Julian Bond Winner Again In Ga. Primary

BOND

Named Third Time to Lower House Seat

ATLANTA, Ga.—Julian Bond last week won his third bid for a seat in the Georgia House of Representatives in the Democratic primary and is expected to win in the November general election, but the question now is whether he will get a seat as a legislator.

He has been denied a seat twice on the grounds that he supported the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee's criticism of the U. S. role in the war in Viet Nam. He is appealing his case to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Leroy A. Johnson, first Negro to be elected to the Georgia Senate in modern times, and Horace T. Ward, who was elected in 1964, again won nomination for the Senate on the Democratic ticket in the primary last Wednesday.

Mr. Ward has no GOP opponent, 26, former communications director for SNCC, has as his opponent in November a young Republican attorney who worked for Barry Goldwater in 1964. In the primary last week he defeated Malcolm Dean, an official at Atlanta University.

He was elected to the House first in 1965, when seven other Negroes were successful. Later was refused his seat and then won a special election held last February to fill the vacancy. He was again barred. SNCC backed him in the primary which was held last week, and is supporting him in the November race.

NAACP FILES SUIT AGAINST RE-SEGREGATION

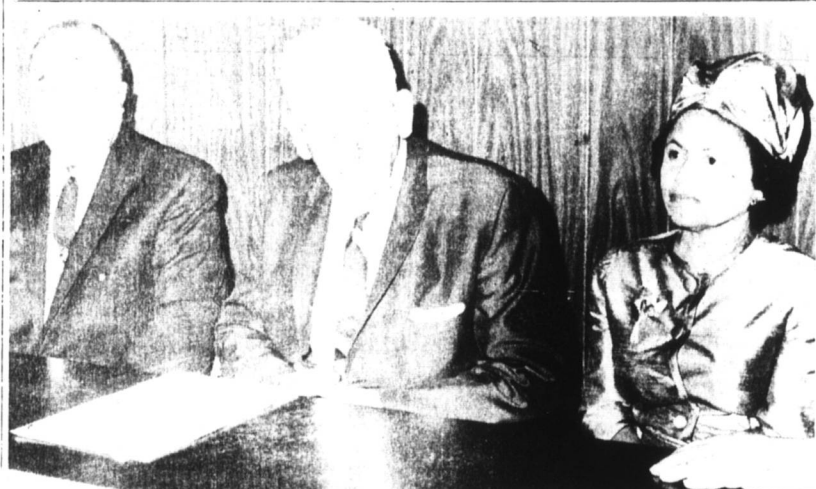

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—The Alabama State Conference of the NAACP, together with G. Y. Rogers on his own behalf and on behalf of his daughter, Gina, has filed suit in U. S. District Court in Montgomery to have Gov. George C. Wallace's school anti-guidelines legislation declared unconstitutional, and to prevent its enforcement.

Gov. Wallace recently pushed through a state law which rules invalid any compliance by school boards with the Federal integration guidelines. This move can cost the state $30,000,000 in Federal aid, and impose an additional financial burden on the state's taxpayers. The Governor has also or-

Contribution to LDF Announced By President

NEW YORK—Announcement of a $34,000 contribution to the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc. (LDF) by Jack and Jill of America, Inc. was made here this week.

Mrs. Margaret Simms of St. Louis, Mo., national president of the mothers' organization made the presentation at LDF national headquarters to Rufus W. Smith, LDF director of development.

An independent organization, the LDF serves as the legal arm of the civil rights movement. Its more than 200 staff and cooperating attorneys represent all major civil rights organizations.

In presenting the check Mrs. Simms said, "Jack and Jill feels that the Legal Defense Fund is the central and outstanding vehicle through which Negro Americans are attaining full equality day by day in our society."

Jack and Jill voted the LDF as a national project for a two-year period at its 1964 convention in Seattle, Washington. Mrs. Jacqueline J. Robinson of Washington, D. C., a Jack and Jill national vice president, See J. AND J. 6A

Prominent Minister of Danville, Virginia Passes September 16

DANVILLE, Va.—Dr. C. C. Harvey, prominent citizen of Danville, Virginia, passed away at the Memorial Hospital, Friday, September 16, at 5:30 a.m. He was born in Appomattox County, Virginia to the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Harvey.

Dr. Harvey, a graduate of Virginia Seminary and College, Lynchburg, Virginia, and Chairman of its Trustee Board, was the recipient of the A.B., B.D., and D.D. degrees from that institution.

He came to Danville over 45 years ago to serve as the pastor of the Shiloh Baptist Church and as the Principal of the Pittsylvania County Training School then located in the Almarco Section of Danville, Virginia.

Reverend Harvey entered the funeral business in 1932 with a group of ministers under the name of Apex Funeral Home which was subsequently changed to Harvey's Funeral Home, which he operated until his death. He also operated Chatham Funeral Home, Chatham, Virginia.

VOTE INTEREST IS CITED IN NAACP REPORT

NEW YORK—"In just five weeks, 7,000 Negroes registered to vote, and 500 parents filed transfer forms, due to our efforts in Louisiana."

Miss Althea T. L. Simmons, director of the NAACP Summer Project in Louisiana, cites these results as triumphs in a state where "pervasive fear seems to close down on Negroes even though they now represent almost one-half of the state's population."

"Not only that, but, for the first time since Reconstruction, nine Negroes ran for public offices ranging from Mayor to police juror. Two of them will be in the run-off election, September 24."

Miss Simmons emphasizes the carry-over values of the efforts of the task force workers who lived and worked in Louisiana during the project.

"Not only have we been able to instill hope among Negroes, but we were able to train a cadre of indigenous leaders who will continue to inform Negroes of their rights as citizens, and to encourage them to use all available economic and political resources to gain these rights."

"I attribute a great deal of our success to the work of our Congressional District coordinators: Joseph R. Davis, a Mississippi college teacher; Richard Dockery, NAACP Region VI director; Miss Joan Franklin, NAACP assistant counsel; Miss Mary Jamieson, NAACP Louisiana field director; Chas. E. Mays, West Coast field director; Phillip Savage, NAACP Tri-State (N. J., Pa., Del.) field director, and Julius E. Williams, NAACP Region IV director."

The NAACP placed its major summer emphasis on voter registration, and the transfer of students into integrated schools. Just over half of one per cent of the state's Negro children now attend integrated See REGISTERED 6A

Mt. Gilead to Observe Sunday School Promotion Sept. 25

Mt. Gilead Baptist Church, under the pastorate of Dr. Alexander D. Moseley, will observe its annual Sunday School Promotion Program Sunday, September 25 at 6:30 p.m. The theme is "The Challenge of Change in Christian Education."

John H. Pakenham, science teacher at Hillside High School for the past nine years, will serve as guest speaker for the occasion. He will be presented by Jesse L. Allen.

Other particular participants on the program as announced by Deacon Levi Mitchell, Superintendent of the Sunday School, are: Mrs. Ora Bryant who will read the scripture and Deacon Isaiah Ross, the invocation. Miss Deborah Jones will recite a poem entitled "Lessons." Miss Clara M. Allen, Chairman of the Program Committee, will lead the audience in the Sunday School Pledge and Responsive Reading.

Certificates of Promotion will be awarded to 44 pupils by Dr. A. D. Moseley. He will be assisted by Miss Josephine Bullock, Secretary of the Sunday School. Music will be furnished by Junior Choir No. 2, under the direction of Mrs. Jeanne H. Lucas with Mrs. Mudy A. Stone, as organist.
