

New Bus Terminal to Open Near Weldon

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The new $75,000 bus terminal in the Oakland Shopping Center on U.S. 158, midway between Weldon and Roanoke Rapids, was officially dedicated and opened this week in special ceremonies beginning at 2 p.m. Tuesday, May 31.

Scheduled to make the principal dedicatory remarks is John J. Reardon, president of Carolina Trailways, headquartered in Raleigh. Carolina Trailways will serve this new terminal exclusively.

Also scheduled to participate in the dedication ceremonies are Mayor Sterling Pierce of Weldon, and Roanoke Rapids City Commissioner Floyd Andrews, representing Dr. Weathers, the Mayor, who cannot be present.

The new, air-conditioned facility replaces both the Weldon and Roanoke Rapids terminals.

Service from the Oakland Shopping Center terminal will begin officially at 12:01 a.m., June 1. Carolina Trailways will operate 22 schedules daily from the terminal to major cities east and west as well as north and south, including no change to the West Coast.

Designed for maximum passenger comfort and convenience, the new terminal features terrazzo flooring, tiled walls, and liberal use of glass, including the glassfront overlooking the shopping center. Five loading gates will speed bus arrivals and departures.

The terminal restaurant, which can seat 41 persons at a time, will be operated by Bus Terminal Restaurants, Inc. Thirty modern, contour-designed seats in the waiting room assure further passenger comfort while awaiting scheduled arrivals and departures.

Conveniently located ticket counters and restrooms as well as such unique facilities as a walk-in express room directly behind the agent, who will handle express shipments, are also featured in the new terminal.

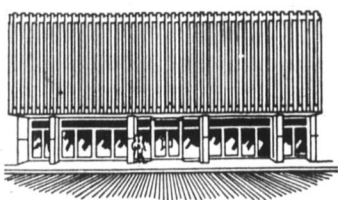

The terminal will be open 24 hours a day. Unlimited, lighted parking facilities are provided in the Oakland Shopping Center.

Beginning with the dedication ceremonies, a week-long drawing for men's and women's luggage will be held. Winners will be selected and announced on June 7.
