charges of assault with intent to kill a state trooper who allegedly tried to rape Johnson's wife.

The trooper, E. R. Kirby, was acquitted of attempted rape by Judge W. C. Purcell who heard the case. Johnson, who had posted bond of $1,000, remains in custody until trial in Superior Court.

Testifying for the prosecution, Mrs. Johnson said Kirby called her Monday morning, March 14 to ask if she had called him. She said she answered "no" but said she wanted to see him about selling a car and transferring the title. About 11 a.m., she continued, Kirby came to her Cornwalls Road residence, and as he was sitting on the sofa, shortly after arriving, suddenly the lights went out. She stated since none of the switches she tried worked, she assumed the power lines were being worked on.

A nurse employed at Duke Hospital, Mrs. Johnson said Kirby jerked her bra off and started kissing her, unzipped her slacks and bodily carried her to the bedroom where he continued fondling her after removing her slacks. She said she was highly shocked and next remembers hearing Kirby cry out as he was being cut by her husband who was using a grass sickle as a weapon.

Mrs. Johnson, while being cross-examined, stated that she
