Noted Leader Asks Protection For School Children, Adults

ATLANTA, Ga. — Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. this week demanded that the U. S. Justice Department act immediately to halt brutal treatment and intimidation of Negro school children and adults in Grenada, Miss.

In a telegram to Acting Attorney General Ramsey Clark, Dr. King told how Negro students at two integrated schools in Grenada have been subjected to physical and verbal abuse. He also emphasized that parents and children have been mistreated in jails after being arrested in peaceful demonstrations.

Seven arrested staff members of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference were taken outside jail in Grenada this week and beaten by local police and State troopers. They were denied medical attention.

The victims, all Negroes are: Lester Hankerson, 43, of Savannah, Ga.; Herman Dozier, 28, Birmingham, Ala.; Winters Knox, 26, Eutaw, Ala.; Bill Harris, 20, Albany, Ga.; and Robert Johnson, 18, Major Wright, 46, and Willie Kindale, 20, all of Grenada.

More than 100 demonstrators were taken to a State penitentiary at Parchman, Miss., where women prisoners were stripped of all but their undergarments and each male prisoner was issued a pair of pants. Mich. Solon Declares Fewer Negroes Attending Integrated Schools In North

Conyers Blasts Yankee Bias

JACKSON, Miss. — "During these last ten years of the civil rights revolution, racial segregation in the South has been decreasing, though much too slowly," declared Congressman John Conyers, Jr. (Democrat-Michigan). "During the same period, however, racial segregation in the North has increased. Fewer Negro children are attending integrated schools in the North than at any time since the 1954 Supreme Court decision outlawing school segregation," stated Conyers.

Conyers was the principal speaker at last night's annual banquet meeting of the Mississippi Council on Human Relations. According to informed sources a speech by a Negro political figure from the North to a State-wide bi-racial meeting has not occurred in Mississippi during at least the last generation.

"The brother who left home to seek the promised land of milk and honey up North has instead often found himself without a job and living in a crowded and fetid ghetto," said Conyers in the previously released text of his remarks. "His children go to inferior schools. The stores in his neighborhood offer poor quality goods at high prices. Public services are very limited compared to those provided in other parts of the city. He finds that the subtle and devious racial discrimination practiced in the North is probably more difficult to fight than the open discrimination of the South. He learns to his horror that no part of America is immune—that virus of racism infects the entire country."

"The Mississippi Challenge, last year's effort to unseat all the Mississippi Congressmen because of massive voting discrimination, inspired Negro Americans throughout the country to new and vigorous political action. See SOLON 2A

Plight of the Non-Academic Employees at Duke Revealed

Editor's Note: The following is an address delivered to the Duke University Chapter of the American Association of University Professors here, Wednesday, October 26 by Oliver Harvey, President of Duke University Employees Local 77.

Because it includes so much information pertaining to the awesome plight of the non-academic employees of Duke University, the Carolina Times is publishing the address in its entirety with the hope that its readers will give close and thoughtful observation of same. Due to lack of space in this week's issue of the Carolina Times, we have found it necessary to carry the address in two installments, first this week and the remainder next week. We trust, therefore, our readers will bear with us for our inability to publish the full text of the address.

I have been asked to avoid speaking about the need for a labor union on the University campus. I regret this because I think the real long-term issues facing non-academic employees are missed by avoiding this topic. I will try to confine myself to the topic assigned although I will have to point out some of the problems that make a union a necessity.

First I want to speak to you about wages. Maids employed on East and West campus earn from $1.15 to $1.25 per hour. Janitors in the same areas earn from $1.35 to $1.50 per hour. Nearly all employees in the campus laundry, some of whom
